Gizenga Is Censured; To Return

Pro-Red Premier Virtual Prisoner

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congo Parliament by an overwhelming majority censured Antoine Gizenga today for his defiance of the central Congo government. The pro-Communist deputy premier was a virtual prisoner of U.N. and Congolese forces encircling his residence in Stanleyville.

The government announced Gizenga had agreed to end his self-imposed exile and return to Leopoldville by this Saturday after his personal bodyguard surrendered Sunday to congolese troops. His capitulation came too late to avert the parliamentary wrath.

After a brief but angry debate, the vote in the Chamber of Deputies was 67 for the censure motion, a single vote against it, and one abstention.

Could Oust Deputy

The parliamentary action left the way open for Premier Cyrille Adoula to oust Gizenga from the deputy premiership he accepted last August but never actually filled.

One deputy said Gizenga's gendarmes who battled Congolese troops in Stanleyville over the weekend were in every way comparable to the foreign mercenaries fighting for President Moise Tshombe in Katanga Province.

Nearly 300 of Gizenga's gendarmes — his military army in Stanleyville—have been disarmed and taken prisoner by central government troops a U.N. spokesman reported.

One platoon of about 25 remains to be neutralized, but they were being rounded up in the bush around Stanleyville, he added.

14 Congolese Killed

Up to the end of fighting yesterday 14 Congolese troops were reported killed.

Thirty-four guards posted around Gizenga's riverside mansion laid down their arms after government forces waged a decisive half-hour mortar attack on Camp Ketele, home of the Gizengist gendarmerie.

No casualties were reported. Reports from Stanleyville said the United Nations was cooperating with the central government's forces in pacifying the remainder of Gizenga's disheartened forces, estimated to number about 200.

Gizenga messaged Premier Cyrille Adoula and asked for a U.N. plane to pick him up and bring him from Stanleyville, 775 miles northeast of the capital, where he had been holed up for four months.

Congolese sources did not rule out the possibility Gizenga might balk at the last minute and change his mind about returning.

INSPECTS DAMAGE TO HIS SAFE—J. Ellis Briggs, electrical appliance and heating dealer, whose establishment was burglarized early Friday morning, and $400 in cash stolen inspects damage to his safe. The Briggs showrooms are on Route 9W at the by-pass intersection of Albany Avenue Extension in the Town of Ulster. BCI investigators are continuing their probe of the case. State police said the safe door was evidently forced open far enough to permit tampering with the mechanism. Tools found in the showroom were used by the burglars. (Freeman photo).

Angola Issue Strains U. S., Portugal Ties

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Renewed U.N. debate on Angola today puts a new strain on ties between the United States and its Atlantic ally Portugal.

The debate was the first major business as the General Assembly resumes its 16th annual session after a Christmas recess.

Asian and European diplomats said U.S. delegates had told them it hoped the 104-nation assembly would adopt a moderate, meaningful resolution that would push the Portuguese toward self-determination for Angola.

But Portugal contended that the assembly had no right to even discuss its big West African territory. It maintained that all Portuguese overseas territories are provinces, not colonies, and their control is a domestic matter outside the assembly's jurisdiction.

May Quit U.N.

There was speculation that the Portuguese delegation would boycott the Angola debate as it did on a similar occasion last April. Sources in Lisbon have predicted that Portugal would quit the United Nations if the assembly censured rule over Angola.

Diplomatic sources said the United States probably would not introduce a resolution itself but would try to see that any introduced from Africa, Asia or Latin America would contribute toward (1) self-determination for Angola (2) a satisfactory settlement of the 11-month-old rebellion there.

Communist countries were reported seeking to get African delegations to put in a resolution that would (1) call on all countries to refrain from supplying Portugal with arms to use against the rebels and (2) ask the assembly's 17-nation special committee on independence for colonies to give its first attention to Angola.

Whatever the United States or the Soviet bloc might want, the 50-nation Asian-African group was expected to produce its own resolution on Angola and push it through the assembly with little or no change.

Before Full Assembly

The second part of the assembly session is expected to last four to six weeks. Angola is the only question before the full assembly.

The assembly's trusteeship committee still has to set a date for ending Belgian trusteeship over the little African countries of Ruanda and Urundi. Seven officials of those countries and Bel-

GOP Tightens Up Lines, May Be Rougher for JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are tightening their lines in this election year and President Kennedy is likely to find it more difficult to scrape up needed congressional GOP votes for his new proposals.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana faced realities Sunday when he said he was counting on Republican votes to gain approval of some programs opposed by conservatives of both parties.

Notes GOP Help

Mansfield noted that several key Kennedy bills would have failed in Congress last year if Republicans had not contributed from five to 13 Senate votes for them.

While some Republicans will continue to support specific Kennedy recommendations, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., said in an interview he thinks there will be more solid GOP opposition in Congress this year.

As an assistant Senate Republican leader who often lines up with the liberals, Kuchel is charged with finding out where his party colleagues stand on individual issues and with making

Commission Urges Bingo Revision To Protect Funds

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Investigation Commission urges revision of the bingo law to assure that receipts are used for the charitable and civic purposes intended by the Legislature when it legalized the game in 1958.

The commission, reporting Sunday on its investigation of the game last year, said it had uncovered infiltration of bingo by promoters and professional gamblers, bribery of public officials and diversion of receipts to personal profits.

Cite Inexperience

It described the State Lottery Control Commission as "wholly untrained and inexperienced in law enforcement" and urged revitalization of enforcement of the bingo law at both state and local levels.

The investigative staff of the lottery agency should be strengthened and reorganized "to improve the caliber, employment and use of personnel," the commission said.

Offenses cited in the investigative group's report paralleled those charged last Friday by Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr., who had been appointed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to investigate bingo.

Gilchrist said direct evidence had been turned up that some members of the lottery control group had subjected themselves to "varying degrees of conflict of interest."

Clarification Urged

The Investigation Commission said bingo regulations now limit the spending of bingo proceeds to "lawful purposes." It urged that such purposes by clearly defined.

It also recommended "meaningful and strict scrutiny" of bingo halls by licensing them separately from organizations that rent the halls for bingo.

Under present regulations, the commission said, promoters and gamblers have been "slipping by in the license of the lessee organization."

The commission also urged that members of sponsoring organizations who help run bingo games be required to have permits, through sworn applications, with photographs of themselves.

Carlino Backs Governor In Rift Over Tax Rebate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, contending that any extra state funds were needed for aid to education, backed Gov. Rockefeller today in a growing capitol debate over tax relief.

The Republican governor has said that rising state expenses will make it impossible to provide a tax rebate this year.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney is the leader of the tax-rebate advocates and has refused to surrender hope that some relief might be possible.

Carlino said he wished a rebate were possible but a decision was dictated by state finances. "We can't have a tax cut and provide for our needs in education and other vital areas," he said in an interview.

No final answer in the controversy is expected for several weeks.

Meanwhile, four Onondaga County Republicans have rallied behind Mahoney.

Sens. John H. Hughes and Lawrence M. Rulison and Assemblymen Don H. Brown and Philip R. Chase said in a joint statement Saturday they would examine Rockefeller's budget, due by Feb. 1, in search of spending items that could be eliminated in favor of tax relief.

Three Brooklyn lawmakers, also Republicans, joined the tax-relief ranks publicly last week.

The dispute centers around a 10 per cent rebate the Legislature voted last year on 1960 income taxes. Many Republican lawmakers, including Mahoney are concerned over possible adverse political effects in failure to continue the rebate in an election year.

The basic dispute is over whether the state is collecting more revenue than is necessary to meet state needs and, if so, how much. Current figures to arrive at an independent judgment on this question are not yet available.

In other state-government developments:

Legislation—Mahoney and Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Auburn, sponsored legislation to authorize trainiing for policemen iin handling race-relation problems. The measure, which also would provide for creation of human relations commissions on local and county levels, constitutes "a new approach to anti - discrimination," the senators said.

Job Development—The governor completed appointment of the New York State Job Development Authority, which will administer a $100-million program to stimulate economic expansion. He named Spencer V. Silverthorne of Beaver Falls, Lewis County, Howard H. Kimball Jr. of Elmira and Peter J. Brennan and James M. Nicely, both of New York City.

New Jersey Taxes — A bill to prevent New Jersey from taking over $27 million that commuters from that state now pay New York in income taxes was headed for final approval in the Legislature. The Senate will act tonight and the Assembly Tuesday.

Furnished Liquor To Youths, Gets 30 Days in Jail

An Ellenville hotel worker was jailed for 30 days Sunday for furnishing intoxicating beverages to teen-agers in that village, according to Ellenville Village police.

Carl Summerall, 47, was specifically charged with endangering the life and health of children, Chief Abe Rand reported. The chief said Summerall bought liquor and then turned it over to teen-agers, too young to purchase it.

The man was taken before Police Justice Frank Decker of Ellenville and pleaded guilty. He was given 30 days in Ulster County Jail.

Rusk Goes To Report On Trouble

Purchase of U.N. Bonds on Slate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scretary of State Dean Rusk goes to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on world trouble spots. One possible subject for discussion is proposed U.S. purchase of U.N. bonds.

A Closed Session

Rusk appears before a closed session of the committee as Congress members continue to voice their opinions of President Kennedy's proposal for authority to purchase half of a $200-million U.N. bond issue.

The 25-year, 2-per cent bonds would help pay the cost of U.N. perations in the Congo and the Middle East.

A Democrat, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, has been vocal and persistent in his opposition to the idea. Sunday a Republican, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, of Kentucky, swung behind it.

He'll Vote for It

"We've committed ourselves to it. We're in it and I'll vote for it," he said of the U.N. financing plan.

But, Cooper added on a television interview—CBS — "Washington Conversation"—the United States should inform all nations it will not continue such aid unless they pay up their U.N. assessments.

Elsewhere, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a member of the Senate committee, championed U.S. purchase of the bonds to help "clinch (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev's defeat in the Congo."

Calls Congo Worst Defeat

"The one biggest defeat Khrushchev has suffered in the last 10 years has been in the Congo," Gore said. "Success in the Congo, which means success in Africa, will represent our biggest victory since World War II."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., denounced the bond issue proposal Sunday, asserting it would provide the Soviet Union "a long-time escape avenue" for refusing to pay its share of the Congo operation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he is "hopeful that we can get through what the administration requested, and that is a $100-million bond issue underwritten by us which will be repayable."

The U.N. deficit is expected to reach $170 million by June 30. The world organization has been unable to collect special assessments for its Congo operations and its truce supervision in the Gaza Strip.

South Carolina Almost Records No Road Deaths

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — One highway traffic death was reported today, spoiling what officials had thought to be the first deathless weekend on the state's highways in memory.

The Highway Department said the state went without a highway death from the night of Jan. 10 until last night's accident shortly before midnight.

Earlier, a Highway Department spokesman said there were no reports of highway deaths during the weekend.

Wright Maines, 79 Retired Fireman Dies Here Sunday

Capt. E. Wright Maines, 79, a former Kingston firefighter for nearly a half century, died at Kingston Hospital on Sunday. He resided at 42 Fair Street.

A life-long resident of this city, he retired from Kingston Fire Department in May 1952 afer 44 years of public service. He actually served in firemanics for 52 years including eight years as a volunteer with Excelsior Hose Company.

Capt. Maines fought some of the city's biggest fires since 1900. He was promoted to captain January 16, 1943. He served during the transition from horse-drawn apparatus to motorized equipment.

Capt. Maines was one of the city's first 10 partially paid firemen. He received a provisional appointment on January 1, 1908, and on December 1 became a regular member of the department. He was employed as an ironworker before his appointment.

Was Weiner Driver

After serving a short time at Weiner station on Hasbrouck Avenue, he was stationed at Wiltwyck where he served from 1908 to 1914. From there he was assigned to central station. Later he was reassigned to Weiner station where he was the driver of the horses. In 1915 the Weiner station was equipped with its first 750-gallon motorized pumper and Maines drove that until it was replaced by a new one several years later.

The first big fire in Maines' early experience was that which destroyed the Mohican Market on Wall Street on December 26, 1909. Another which followed

May Initial Sweeping Agreement on Cutting Of Industry Tariffs

VICTIM HONORED—Mrs. Prudence Sims, 38, a polio victim, is congratulated by her children, Dennis, 10, and Linda, 3, after she was named March of Dimes' New York Mother of the Year.

Reduction Of 20 PC Foreseen

U. S., European Nations to Meet

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States and common market nations will initial a sweeping agreement to cut tariffs on many industrial products Tuesday, informed sources said today.

The informants confirmed reports that cuts of about 20 per cent on some industrial items are foreseen.

As to U.S. agricultural products, they will be considered in later negotiations between the United States and the European Economic Community, the formal name for the six-nation common market, these sources reported. They will involve wheat, corn and poultry.

Peterson Signs for U.S.

The agreement will be initialed by Howard Peterson, special adviser to President Kennedy; and Jean Rey, member of the EEC in charge of foreign relations.

The agreement cannot become final until it is approved unanimously by the EEC council of ministers, informants said. U.S. sources said the agreement also has to go back to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade organizations in Geneva, under whose auspices the negotiations began.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission to the EEC confirmed that a meeting had been arranged between Peterson and Rey for Tuesday, but said as far as they know, the meeting is not for the formal signature of any agreement.

Going Well, Report Says

"Everything seems to be going all right," the sources said. "Meetings of experts are taking place today to examine the last problems still pending. These meetings will continue tomorrow morning if need be."

The sources indicated that the French representatives had expressed some reservations about tariff cuts on imports of some American chemicals, but that it was hoped these objections could be met to the satisfaction of the French government.

Up to 20 PC Maybe

The pact, it was understood, involves up to 20 per cent reductions on hundreds of tariffs—more by the six-nation market than by the United States.

It also was reported that an arrangement had been made for protecting U.S. farm products in trade with the market.

The agriculture problem had

Bus Committee Asks To See Co. Records

A study of fiscal records of the Kingston City Transportation Corp. as a means of aiding in local legislative policy pertinent to bus service, has been asked by the Common Council's railroad and bus committee, it was revealed today by Alderman Arthur Smith (D) Eighth Ward, its chairman.

Alderman Frank A. Adams (D) Fifth Ward, whose bid last week for restoration of a cut schedule downtown, touched off a threat of ending all service, also today re-emphasized that the question to be settled is whether the bus line "can arbitrarily, and without recourse to some government agency and a public hearing, curtail its service."

Set Jan. 22 Date

Alderman Smith, in his letter to the corporation, fixed Jan. 22 as the deadline date of reply. If the company agrees to a review of its records, Smith said, he will call a meeting of the committee "at our mutual convenience."

Mrs. Thomas J. Gadd, wife of the corporation's president, who has been ill, today proposed that the committee inspect the records at the corporation's office 14 East Chester Street.

Will Be Glad to Help

"I feel that if they come there," she said, "they'll be able to do a better job. We'll be glad to help them and answer any questions they care to ask."

Mrs. Gadd reported last week that the corporation would seek to be relieved of its franchise by next June 30 but after talking with Mayor John J. Schwenk agreed to reconsider suspension of service and continue in business if the city cooperates in granting financial relief. The latter course she said should be indicated by March 15.

Smith's letter noted that as chairman of the railroad and bus committee, he recalled "several meetings held with representatives of your company on this very question" and that it was "requested repeatedly that you submit all your books and records" to the committee, and "not only these books which show a loss."

Wants All Records

The new bid, he said, was for "all your records and books, so that we can report to the Common Council your true financial picture."

The letter, Smith said, was "motivated in the spirit of cooperation and with a sincere desire to help you and the people of Kingston."

Alderman Adams, in his statement today felt there has been deviation from the "point at issue." That, he noted, is to get adequate service in the Fourth,

Harry Rigby Jr. Is Named City Historian by Mayor

Mayor John J. Schwenk has appointed Harry Rigby Jr., official historian for the City of Kingston, it was announced today.

Rigby is a well known writer, lecturer, and educational consultant on regional history. He is vice president of the Ulster County Historical Society, Hudson Valley coordinator and consultant to the New York State Civil War Centennial Commission, a member of the New York State Historical Society, a director of the Friends of the Senate House Association, and a member of the New York State Commission on Historic Observances. He also is a commentator for the New York Herald Tribune Radio Network station in Kingston on the history of the Hudson Valley.

Rigby's contributions in the field of education were recently recognized by Governor Rockefeller, who appointed him a trustee of the Ulster County Community College. A leader in the drive to secure a community college for the county, he served as chairman of the Citizen's Committee for an Ulster County Community College, and as chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee on the Community College to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors. Also, in the educational field, he is a member of the Adult Education Advisory Committee to the Kingston (consolidated) Board of Education, and he is licensed by the University of the State of New York as a teacher of history in adult education.

A prominent member of the Kingston business community, he is vice president of the Kingston Coal Company, a trustee of the Hudson Valley Oil Heat Council, and president of the New York Fuel Merchants' Chapter, National Oil Fuel Institute. He is a vice president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, a member and past president of the Central Businessmen's Association and a trustee of Kingston Savings Bank.

Rigby, who lives at 56 Plymouth Avenue, is a member of the Old Dutch Church, where he has served as senior deacon, and the Kingston Area Council of Churches. He is a member and past president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, and a member of the Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM.

HARRY RIGBY JR.

MAYOR SCHWENK CONGRATULATES THE CITY PLANNING BOARD upon receipt from Washington of a telegram advising that the planning advance of $94,350.00 for the Broadway East urban renewal project has been approved. Schwenk said he felt that although the telegram came to him as mayor, the credit and congratulations belonged to planning board members (left to right) John R. Shults Jr., Elmore Yallum, chairman, and James K. Ryan, former Common Council Democratic majority leader. "With your cooperation," Mayor Schwenk told the planning board, "I intend to move ahead with the Broadway East project at top speed." (Freeman photo).

U. S. Opposed Sale of British Planes to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department told a congressional critic today that it had opposed a British sale of airliners to Communist China but that Britain felt it had every right to make its own decision.

The State Department's position was stated in a letter from Assistant Secretary Frederick G. Dutton to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. The senator had protested the transaction to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In the multimillion-dollar deal the Peiping government late last year purchased six Vickers Viscount airliners. Since then Red China was reported to have begun talks for the purchase of a fleet of Handley Page Herald airliners. Earlier this month, the Rootes Group, one of Britain's biggest motor builders, announced the sale of 130 trucks to Peiping.

Cancellation of the sale, Dutton told Keating, would cause a bad public reaction in Britain "largely directed against the United States and, in the judgment of the British government, would cause undue harm to Anglo-American relations."

Dutton said the State Department was consulted in advance about the aircraft deal and told the British "we were opposed to supplying the Chinese Communists with these planes together with the embargoed equipment on them."

Dutton said the British also gave these reasons for completing the deal: The strategically important British aircraft industry is badly in need of orders to maintain employment; the political effect of this purchase of aircraft of Western manufacture would have useful propaganda value; and refusal of the contract would have greatly increased domestic pressures in the United Kingdom against the entire strategic trade control program.

Shippers Meet

DETROIT (AP) — Shippers of the Great Lakes met here today for three days of sessions on a variety of subjects.

One dealt with the reduction in the fleet. Shipping sources here say the lakes lost 81 vessels during the past year because of economic factors while adding 14.

The meetings brought together members of The Lake Carriers Association of the United States and The Dominion Marine Association of Canada.

Today's discussions were to deal with the U.S. and Canadian governing bodies of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Sentenced to 10 Years In Prison for Spying

TELAVIV, Israel (AP)—A top Israeli military commentator, was sentenced Sunday to 10 years in prison for spying for an unnamed foreign power. Apparently it was the Soviet Union.

Israel Beer, found guilty after a trial held mostly in secret, reportedly had declared after his arrest that he contacted agents of the foreign power because he believed that power would some day conquer the world.

GOP Tightens Up

it certain they are on hand when the roll is called.

Will Use Judgement

"When we Republicans believe the President's recommendations are in the best interests of the country, we will support them," Kuchel said. "When we think the President is wrong, we will oppose his proposals and offer what we consider constructive alternatives.

"On fundamental issues, however, I think the Republicans are going to be nearly unanimous. We all want fiscal responsibility of the type that the Democrats don't always demonstrate. We are going to do everything we can to see to it that the President's pledge of a balanced budget is kept.

What They Won't Accept

"If I read the signs right, there will be overwhelming Republican opposition to giving the President authority to cut taxes. And we are not going to accept any farm program that delegates to the Agriculture Department what would amount to the authority to pass laws in this field."

Kuchel, who needs independent and Democratic support in this year's bid for re-election in California, was not prepared to go as far as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in demanding a "clearly recognizable" line of demarcation between the Republicans and the Democrats.

Goldwater, a spokesman for conservatives, told the Republican National Committee conference in Oklahoma City over the weekend that the party's presidential defeat of 1960 may have come about "because we were not Republican enough."

Jap Patrol Boat Fired Upon by South Korean

HE GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment

A Few Months Later

Mr. T. A. Melton, Jr., of Hollidaysburg, Pa. (above) gave about 20 minutes of his time for an interview with the Erickson representative — saved and regrew his hair in only a few months with the exclusive home method.

Erickson HAIR and SCALP SPECIALISTS

World's Largest Home Treatment System

The Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists' Staff Director, P. L. Starkey on his regularly scheduled visit will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, N. Y., Tuesday January 16. Every hair-worried person should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Erickson method is known all over the United States. You can have a conference with the Erickson representative regarding your hair and scalp problems at no cost to you, whatsoever, learn how the scalp treatments work, and the results you can expect in a short period of time.

Results guaranteed by the Erickson organization. We don't ask you to take our word. You will be given a written guarantee from the beginning to end on a pro-rated basis.

The Erickson scalp method, or any other method, is of no value against excessive hair loss due to male pattern baldness. The person shown above does not have male pattern baldness. If you are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss the Erickson scalp method cannot help you.

If you have dandruff, excessive hair fall, thinning hair, excessive oilines or dryness, itchy scalp, or if your scalp is still creating hair you should take 20 minutes of your time to see what you can do.

Thousands have reported satisfaction from the Erickson Scalp Method. Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp? Anyway it costs you nothing to come in and learn how thousands have been helped by the years of Erickson experience plus the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Just go to the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston on Tuesday, January 16 only, between 1 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. Ask the Hotel Desk Clerk for Mr. P. L. Starkey, he will do the rest.

Interviews are given in private. You will not be embarrassed in any way.

May Initial

been the main obstacle in the 15 months of negotiations. That apparently was cleared Sunday when the Common Market hammered together a joint agriculture program.

When the deal goes through—and informants indicated it may be near the signing stage—the U.S. tariff reductions would be made under the authority already held by President Kennedy.

Such authority was granted by the 1958 enabling act of the reciprocal trade program. This is the program Kennedy wants greatly expanded to give him a freer hand in negotiating massive tariff reductions with the Common Market.

State Department officials said that one result of the agreement would be that the Common Market would lower its tariffs 20 per cent.

U.S. reductions—limited by the trade act—would be up to 20 per cent.

The agreement was worked out in Brussels with special presidential adviser Howard Peterson representing the United States in final talks with officials of the Common Market—which is made up of West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

In the Brussels meeting, the Common Market officials have been negotiating agreements for the second stage of a three-phase trade program.

Completion of the second stage after 16 days of tough horse trading smooths the way for negotiations with other European nations seeking to join the trade bloc and for possible bilateral agreements with the United States.

The market's goal is a united, economic giant that could compete successfully with both the United States and the Communist bloc.

Man Suffers Burns Fighting Oil Fire

A downtown man suffered burns of the hands in checking a fire resulting from an upset gasoline-burning stove Saturday night.

Donald Mapes, of 157 Abeel Street, firemen said, using a soaked blanket, quenched the blaze before they arrived. He suffered burns in removing the stove from his third-floor apartment after it had been upset by a youngster. A section of carpet was damaged in the blaze. Mapes was not hospitalized for the burns.

Units from Cornell and Central stations, the Rapid and Wicks companies responded to a call at 7:25 p. m.

A car owned by Freeman Cook, of Poughkeepsie, was reported badly damaged by fire early Sunday while it was parked at 240 West Chestnut Street. Units from Central and Cornell stations responded to the call at 3:10 a. m. Origin of the blaze was undertermined.

Escapes Injury

A Kingston motorist escaped injury Sunday when his automobile skidded and hit a telephone pole on Route 213 in Eddyville. According to the sheriff's office, Robert Gregory, 28, of 421 Abeel Street, skidded on loose gravel as he headed east on Route 213 in Eddyville and hit the pole about 1:30 p. m. His car and the pole were damaged, but Gregory apparently escaped unharmed.

Angola Issue

gian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak were on hand for the discussion.

The trusteeship committee also has to deal with resolutions seeking negotiations between Britain and British Guiana on an independence date for the latter, and an inquiry whether Southern Rhodesia enjoys self-determination.

The British government announced early today it is willing to call a constitutional conference in May to discuss independence for British Guiana, a colony on the north coast of South America. Cheddi Jagan, the colony's left-wing prime minister, has been insisting on independence by May 1.

4-Year Drought Broken In Central Australia

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — A four-year drought appears to have been broken over a large area of Central Australia, where cattle have been dying for lack of food and water.

Up to six inches of rain has been recorded over 180,000 square miles north of Alice Springs.

A week ago a great cloud of dust covered 80,000 square miles of this area. Today a thin carpet of green is spreading as grass begins to sprout.

Bus Committee

Fifth and Sixth wards, where there is now no service after 6 p. m.

Desires Legal Opinion

Adams said he felt the bus corporation has apparently taken it upon itself to discontinue the service and he seeks an opinion from Corporation Counsel Harry Gold as to their right to do so.

If the bus line shows its books, he said, he has been told by Alderman Smith that it "will be given a fair hearing." He also cited Smith's requests for the records, and contention that only those showing losses have been forwarded.

Mentions Inefficiency

"Could it be," he asks, "that the company is operating inefficiently? I understand they have one bus that is 20 years old and that it can get only three miles to a gallon of gas." He wondered also if the company "is using this operation for a tax loss against some other company?"

Adams noted an absentee ownership, which he felt was one "not involved with the desires of our community, as we are. If financial relief is justified by the records, this should be explored and expedited." The first responsibility, he held, was to the people and the second "to the profit and loss statement."

The alderman noted that the mayor was willing "to give them relief." The bus line, he said, has certain rights and duties as does the city. While the company is entitled to a profit, the city has its right to decide what is good for its people.

If the requested service is restored, he said, "I will insist that we give them some financial relief, if their entire operation requires it. I will not, however, do this under any threat or duress from the company." He felt that the company's recently reported intention of going out of business was an indication of "their disregard for the people of our city."

Again he said he left that the city would not be without service if the company surrendered its franchise. Others, he held, would operate on a satisfactory schedule. He felt the company's "ultimatum was ill advised and uncalled for. If cooperation is achieved, he felt, I am sure we'll all live in harmony."

Glenford Builder Heads New GOP Club at Hurley

Peter Weider, Glenford builder, was chosen to head the newly reorganized Town of Hurley Republican Club at a meeting of some 100 residents of the town Friday at Hurley fire hall.

Other officers named are: Eugene Hanney of Hurley Heights, vice president; John Marquardt of Glenford, newly named deputy clerk of the board of supervisors, secretary; Stuart Messenger of Hurley, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Goble of Hurley, corresponding secretary.

Outlines Program

Following the election, President Weider outlined the purposes of the club and said the objective was to keep the Republican Party in the town strong and to get more town residents interested in town government.

Town Attorney Robert MacKinnon was named temporary chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers of the evening.

Attorney S. James Matthews of Kingston spoke of the need for a political organization and urged that the town form a Young Republican Club. Councilman William West of Woodstock and Thomas Dendy, president of Woodstock Republican Club, then went into the organization of a Republican Club and told the audience how an effective club can aid in the election of Republican candidates.

Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., newly appointed Ulster County assistant district attorney, was the principal speaker of the evening. He said that a well knit political organization was one of the determining factors in the recent Republican administration in the City of Kingston.

Regular Club Favored

At the conclusion of the speaking program a motion was made and accepted that a regular Republican Club rather than a Young Republican Club be formed. Election of officers then followed.

President Weider, at the close of the business session, announced that the next meeting of the club will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 15, at West Hurley firehall.

5 Area Men Are Held for N. J. Assault Robbery

Four Kingston men and a former High Falls resident, charged with involvement in a reported assault and robbery at the home of a Park Ridge, N. J., man recently, were picked up by local and state police over the weekend and were returned to New Jersey this afternoon for hearing.

Arrested Sunday by Kingston police were: John Butler, 40, of 24 Hamilton Streeet; Donald Sickler, 18, of 35 Abbey Street; Kenneth VanNostrand, 25, of 51 Liberty Street, and John Wayne Ploss, 19, of 608 Broadway.

The arrests were by detectives Leonard Ellsworth, William Slover and Gurnsey Burger and officers Flyod Krom, Louis Sapp and Otto Short.

Fred Doremus, 19, of Mahwah, N. J. formerly of High Falls, was taken into custody there by Senior State Police Investigator Frank Steinkamp and Investigator Joseph Ventriglia. All had been reported as fugitives from justice.

It is charged that the five are involved with assaulting and robbing Maurice Broussely, of Park Ridge when they visited him Saturday morning at that place just over the New York-New Jersey line in the Woodcliff area.

Police said Broussely had been assaulted, and reported taken from his home were a coin collection of unknown value, cameras and some $70 in cash. Police said statements indicated that the coin collection was sold in New York City for $65.

Information obtained locally indicated that Doremus, who has been working in New Jersey, had Butler drive him there and the others rode along.

Says Police Need Special Training In Race Relations

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Police need special training in the "sensitive area" of race relations, Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said in sponsoring legislation to authorize such training.

He joined with Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Auburn, in a program they said constituted "a new approach to anti-discrimination problems and the betterment of intergroup relations in New York State."

Under the plan, announced Sunday night:

1. The Legislature would authorize the State Police Training Council, which sets standards for localities, to help communities train policemen "in peaceful handling of incidents involving racial problems."

2. The state housing commissioner would recommend ways to revitalize the Mortgage Facilities Corp., created in 1956 to help members of minority groups purchase or rehabilitate homes but, according to Mahoney, "conspicuously unsuccessful since its inception."

3. Cities and counties would be authorized to establish human relations commissions to head off any racial troubles.

The Republican senators said that full-scale race riots were averted recently in Albany, Ga., because of special training that had been given policemen.

The Mortgage Facilities Corp., they said, had approved only 18 loans in the year ending last October, all of them in the New York City area.

The corporation was formed, with banks and insurance companies providing capital, to lend money for home purchases in areas in which other property was deteriorating.

Farm Bureau Board Approves Final By-laws

The board of directors of the New York Farm Bureau has announced final approval of by-laws for its affiliated marketing organization, the New York Farm Bureau Marketing Cooperative, Inc.

In reporting the board's action, the organization's president, William E. Bensley, said, "Marketing plays a new role in determining a farmer's income because he receives no money until he has sold what he has produced. Farm Bureau's marketing co-op will provide producers of specific commodities as effective tools with which to make the marketing of their products more profitable."

Incorporated in early 1961, the new marketing organization is a member of the American Agricultural Marketing Association, a cooperative organization by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Bensley points out that establishment by Farm Bureaus in other states of a similar marketing organization with membership in the American Agricultural Marketing Association will provide the opportunity for coordination of marketing activities on a nationwide basis.

The board of directors of the Farm Bureau Marketing Cooperative will be William E. Bansley of Springville; Robert Greig of Red Hook; Harold Hawley of Weedsport; George Humphreys of New Hartford; Amherst Davis of Mt. Sinai; Walter Moore of Cazenovia and Earl Harding of Albion.

Industrial Body Might Produce 70,000 New Jobs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Job Development Authority, about to begin operations, might help produce 70,000 new industrial jobs and 120,000 additional service jobs, Gov. Rockefeller reports.

He commented Sunday night in naming four members to the agency, which will direct a $100-million program to spur industrial expansion.

The governor named Spencer V. Silverthorne Jr., of Beaver Falls, Lewis County; Howard H. Kimball Jr., Elmira; Peter J. Brennan and James M. Nicely, both of New York City.

They will serve terms ending, respectively, Jan. 1, 1966, to Jan. 1, 1963.

Voters authorized establishment of the industrial authority last November. At the same time, they put state credit behind $50 million of an anticipated $100 million in bonds the agency will issue.

Money will be lent to businessmen in high-unemployment areas to help them open new plants or expand existing ones.

Money from the state-backed bonds, which will have a lower interest rate, will be used in areas where the job problems is most critical.

The authority is authorized by law to lend up to 30 per cent of the cost of an individual industrial operation. The borrower must obtain the balance elsewhere.

The businessman will repay the state under long - term agreements.

To Lessen Friction

NEW YORK (AP)—A gift of $5,000 for Arab refugees has been made by the American Council for Judaism Philanthropic Fund. Henry S. Moyer, president of the fund, said the gift is to help demonstrate the fund's "humanitarian, nonpolitical concern for the welfare of the less fortunate" and to help "lessen the friction between Moslem and Jew." The gift was made to Church World Service, the relief and rehabilitation agency of the National Council of Churches.

Ramapo Catskill Library System Now in 2nd Year

January, 1962 marks the first full year of inter-library loan service to public libraries in Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and adjoining areas of Ulster County.

Through federal funds to rural libraries the Ramapo Catskill Library System obtained direct free teletypewriter service to the New York State Library in Albany in January, 1961.

With this assurance of speed in obtaining needed books, notice was sent to 36 libraries that books could be obtained through system headquarters to fill specific requests. During the first month 141 requests were received. By December of 1961 requests were averaging 600 a month of which better than 90 per cent are filled.

Inter-library loan requests are initiated when a reader wants a book which is not in the collection of the library to which he belongs. The request is referred to Ramapo Catskill Library System where the staff searches the union catalog representing holdings of its member libraries. If not available locally requests are teletyped to Albany daily at 2:45. Answers are received the following day.

When a book is not available from New York State Library or Ramapo Catskill Library System member libraries requests are mailed or Ramapo Catskill Library System member libraries requests are mailed to other cooperating institutions. These include the libraries at West Point, New Paltz State Teachers College, Rockland County Community College, Orange County Community College, Brooklyn Public Library. The reader may be assured of receiving most of the books he will need or of discovering where they are available.

A total of 5,190 such loans were filled in 1961 and the number of requests increases monthly indicating the expanding place of this cooperative service.

Inter-library loan service is provided in addition to the loan collections of books sent by the system to member libraries.

Kids About Shark, Then Has Narrow Escape as Diver

SAN FRANCISCO AP) — A brawny, six-foot skindiver told his wife, "I probably won't be back. I figure a shark will get me."

Floyd Pair Jr., 29, a Sacramento, Calif., milkman said it as a joke but he almost foretold his fate. Only the ending turned out differently.

Here's what happened Sunday: Pair came to San Francisco for a day's skindiving near the Farallon Islands 25 miles west of the Golden Gate. He was one of a party of 100 Sacramento area divers who had chartered four boats for the purpose.

At about 11 a.m. Pair went over the side of the boat, New Merrimac, a black skin suit taut against his body, oxygen tanks on his back, face mask in place, spear gun in his hand.

"I went down to about 40 feet," Pair recounted. "I chased a fish, lost him, decided to surface.

"Then it hit me, just as I surfaced. At first I thought it was a seal. But a seal doesn't have a mouth that big. It was brown, and every inch of 14 feet long. It hit me from the right side and started shaking me like a dog plays with a bone.

"I saw that it was a shark. I remember thinking first that it didn't hurt. Then I half remembered something I had read by a German deep sea expert, Hans Hass.

"Hass said to make a lot of noise and hit an attacking shark in the face.

"I spit out my breathing mouthpiece, began yelling, 'Shark! Shark!' at the same time I began jabbing at the shark's snout with my spear. He let loose of me and took off."

Two other divers helped Pair back to the New Merrimac. In minutes the water was cleared of other divers. A helicopter was called and took Pair to San Francisco's Franklin Hospital.

"On the boat they wanted to cut off my suit and look at the wounds," Pair said. "But I felt I needed that tight suit to keep whatever blood I still had in me."

Doctors described Pair's wounds as serious but not crippling. He suffered gaping leg wounds and a deep bite into a buttock.

A doctor said Pair's femoral artery just missed being severed. "If that had gone, he'd have gone too."

Mary Jack's Success

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Jack Benny celebrated his 35th wedding anniversary Sunday—pretty good for a fellow who says he is only 39 years old.

Benny and Mary Livingston met in Los Angeles while playing in a musical. They were married in Waukegan, Ill., in 1927.

Horticultural Meeting Here To Present Scientific Facts

The New York State Horticultural meeting will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 23, 24 and 25 at the Kingston Armory. The three day speaking program will combine the latest scientific information with the experience of growers. The trade show will have over 60 exhibits showing the latest in machinery, spray material, packages, etc.

A feature of this year's program will be William Luce, veteran county agent in Yakima County, Washington, who will talk on "Innovations In Handling the Apple crop in the Northwest. He will also talk on "New Strains of Red Varieties and Controlled Rootstocks and their future in the Northwest".

Other features will be Thomas Rich, manager of P & C stores on "Can We Cut the Spread Between Farm and Retail Prices", and Ben Dominick on "Savings by Direct Delivery of Apples from Farm to Store".

Many Subjects Covered

Other subjects to be covered are control of sooty blotch and fly speck, amount of spray material needed per acre, control of red banded leaf roller, performance of dust treatments in 1961 and spray recommendations for 1962.

Other important subjects on the 3 day program will be, prevention and control of fire blight in pears, control of apple scald and apple stippen. Growers will give their experience in apple scald control.

"What we are doing to Move More Apples" will be covered by L. M. Marvin and Rockwood Berry of the New York and New England Apple Institute, and "What the National Apple Institute is Doing for Apple Growers" will be discussed by James Moore, Exec. Secretary.

The use of bulk bins for fresh fruit and storage construction will be covered by the college experts and by growers that have used them. Getting orchards into heavy production early will be discussed by C. G. Forshey. Grass and weed control in orchards will be covered by Otis Curtis of Geneva, and by growers who have had considerable experience with the new materials.

A Must For Growers

This 3 day meeting is aimed at keeping the progressing fruit grower abreast of the times in a rapidly changing world. This 3 day program will do that.

TB Eradication Termed New Goal

Eradication of tuberculosis, not merely control, is the new goal of worldwide forces attacking the disease, according to Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, and Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, Medical Director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

New drugs opened up the possibility of elimination of tuberculosis and the "big push" toward that end was initiated late in 1959 by national leaders in public health and tuberculosis control.

Emphasizes Task

The statement by the two local officials emphasizes the task remaining by quoting federal and local statistics on the TB problem:

10,000 deaths in the United States; 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 in the world.

55,000 newly reported active cases in the United States. In New York State, Ulster County ranks third (next to Erie and Onondaga Counties) in new cases with an average of 49 new cases a year between 1958 and 1960, or a rate of 42 per 100,000 population. Recent statistics for 1961 reveal 38 new cases reported last year with 303 cases presently listed on the local tuberculosos roster.

Although the figures show much still to be done, significant gains have been made over the past decade, it was pointed out. The annual average rate of new cases reported in Ulster County for the years 1948 to 1950 totaled 112 as against 48 in 1960. This represents a decline of 62 per cent which reveals progress in which we can justly take pride.

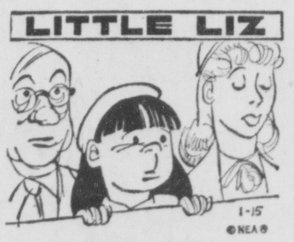
National authorities estimate that 35,000,000 Americans have in their bodies live, virulent tuberculosis germs. Two million of these infected persons will have active disease during their lifetime if the present rate of breakdown continues. Over 1,750,000 living Americans have had tuberculosis and many of them will break down again.

Tuberculosis, although now ranking 15th as a cause of death, is the most costly to government (the taxpayers) of any disease.

In reviewing these Department of Health statics, Dr. Holcomb added, "We no longer are working, just for control of TB, this is not enough, we can eradicate tuberculosis but experts feel it must be done now, in this decade, before resistant strain of bacilli emerges.

Authorities define eradication of TB as the "ultimate goal of having no human being on this earth react significantly to a skin test with a proper dosage of a standardized tuberculin; in other words, total bacteriologic eradication.'"

It is to this end that the National, State and local Christmas Seals groups are dedicated. We shall continue to work closely with the official state and county health authorities toward this goal which we share.



The average person's idea of a good sermon is one that goes over his head and hits someone else.

RED CROSS REPORT

The familhy is the very foundation stone upon which free societies such as ours are built. And, only so long as our belief in and concern for the family continue to flourish will they continue to thrive.

That most Americans so believe is shown by their generous support of those institutions that help keep the family strong.

One such institution, which has been a part of our lives for 81 years, is the American Red Cross.

Its annual report for the year ending last June 30 was issued this week. It is both an accounting of its stewardship of contributions from some 45,000,000 of us and a record of invaluable services for—and by—American families.

"Maintaining family solidarity," the report states, "is a main objective of the assistance made available to members of the armed forces and to veterans. Family rehabilitation is a crucial need of many disaster victims. Helping to ensure family health and safety is a major aim of the program engaged in obtaining, voluntary blood donations, is enrolling volunteer nurses and teaching home nursing skills, and in promoting safety education."

Our contributions of money alone, however, do not make possible Red Cross services to American families.

The Red Cross is essentially an organization of volunteers—two million of them—who outnumber the career staff 155 to one.

It is these volunteers—men, women and youth, the report points out, giving freely of their time and skills, who help make our dollars perform "not only uncounted acts of humanity among our own people but also . . . acts of mercy and goodwill far beyond our boundaries."

Girl caddies would improve American men's golf scores, says a petite French caddy. We're not so sure, but it might cut down on swearing over dub shots.

Taxpayers get 24 hours more in which to file returns because April 15 falls on a Sunday. It isn't more hours they need; it's more money.

INDIA PAYS A PRICE

While the extent of damage to the free world's image of India cannot yet be fully assessed, the business world has reacted sharply to the seizure of Goa and the other Portuguese enclaves. Within two days of the military takeover a large American corporation canceled its plans for a five-million-dollar production outlet on the Indian subcontinent. Directors of the corporation said their reason was evidence of the untrustworthiness of the Indian government.

It is not difficult to understand the reaction of these businessmen. Production facilities cost lots of money and when built beyond our borders are constructed largely on faith that the local government will keep hands off and let the project thrive. Expropriation remains an ever present bogey in the foreign field.

Nehru and company may have no such designs on foreign investments. They have so stated many times in the past. But this assertion may now be scant comfort to businessmen in view of Nehru's shattered word over Goa.

If the above mentioned cancellation were to "snowball," the consequences to the Indian economy could be extremely serious. Were that country to be deprived of this source of foreign exchange the Nehru government would hardly survive the shock. The prime minister had better give this possibility his carefull attention.

There'll be a congressional investigation of alleged "muzzling" of military leaders—but not much prospect that wild charges and counter-charges at the hearings will be muzzled.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE CONTINUITY OF ADMINISTRATION

Those governments which have a system of continuity survive longest. Until World War I, such countries as Russia, Great Britain, the Austro-Hungarian Empire could point to a thousand or so years of history. No nation in Asia has had a continuous record of so many years. China, for instance, has had a record of changes of dynasty which indicates a total lack of continuity. Many of the dynasties were foreign in origin. For instance, the great Tang Dynasty was foreign in origin, the Yuan was Mongol, the Taching was Manchu. The history of India is one of constant conquest of different parts of the country, leading to varieties of form of government.

Those countries which have been continuous have been most stable and their people have been protected from the startling shifts and changes of government by violent revolution.

Russia had a continuous history from the conquest of that country by the Mongols (1207-1238) to 1917. The Czarist government was not progressive nor was it, on the whole, beneficial to the Russian people, but its successor, the Soviet government, faces domestic problems which it may not be able to meet without further revolution. The loss of the Hapsburg Dynasty has been a disastrous episode in European history. Not a single successor nation has been able to stabilize itself, although little Austria is moving forward better than was expected during the past two decades.

The United States is a comparatively new country politically but it has had a continuous form of government for three centuries. The Revolutionary War did not alter the form of government. It only intensified its nature. The Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution did not change the form of government or the social habits of the people; they strengthened a form of government which had been continuous among the Anglo-Saxon peoples in principle since the Witenagemot, the earliest parliament, the conception of which was some form of repsentative government that ultimately, through many stages of evolution, produced the idea of government by choice.

And so, we come down to the year 1962 in the United States with John F. Kennedy at the head of a continuous government as he stands before a Congress chosen by the people to report on the State of the Nation. Not all the people favored or favor Kennedy. Not all the people agree with the policies of the present Administration, but those who agree or disagree are united in support of a continuing government. As the President stood before Congress, all parties applauded him.

There are always those whose opposition reaches extremist and unpleasant attitudes. Since the beginning of American history, there have been little movements of intensified opposition such as Shays' Rebellion, or the violence of Aaron Burr or the War Between the States. But no antagonistic movement has survived the strength of a continuous government. The result has been stability and strength.

When President Kennedy expressed his opposition to extremist movements, he anticipated for his country not revolutionary movements but a partnership in progress. What we must expect is not only political but economic stability. This has been the genius of the American system. While we do not have perfection in a free society we do labor to maintain a society in which freedom approaches equality.

The President's State of the Union message attacked no previous Administration; it did not assert superiority over its predecessors. It offered a program for the future continuity of the American system of freedom and equal opportunity. He spoke long but his speech can be summed up in a phrase, equal opportunity for all in a free society which in all sections of the country builds a partnership for freedom.

Despite political differences, this speech was a continuation of one made by Abraham Lincoln, of another party. But in 1962, a President of the United States can take advantage of science and technology to establish a better life for all our people.

There are those who are so prejudiced that they refuse to recognize new needs and new developments; who insist that this nation can grow in wisdom and strength without anybody doing anything about it. To these, it need be said that greater strength comes from constant renewal of strength. This is not radicalism. It is a constant movement in the direction of continuity and stability.

Worthy Work: Prevention Of the Mentally Retarded

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I've just had an interesting visit with one of our community-minded neighbors. She's captain of a team of 10 women, each of whom has volunteered to give a morning or an afternoon to the care of a mentally retarded boy.

This unfortunate youngster is the only son of a widow who lives on a nearby farm and who works five days a week in a local factory. She is understandably loathe to have her only child "put away," as she phrases it.

These good women have agreed to pinch-hit for her while she earns her living, for she is much too proud to accept anything in the way of gifts or money.

Now certainly this is noble and self-sacrificing work. It would indeed be most unkind to belittle what the members of this team are doing for the unhappy mother and the most unfortunate child.

Yet at risk of criticism, I presume to draw your attention to how much greater the accomplishment might be if these efforts were directed at prevention. For, upon guarded inquiry, I learned that no direct measures are being taken by this particular group to encourage a program of prevention at the local community level.

Here are some of the measures that might readily be undertaken:

Urge members of the PTA to expose teen-age girls to German measles (rubella) before they enter child-bearing years.

Establish a prenatal clinic. Encourage prospective mothers to avoid contact with any child having any infectious disease at least during the first three months of the pregnancy. Warn them, too, of the dangers of exposure to radioactivity except for an occasional film taken because of urgent necessity.

Recommend that each expectant mother give up cigarettes in favor of foods of high calcium, high vitamin, high iron content. Such as: milk and other dairy products (including cheeses of all kinds, ice cream and whipped cream desserts) eggs and egg recipes, beef and calf liver, pork and the less expensive cuts of beef or lamb, green, yellow and other deeply colored vegetables and fruits, vegetable and citrus fruit juices, salads and greens. Note that no vitamin supplementation is required other than a single injection of B12 just before labor.

Encourage breast feeding as soon and as long as possible. Not only for economy and convenience but to avoid "infantile eczema" (hypersensitivity to cow's milk) and even the later development of curious and little understood disturbances such as nonspecific ulcerative colitis.

And you don't need a fund-raiser, a drive, a big name to launch the drive, a committee of debutantes to sell tickets for whatever shindig is planned to raise funds, or an orator to orate to the bored husbands who have been dragged to the shindig.

"At This Point Your Government Will Come to Help—I Hope"

Washington News

By WASHINGTON STAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N. J., rubbed the top of his crystal ball with a dash of bitters and came up with these predictions for 1962:

"January — House of Representatives deadlocked over choice of new Speaker, applies the 'troika principle: one representative from NAM, one from AFL-CIO and one from the League of Women Voters . . . February — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall hikes up Capitol Hill in rain . . . March — Airlines propose capital punishment for passengers who fail to show up for flights . . . April —Fidel Castro invades South America with armed troops . . . May — Arizona attempts to secede from union; move hailed by Belgian lobbyists . . . June—Russian put 12-story apartment house in orbit around Jupiter . . .

"July — John Birch Society launches campaign to impeach Abraham Lincoln posthumously . . . August—European Common Market applies for membership in British Commonwealth . . . September—House of Representatives votes to abolish Senate as punishment for passing too much legislation . . . October — Newburgh, N. Y., closes down two hospitals on grounds that existence of hospitals is encouraging people to become ill . . . November—Sen. Strom Thurston charges that the Army is muzzling the K-9 Corps . . . December — Kennedy touch football team is invited to Rose Bowl."

ALL THE RADIO and TV networks brought their top foreign correspondents back home during the holidays, to show and sound them off. Eric Sevareid cracked that they now have more foreign correspondents than vice presidents, which is progress.

FCC CHAIRMAN Newton N. Minow is a close second behind Attorney General Bobby Kennedy as the object of the most snide remarks directed toward New Frontiersmen.

"In France a judge can act as prosecutor in his own court," comments one radio executive. "But in the United States it's the chairman of FCC."

Somebody sent him a New Year greeting card and penned in the wish for, "A more mellow Minow."

WHEN INFORMED that the Army had developed an electronic device able to count up to 10,000 raindrops per minute and calibrate them in sizes from one-one hundreth of an inch in diameter to one-eighth of an inch, one old Pentagon veteran snorted:

"Maybe the thing will be able to tell how wet behind the ears some of these new recruits are!"

THE PENTAGON is still geting letters about the Jack Paar-Berlin border incident. One indignant lady writes that in her opinion, Paar should have been busted to private.

WHILE RADIO commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. was answering questions after a talk to the right-wing "Human Events" political action conference, a delegate popped up, grabbed a microphone and asked:

"Mr. Lewis, when Sen. Barry Goldwater is elected president of the United States in 1964, will you be available to run the United States Information Agency now headed by Edward R. Murrow?"

WHEN PARIS correspondent David Schoenbrun learned that he was being transferred to Washington, he asked, "Will I have to learn to play touch football?"

"No," they told him. "You can always beg off saying that you have a bad back.

Balking Heard in Congress Over 'Neutral' Nations Aid

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Small wonder the State-of-the-Union message of President Kennedy got applause in the press around the world. For he said, in effect, that the United States will continue to pour billions of dollars abroad in "foreign aid" even to some countries addicted to Communist philosophy. America evidently will not demand anything in return.

Congress, however, is balking already. Many members do not like the fact that those Asian, African and Eastern European nations which do the bidding of the Moscow government keep on voting against the United States in the UN and open their doors to the Communist agents. Yet apparently President Kennedy will not withhold aid from such countries.

Represents a Change

This new pronouncement on his part seems to represent a change from the declaration made by Mr. Kennedy last year when, in signing a bill for another year of foreign aid, he wrote:

"It is my belief that in the administration of these funds we should give great attention and consideration to those nations who have our view of the world crisis."

Mr. Kennedy now puts it this way in his latest message:

"These programs help people, and, by helping people, they help freedom."

It is difficult to see how "freedom" is helped if Communist and totalitarian governments are supported with American money. The President adds:

"The views of their governments may sometimes be very different from ours—but events in Africa, the Middle East and Eastern Europe teach us never to write off any nation as lost to the Communist camp."

Moscow Unopposed

Moscow, of course, has been willing to look the other way when American money is given, for instance, to Poland—it relieves the Kremlin of just that much of a financial burden.

The cold fact is that Moscow controls every one of the Communist countries on its borders and is beginning to exercise similar control in southeast Asia and Africa and some Latin American countries by means of a well-trained apparatus of "technicians," students and other members of the Communist party who have been taught in Moscow how to run a satellite government. Again and again in the Middle East the local radio and press reflects the Moscow viewpoint, and this is beginning to be true also in African countries.

The President, in his State-of-the-Union message, went so far as to defend the "non-aligned" nations. He seemed to pass over lightly their alleged "independence" when, in truth, in most instances they are afraid to vote differently in the UN from what their masters in the Kremlin tell them. Mr. Kennedy said:

"We support the independence of those newer or weaker states whose history, geography, economy, lack of power impels them to remain outside 'entangling alliances'—as we did ourselves for so many years. For the independence of nations is a bar to the Communists' 'grand design'—it is the basis of our own."

But just three days after the President's message was delivered, a report has come from three pro-Administration Democratic Senators—Gore of Tennessee, Hart of Michigan and Neuberger of Oregon—which takes an opposite stand. The report was the result of a visit to fifteen African nations by these Senators as a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It says:

"We do not deny that the new states of Africa must be free to develop their own brands of political organization. But we do not believe American aid should be used to assist governments engaged in the systematic supression of free expression.....

"In some countries we found that our officials took the position that the United States found it necessary to put up with a certain amount of blackmail simply because there were certain installations there that we wished to maintain. . . .

"If African nationalistic myopia toward basic issues involved in the struggle between the free and the Communist worlds leads only to abstention on important votes in the United Nations or to a neutrality measured by a desire always to be on dead center in free world-Communist bloc issues of principle, African states will repidly lose their influence in world forums."

Critical Gahana Ald

The Senators singled out Ghana for criticism and questioned whether American aid to the $360-million Volta River project will promote the kind of "freedom" espoused in President Kennedy's address. The Senators' report says:

"Unfortunately the domestic policies of Ghana in recent months, including the imprisonment of some 400 political opponents and the enactment of laws apparently designed to intimidate those who would express anti-government views, have raised serious doubts as to whether United States aid for the Volta River project will in fact promote independence and individual freedom for the people of Ghana. We hope we are wrong!"

What the three Democratic Senators say is mild in comparison with the emphatic disagreements which are being expressed by other members of Congress. For the speech of the President looks like a one-way street as America doles out billions to the "non-aligned" countries and gets no assurance of any benefit to American taxpayers. This could become a campaign issue next autumn.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TUCSON, ARIZ., Jan. 14—I saw Squire Reid on the Oracle Road today, first time in months, and I hear he doesn't hustle as fast as he hustled me back around '41 when he devilled me almost wild to put a little money into a dismal jungle of mesquite, greaswood, Indian weed and various cacti down a great, wide ravine in the desert. It was offered at $25 an acre, but Squire Reid kept saying "Let me have an offer to take to this fellow." He said, "You might get it for $20 - or $18." He said, "Why not take a hundred acres, part cash? Pay it out on time."

But I had already bought the home patch over on Magee Road, a mile to the north and on high ground, and that was enough desert for me. I was king of my own 40 acres. The nearest neighbors, a wealthy retired reporter from the old New York Evening World, and his wife, a big, rough-hewn greying blonde originally from Globe, Ariz, were close enough, but we were mutually concealed by the leaping cactus called cholla, by prickly pears and palos verdes and all like that.

Hamish McLaurin came of a clan of Scots in North Dakota who had squirrelled a bundle of money. Amie, his wife, had a load of her own. They had met in some such place as Rector's or Bustanoby's in New York just after the First War. Somehow he had taken up yoga and had written a book which seemed to be a master work called "Eastern Philosophy for Western minds." He was a bad asthmatic and over 60, but, given a couple of drams of bourbon about half-past five, he could stand on his head and sing "Wee Deoch and Doris." Amie could cross her feet in her lap notwithstanding arthritis and finger-joints the size of crabapples.

They are gone now, and the wilderness again is almost a jungle between the old McLaurin place and mine.

One night about '45 I headed east on the Ina Road from the Casa Grande Road, belting for home before dark, which clanks down like an iron curtain. The Ina Road was just a broken line on the county maps, but there was a cattle trail meandering into the jungle. I jumped off on a gamble. I came on a desert rat with ivory whiskers tenting down for the night. He had a can on his little fire. His burros were hobbled. He had a cask of water. Two dogs growled at me. The old man had no "howdy" for me—intruding on his privacy that way.

It was years before the county put the Ina Road through from the Oracle Road to the Casa Grande Road, with a blacktop through the sandy stretch at the bottom of the valley. And about then some promoter from Chicago, a contractor named Sam Nanini, bought up the whole floor of the valley and drilled four or five wells, about 18-inch bore and some hundreds of feet deep. He hired some Indian and Mexican help and cleared the brush and put in irrigation to raise Pima County cotton.

Gus Borego, a retired cavalry soldier, took up a homestead claim of about a square mile a little north of Nanini's and built him a shack and corral and some hovels for pigs which he fed on garbage from the Santa Rita Hotel and hamburger joints. Gus was a very kind, neighborly fellow. His health was failing and he asked Nanini to buy him out. He wanted $15,000. Sam offered $12,000. I was away most of the time and I finally heard Gus had died and that his homestead patch had been sold to some third party for $80,000.

For three years, Nanini has been taking me to hilltops and pointing out the tees, greens, lakes and traps and the clubhouse site of the proposed Tucson National Golf Club. You give such a dreamer a measure of patience, but it was getting monotonous. Meanwhile, Sam had built a truly beautiful village center called Casas Adobes and a couple of hundred homes. But there was no activity in the Tucson National Golf Club until three weeks ago. Then the rumble and grunt of machinery became not only insistent but incessant around the clock down the valley where I had fought off Squire Reid and his darned bargain back in '41. All night these earthmovers clank and carry on like dragons, piercing the desert quiet with their noise and the starry blackness with their flashing beams. They make 35 miles an hour loaded with 20 yards of earth, much of it phenomenal black loam.

My bargain will be in grass in February or March and under golf before summer is out.

Sam Nanini, an immigrant kid from Italy around 1910, labored for a dollar a day in Alaska his first year over from Naples. Now he whips up and down bunkers and axle-deep in a little German Mercedes.

The water lines are going in and the gas will be piped in soon. The electric light and power lines are going underground. Next will come the enticing sample houses and the gentlemanly real estate salesmen with their charts and contracts, offering acre lots from, say, around $8,000 up. All on those $25 acres down in the old wilderness where the hermit desert rat was fixing to fry a few strips of bacon to go with his sour dough and coffee that eventide in 1941.

Stone Ridge Man Named to Head Holstein Group

Ralph Buswell, manager of Ridgely Farms at Stone Ridge, who was elected president of the U.S.O. Holstein Club for 1962 at the November annual meeting, has assumed the duties of that office. Other officers are Williard Palen of Goshen, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. Mino Menendez of Walden, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the board of directors are Nicholas Kolk of Goshen, M. J. Smith of Wallkill, J. Blake Winter of Middletown, Arthur Maier of New Hurley, Mrs. Margaret Hillriegel of Calicoon and Russell Buswell of Washingtonville.

Named a Director

Franklin Kelder of Accord is state director; Joseph Brill of Stone Ridge, milk marketing representative; Mrs. Elizabeth Barnhart of Stone Ridge, news reporter, and Mrs. Margaret Hillriegel of Callicoon, junior activities.

A program of activities for the 1962 season has been outlined. The next meeting will be at Pine Bush on February 8, with Jack Thorn as chairman. The March 29 meeting will be at Gardiner with Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt as chairman. On April 19 the spring banquet meeting will be held at New Hurley with Arthur Maier, Margaret Hillriegel and Nicholas Kolk as chairmen.

A calf will be awarded to a junior member of the U.S.O. Club who is present at the meeting. There will also be other awards at that meeting.

The Black and White Show will be held at Middletown on July 28, and Willard Palen will be chairman of that session.

The U.S.O. sponsored tour will be held in August with Lloyd Peavey and Franklin Kelder as co-chairmen. The date and program for this tour will be announced later.

Plan Consignments

For the annual calf sale in October Leonard Baird will serve as chairman. Consignments will be made by U.S.O. breeders for the purpose of giving young Holstein people a chance to purchase calves.

The November meeting will be held at Goshen with Nicholas Kolk as chairman.

Plane Leaves for Home

MADRID, Spain (AP)—The U.S. Air Force's record-smashing B52H Superbomber left Torrejon Air Base near Madrid today for its home base at Minto, N.D.

In a flight without refueling from Okinawa to Madrid last week the eight-engine jet claimed 11 new records, including a world mark of 12,519 miles for distance in flight without refueling.

Says Indonesian Boat Sunk by Dutch

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—An Indonesian motor torpedo boat has been sunk by Dutch warships in Dutch territorial waters off New Guinea, a navy spokesman said today.

The engagement took place when Dutch patrol vessels encountered a number of Indonesian motor torpedo boats, the navy spokesman said. He had no information on the fate of the other torpedo boats.

The Dutch news agency in The Hague said the engagement took place Sunday night.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Profit taking clipped New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 at 256.00 with industrials up .40, rails up .30 and utilities up .20.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional, some going to a point or so.

Central and Pennsy were affected by profit taking following their rise in anticipation of the merger agreement announced late Friday. Behind the selling also was the belief that the roads have a long haul before the merger can be actually consummated, if it ever is.

Gains by other carriers kept up the rail average, however, thus

Fallout Shelters Topic of Letters To School Head

SAUGERTIES, Jan. 15 — A communication has just been received by the local School Superintendent, Dr. Grant D. Morse, from the Executive Committee of the American Association of School Administrators on the subject of fallout shelters. Since this is a topic that is in the minds of many people, a digest of this letter may be of of interest to many readers. Here are some excerpts from this letter:

"Concern about constructing fallout shelters to protect people in towns and cities as well as the open countryside in case of thermonuclear bombing attacks has reached nationwide proportions. The Kennedy Administration has encouraged the development of protective measures. Several state governments have taken action. The debate rages furiously in magazines, on TV, and on the editorial pages of prominent newspapers. Citizens in almost every community manifest a sense of uneasiness. Many business organizations have developed products to be used in constructing and equipping shelters. There is much to sell.

"The officers and staff of AASA have had urgent requests from school administrators relative to the steps they and their school boards should take. Weeks ago the AASA staff asked advice from the Secretary of Defense. None has been received. While awaiting reliable information on which to base specific suggestions, your Executive Committee is sending you this statement.

Lacking Information

"Reliable information is lacking about the structure and nature of adequate facilities; the destructive potential of mass thermonuclear explosions and the intensity, nature, and duration of the fallout hazard; the extent to which water and food supplies will be contaminated beyond use; the effect on plant and animal life; the area of saturation from any given point to the extent that fallout protection will be needed; the hazards of fire and falling debris; possible sources food supply after leaving shelter; the difficulties that can be expected from the disruption of transportation and communication lines; the medical services required; the psychological problems involved in dealing with large groups of people tightly confined under conditions of extreme fear and panic, particularly with children separated from parents and supervised by teachers.

"Superintendents and boards are already being pressed to adopt policies, to initiate programs, to convert basements, to construct shelters, and to take positive steps in some direction about this tremendous problem. To refuse to accept any responsibility for such protection is to place the school system in a situation of seeming to have less concern about the well-being of the children and of the total community than it actually has. To accept the full responsibility without serious community consideration and careful thought and planning is to place on school administrators and boards of education a burden they ought not to bear alone.

"The hazards of radiation and fallout from a nuclear bomb threaten parents as well as children. To separate children from their parents in a time of such a disaster is almost unthinkable.

Community Responsibility

"Providing protection against the fallout hazards of nuclear bombing attacks therefore is a total community responsibility. It should be a general public responsibility and not that of the board of education, school administrator, and teaching staff alone. If the community authorities, civil defense specialists, and the board of education agree that the school building is the place where the shelter should be constructed, then it should be financed by appropriations outside the school budget. Even matching funds from federal or state sources induce or require the use of money very often desperately needed to construct and equip classrooms. To the extent that training in procedures and developing understanding are involved, the schools should readily accept responsibility in a manner comparable to what they have done in past years in developing procedures for fire, flood and storm disaster.

"Until there is more evidence on the essential elements for a reasonable protective program in case of thermonuclear attack and until a sound national and community policy is presented, more dependable facts made available, and a community agreement reached, your AASA Executive Committee advises that you not be stampeded into any form of ill-considered action or into a frenzy of construction that may be urged by frightened individuals, hysterical propaganda, commercial interests, or local leaders who do not process the facts.

Sincerely,
The Executive Committee
American Association of School Administrators"

VFW Auxiliary Notes Activities

The Department President of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Lena Rank, will pay her annual visit to the Hudson Valley County Council Sunday, January 28, at the Saugerties VFW Hall, according to a report given at Wednesday evening's monthly meeting of the Saugerties group. Miss Hannah Lewis, president of the Council, urged all to attend followed by a dinner.

The group voted to sponsor a bus ride, open to the public, to Washington during the cherry blossom season. Mrs. Violet Rocklein and Mrs. Isabel DeCelle, co-chairmen, will announce full details at a later date. The plans will include a weekend in the nation's capitol, and an all day tour of the city.

Mrs. Violet Rocklein was ceremoniously initiated into the Auxiliary.

An appeal was made by Mrs. Helen Arold for any white or colored materials to be made into cancer pads. Also, old white shirts which she can make into bedjackets. Last month Mrs. Arold reported having made 450 pads and seven bedjackets, averaging over 200 hours of work.

The Auxiliary President, Mrs. Janice Dengler, will be the honored guest at a dinner, January 23, at the Cafe Marius, by the Past President's Club. Secretary, Mrs. Hazel Drewes, issued an invitation to any Auxiliary member and her guests to attend and eat by "candlelight." Cars will leave the Hall promptly at 6:30 p. m. Reservations must be phoned to Mrs. Drewes no later than Saturday, January 20.

Mrs. Marie Zimyarch of Partition Street was awarded the license plates. Mrs. Johanna Tyrell was the dark horse winner of the night.

The president expressed her thanks to Mrs. Ruth Prendergast for arranging the highly successful Christmas party at Castle Point. Mrs. Dengler also was grateful to Mrs. Mary Lou Dengler for her fine work in handling the details for the December bus ride to New York City.

Mrs. Prendergast stated that over 102 gifts had been distributed at the Point by "Santa Claus." Each vet also was given a turkey sandwich, soda and candy. The sum of $193.57 was spent during December in the hospital work.

It is hoped to have a February blood bank drawing, according to Mrs. Helen Gardner, chairman.

Auxiliary members will individually donate the cakes and coffee to be served following the Golden Age small appliance demonstration Thursday at the hall. All who can were asked to atted.

Any VFW member interested in helping to formulate the Loyalty Day plans can attend the meeting scheduled for January 23, 7:30 at the hall.

Miss Marie McCutcheon reminded the members to sell their tickets for Saturday night's anniversary dance, featuring the Bavarian folk dance group.

The usual donation was voted to the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Ida Kilgannon after inspecting the Auxiliary, remarked that the floor work, books and reports of committees were "wonderful!"

The next meeting is slated for the meeting beginning at 2 p. m., February 14.

Legion Auxiliary Prospects Listed

It was announced at Thursday night's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary that February 17 has been set as the date for the entertainment of 30 veterans from the Albany Veterans Administration Hospital at the Legion Home on John Street. A roast beef dinner will be served and games played during the program.

Mrs. Edith Schaffer and Mrs. Lila Simmons, chairmen of the New March of Dimes campaign, reported that 96 cannisters had been distributed to area business establishments, and the Mothers March will take place on January 30, beginning at 7 p. m. with the sounding of the fire sirens. Volunteer workers are now signing up for that project.

The auxiliary donated $10 from its treasury to the fund.

Reports of other standing committees included the following: Cancer control, 50 pounds of material was collected for making cancer pads; child welfare, used clothing for 10 children valued at $50 was distributed; membership, 84 paid members, 7 paid members of the past presidents parley; publicity, eight articles and three pictures were covered by three local newspapers and one radio broadcast; rehabilitation, three baskets of fruit were given to ill veterans.

The meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. Catherine Teetsel, president, was followed by refreshments served by Rosemary Martin, Margaret O'Dea, Rita Rosner and Jeannette Mulligan.

Building Plans Are P-TA Topic

Norman Nitschke, co-chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Group, will be the guest speaker at the Saugerties Central Schools P-TA meeting Wednesday, 17, in the Main Street School, at 8 p. m.

The public may attend the meeting to hear about plans for immediate and future school construction in the Saugerties School District.

Another feature of the meeting will be an authentic Indian dance by Glen Davis, Allen Gardner, Brian Legg, Orman Leighton, Ronald MacRae, and Alan Wolven. Members of the Canandaigua Chapter of the Saugerties District, Order of the Arrow, the local high school boys were recent winners in Indian dance competition with the Kingston and Rondout Valley Districts.

Refreshments will be served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Angelo Sasso Jr.

Flanagan Named Camp Fire Head

Edward Flanagan was elected president of the Saugerties Council of Camp Fire Girls at a meeting held last week. Outgoing president Patrick Rodden was elected first vice president for the coming year. Other officers include George Thornton, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Walton, secretary and Mrs. Andrew Vozdik, treasurer.

Mrs. William Plimley, a longtime resident of Saugerties, now living in the Southwest, was given a verbal tribute and a vote of thanks on behalf of council members, leaders and parents by the newly elected president. Mrs. Plimley, who was named as the 1959 Camp Fire Woman of the Year, for many years conducted the musical activities of the Camp Fire and served devotedly as program chairman.

$64 Is Donation To Dimes March

A contribution of $64.08 was made to the New March of Dimes campaign by Paul Barca as a result of the all-day benefit sale of gasoline at his Shell station, Route 9W Saturday. This is the fifth consecutive year that Barca has donated his profits from a day's receipts to aid the local fund raising project for the National Foundation, which is being carried on by the Lamouree-Hackett Unit 72 of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Zoning Hearing Slated Tonight

A public hearing on a zoning change of a portion of the Knaust property between Malden Avenue and Finger Street from a U-1 residential to a U-2 multiple dwelling classification will be held 8 o'clock tonight at the meeting of the village board in the village clerk's room at the Municipal Auditorium.

The parcel of land, part of the former Valley Farm, is 350 feet in width and 580 feet in depth and situated on the westerly side of Malden Avenue.

If the village board approves the reclassification, garden type apartment houses will be built on the property.

School Offers Test For TB Detection

The senior students in Saugerties High School have the opportunity of taking the Heaf Test, a new, reliable, painless method of tuberculosis detection.

It does not involve the use of X-ray. However, should there be a positive reaction to the Heaf Test in any instance, an X-ray examination will be provided to determine whether the individual is afflicted with tuberculosis.

Consent slips have been sent home to the parents of senior boys and girls on which they may give their approval.

Says Interest Is To Hide High Cost

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Attacking what he describes as a borrower's wonderland of hidden credit charges, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., says American families pay $13 billion in credit charges yearly—$4 billion more than the cost of the national debt.

Douglas told the Rochester City Club Saturday that in some cases "credit camouflage" has been set up to hide the real cost of interest.

He cited a department store monthly service charge of 1½ percent, which he said actually run: 18 percent annually, and a 3 percent loan reducer, which he said amounts to 36 percent interest annually.

Quite a Few Issues Of Restaurant Stocks

Q) "You hardly ever speak of food catering and restaurant stocks. It seems as though these are undervalued at present levels. What do you think of Frisch's Restaurants and Restaurant Associates?" T. L.

A) In looking back over my files, I find to my surprise that you're quite right.

I haven't written about the restaurant stocks since Dec. 1, 1960, for no other reason than that I have apparently received no general questions about them. I spoke favorably of the restaurant chain business then and have since had no reason to change my attitude.

The American people are restless, they like to eat out — and with the highest personal income in their history, they can well afford to do so. There are quite a few issues to choose from in the restaurant business and there is considerable difference in the valuation the market puts on them.

For stocks where a pretty good growth pattern has been established—for example, Chock Full O'Nuts (NYSE) and Hot Shoppes (OTC) — the earnings multiple is over 35.

On stocks like Restaurant Associates (ASE), where growth is just beginning to develop, the market assigns a price-earnings ratio of 24. In the case of Frisch's, which has shown little change in earnings in the past three years, the shares sell at an earnings multiple of 23.

I like all four of these stocks. The first two are relatively more conservative and perhaps safer. The second two have good management and may be on the threshold of growth — but they are speculative.

Why not buy a few shares in the industry's future.

Q) "I have a loss in Houston Fearless which I can ill afford. It sells for half what I paid. Should I sell?" S. T.

A) Houston Fearless has been expanding pretty rapidly, and earnings have suffered in the process. I advise you to hold and give management more time to pull its acquisitions together.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Report Theft of Change In Davenport Burglary

The Sheriff's Department today is investigating a burglary at the Walter Davenport Sons main office in High Falls.

According to County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, intruders pried open a rear window, ransacked all desks in the fuel product concern's office and escaped with a small amount of change.

Brown is being assisted in the investigation by Deputy Sheriff Richard Drew Jr.

Demonstration Unit Sees Mrs. Herrick in Puppetry Performance

A most entertaining program by Mrs. Ronald Herrick of Hurley delighted members and guests of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit at their January meeting.

Mrs. Herrick, who with her husband made up one of the best known puppeteer experts in the country, spoke on the history of marionettes both in this country and abroad.

The Herricks not only give more than 180 performances a year, but also design and make their puppets and write their own scripts.

After exhibiting the various types of puppets, Mrs. Herrick demonstrated the method of working some of her own characters. The trapeze performer cavorted, the clown danced and Jelly Roll, a most amazingly mobile fellow, expanded and contracted much to the glee of young and older in the audience.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Theater 62," NBC's monthly series of television dramas adapted from motion pictures, has been one of the season's great disappointments. The first three or four shows have not been noteworthy.

But Sunday night's adaptation of "The Farmer's Daughter" was bright, engagingly acted and thoroughly amusing.

The story is a political fairy tale —about the Swedish maid in a political household who by a trick of fate runs for Congress and eventually winds up in the arms of her employer's congressman son.

Lee Remick played the pretty amateur politician with a dandy Swedish accent. Cornelia Otis Skinner was the family matriarch (and why don't we see more of this lady on TV?). But it was the presence of Peter Lawford as the aristocratic, impetuous young congressman that gave the comedy just the right spark. All real political party labels were carefully removed from the plot so there couldn't be any possible embarrassment in high places. Anyway, it was all good fun.

The weekend also brought two other special entertainment shows. Most promising special was CBS' "The Good Years," on Friday night, a potpourri of nostalgia that flew like a badminton bird between review and documentary formats.

Some portions of the 90-minute show were effectively done with the familiar Project 20 technique —old photos, cartoons and film clips—to evoke an era, in this case 1900-1914.

In between were musical production numbers and comedy sketches which for the most part wasted the talents of Lucille Ball and Henry Fonda. The presence of Mort Sahl proved almost a complete loss. It was impossible for him to be sharp, topical and satiric on such lively, controversial issues as Teddy Roosevelt and J. P. Morgan the elder. It was an expensive, ambitious show—or maybe it was two shows. Whatever it was, it lacked something vital.

Jan de Hartog's durable play, "The Four Poster," was converted from a sly, gently satiric treatment of the institution of marriage into a broad, flat-footed farce on CBS Saturday night. Jackie Cooper played the husband in the mood of typical TV situation comedy—vain, sulky, childlike and pretty much of an idiot. Tammy Grimes bustled about a lot, too. Tom Ewell did his tongue-in-cheek best with an unnecessary anthropological lecture the adapters felt it was necessary to add to the play. The whole effort had the atmosphere of a high school senior play.

Recommended tonight: "Lee, the Virginian," NBC, 8-8:30 (EST) —a Special Projects documentary made in connection with the Civil War centennial and companion piece to the earlier, "U.S. Grant, Unlikely Hero."

Harrow numbers among its former boys Robert Peel, Lord Byron, Anthony Trollope, Henry Cardinal Manning and Sir Winston Churchill.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received a nice note and newspaper clipping from Alex P. Cunningham of 156 Pine Street, Kingston. He writes: "January 10th, I will be 88 years of age, So "I Remember" some years past. Knowing that you are looking for something out of the ordinary—I am enclosing a clipping that I have had for sometime. You may find some use for it."

Cunningham further writes: "I used to call on your father for Crispell Co. and send his order down on the trolley, then call him up. He then picked it up in front of his store." That must have been a very long time ago, for my father died in 1951, and I know Crispell Co. have been out of business a long time. The first bus started running on January 17, 1926. Miss Blanche Montayne, I remember, used to stop in all the drug stores every morning to pick up orders for H. S. Crispell Co. 608 Broadway. They had a wholesale drug firm, and also a drug store known as Kingston Central Pharmacy.

Cunningham's letter brings back many interesting memories. Those were the days before delivery trucks as we know them today. In those days we had, same day service, as he points out. The package would be delivered the same day for a nickle to the stores on Broadway.

If I remember correctly, each trolley had a number, and no doubt Cunningham used to tell my father the number of the trolley carrying his package Later on, I remember my father would tell me, "now go watch for trolley No. 1 or so . . ." Those were also the days of two mail deliveries. The important business mail came before I left for school. The second class mail usually came after lunch.

I also want to mention, that Cunningham, who was 88 years old on Jan. 10, has a fine clear round handwriting that it is a pleasure to read.

I am sure, that the orders he wrote up and brought in, were easy to read and fill out properly. He was of the old school, where they crossed the t's carefully and dotted the i's in the proper place. There is also, no mistaking a letter t, for the l, which he writes in wide loops. His note could be framed and shown as a model of good handwriting.

Prescriptions were usually all written by hand, and I remember my father used to like the handwriting of prescriptions of some of the doctors more so than others. As I remember he used to say if everyone wrote as well as Dr. Stern and Dr. Chandler it would be fine. My father could speak and read and write several languages besides Latin in which prescriptions are often written in part. My father was a registered pharmacist, cumma laude, from the old country and then passed the Board of Pharmacy exam, of course in English, in New York State.

I dropped in at Pardee's Insurance Agency at 20 Ferry Street and suddenly I spotted two large photographs in the office which I had not seen before. They were of old Kingston, both of downtown, and of all places, one had, in the center, my father's drug store at 46 Broadway, back around 1922. In the window can be seen a model of the bridge which my father made. Miss Mathilda E. Bruck and her secretary tried to read some of the signs, but we did not have a strong enough magnifying glass.

The other picture shows, up Abeel from Broadway, and the Rondout Creek Bridge can be seen in back of the Temple Emanuel. Among the stores can be seen on Broadway, Terpening's bicycle shop, Dr. Stern's office, and McTague's newspaper store next to ours.

Thrift at Its Best

Some years ago a courageous young woman from Lithuania came to America to begin life anew. She had to overcome many social and economic hazards in establishing her new life in New York City.

English was a foreign tongue to her. For that reason she had to get a job where language was unimportant. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York hired her as a charwoman at its Fifth Avenue office.

She kept my office spotless for more than fifteen years. Thrift and saving were congenital traits with her. She opened a mutual savings bank account and every payday she deposited some money in it.

By 1950 she had a fair command of conversational English. One afternoon she asked me if she could invest some of her savings. I suggested that she buy some shares of the bank employing her. She was surprised to learn that a charwoman could become part-owner of that great institution. I told her that the smallest investor in America — socially, economically and politically — could move in the best financial society.

She bought ten shares of Guaranty Trust of New York with some of her decade-accumulated savings. In 1953 these shares were split five for one, and in 1957 she received a 20 per cent stock dividend. Thus, her 10 original shares became 60 shares within 10 years and today her $2,200 investment is worth more than $8,000 and her 60 shares pay her $240 a year, affording a yield of more than 11 per cent on a cost basis.

Her first investment led her into other fields. She shops at Macy's at Thirty-fourth and Broadway, New York City. She bought 50 shares for $1,100 and today they are worth more than $3,500.

She bought Woolworth in which she now has 300 per cent capital gains.

She purchased Borden — the company that supplies her Bronx home with milk, cream, butter and cheese. This, too, has advanced a great deal in price.

Consolidated Edison furnishes her apartment with light and heat. She bought shares of Edison around $30 a share and she beams when she sees the stock selling at $85-$90.

* * *

In the coming decade there will be millions of thrifty savers who should follow the path of this Lithuanian charwoman. She became a shareholder in an enterprise which first gave her employment and then later on she purchased shares of prosperous enterprises which she regularly patronized.

The sound investment of savings need not be a difficult task.

Every person in America with an investible surplus enjoys a good standard of living. And these standards are maintained by hundreds of leading corporations.

Puzzled investors with idle money can solve their own problems by writing down the names of 10, 20, 30 corporations they regularly patronize. Then search out an experienced broker or banker who, after examining the earnings' and dividend records of these enterprises, will make suitable recommendations.

An energetic, thrifty Lithuanian charwoman can teach investment lessons to millions of Americans who don't know what to do with their money.

Britain Changes Scale On Thermometers

LONDON (AP)—Temperatures took a steep dive all over Britain today, but winter had nothing to do with it.

Britain began shaking off tradition and switched from the Fahrenheit to the centigrade scale of thermometer marking.

The change to the continental way of measuring hot and cold was the first phase of an official program to convert Britons to the decimal system of measuring.

The switch was gradual. Television and radio weathercasts gave both centigrade and Fahrenheit figures. Eventually Fahrenheit will be quietly dropped.

Some London newspapers printed centigrade temperatures in their weather reports with Fahrenheit demoted to brackets alongside.

A government move is also under way to discard pounds, shillings and pence for easier-to-reckon decimal currency. A committee has been appointed to work out how the change can best be made.

Action Expected To Keep Jersey From Tax Benefit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Senate is expected to act tonight, and the Assembly Tuesday, on a bill that would prevent New Jersey from collecting $27 million a year in income taxes paid by New Jersey residents who work in New York State.

Both houses of the New York Legislature were expected to approve the measure, requestd by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

New Jersey has levied a tax on persons who commute between New Jersey and New York to work. This was done in a move designed to divert the $27 million to the New Jersey treasury.

The New York legislation would eliminate a tax-law provision that permits out-of-state residents to deduct from their New York State tax bills the amount of income taxes paid in their home states.

Democrats to Meet On 35th Candidates

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic county chairmen in the new 35th congressional district will meet again next month to continue their discussion of the merits of two candidates for Congress from the district.

Six of the eight chairmen decided at a meeting Saturday it would be premature now to endorse Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady or former Assemblyman Francis J. Souhan of Seneca Falls, the candidates. Stratton also is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

A special session of the Legislature in November realigned the 36th district, now served by retiring Rep. John Taber of Auburn, into the 35th. Stratton's present district was abolished.

William H. McKeon, Cayuga County chairman, said no vote was taken at Saturday's meeting, although "there was both Stratton and Souhan sentiment."

Others at the meeting were: Dr. Robert Kerr of Cortland County, James P. Wilson of Montgomery, John Fabeizi of Ontario, Dr. Alexander Carson of Otsego, and Leo Boyle of Seneca.

2 Face Abandonment For Leaving DeadChild

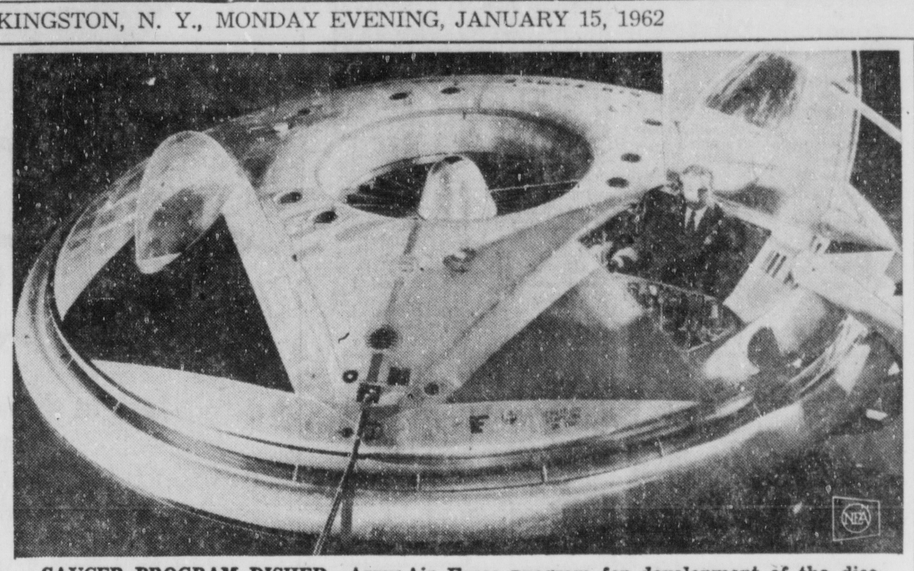
ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—A husband and wife, accused of leaving their seven-week old son dead in a vacant apartment, were in jail today on a charge of abandonment.

Kenneth E. Rutzgen, 33, and his wife, Betty Jane, 22, were returned here from Pennsylvania Saturday. They were arrested in Philadelphia Friday by Endicott police, who traced them through a Christmas card.

The baby's body was found in an apartment here last May 4, three days after the Rutzgens had moved out. An autopsy showed the infant had suffered a skull fracture and pneumonia.

Dist. Atty. Stephen Smyk said Rutzgen admitted he had struck the baby.

Justice John D. O'Loughlin of police court ordered the Rutzgens committed to the Broome County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail each.



SAUCER PROGRAM DISHED—Army-Air Force program for development of the disc-shaped vehicle, above, is being shelved. The saucer, which was to ride a cushion of air, has been under development by a Canadian firm. Not intended to be a space vehicle, it was intended for troop and supply movement, to carry loads over any kind of ground and beneath the scanning eye of radar. With funds running out, the $7.5 million project is grounded—at least for the present. Change in emphasis on weapons systems is seen as one reason for the move.

Coordination Is Urged in Study OfWaterwaysLink

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Waterways Association Inc. urges coordination of the study of a proposed barge waterway linking the Ohio River and Lake Erie with the study of proposed improvements of the New York State Barge Canal System.

The proposed development of a barge waterway linking the Ohio River with Lake Erie was supported Sunday night by David A. Wright, president of the waterways association.

Wright said the proposal is "imaginative, bold, and a dramatic breakthrough in the establishment of an economical means of transportation linking the tremendous industrial and natural resources of the Ohio River Basin with the highly developed and great consumer market of the East."

The waterways association said a statement of support has been filed with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, scheduled to hold a hearing at Youngstown, Ohio, today on the proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie waterway.

The association described the plan before the corps as a 104-mile canal extending from the area of Ashtabula, Ohio, on Lake Erie, to the Ohio River near Rochester, Pa.

The association said the New York Barge Canal, which now provides a direct water link between the East Coast and the Great Lakes, would connect with the proposed river-to-lake waterway and open a new and short access to the industrial heartland of the country.

The 527-mile New York State Barge Canal system includes the Erie Canal, the Champlain Canal and the Oswego, Cayuga and Seneca Canals.

4 California Men Die in Plane Crash

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., (AP)—Blue Mountain claimed its third airplane tragedy in four years when four California men died in the crash of their single-engine plane.

The Californians went down Sunday in a spinning beechcraft bonanza in foggy, rainy weather. State trooper Glen Minton, who is a pilot, theorized that the plane got into trouble in foul weather and lost a wing in a high-speed spin.

Minton said Louis Risner of Englewood, Calif., apparently was the pilot. Other victims were Henry Clay Risner, Louis' brother; Russ Weininger, a business associate of Louis Risner; and Charles Cornell, all of the Los Angeles area.

Korean Vet's Night Set by Olive Legion

Korean Veterans Night has been scheduled by Olive Memorial Post 1627, American Legion for Monday, Feb. 5 at 8 p. m. in the Legion Hall, Ashokan.

All Korean Veterans are urged to attend this meeting to discuss plans for promoting passage of a Korean veteran's bonus bill in the Legislature. To be eligible they must have served between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953.

Refreshments will be served by the Legion Auxiliary.

Mayor Resigns Post, May Run for Governor

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth has resigned, effective Feb. 12, ostensibly to seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the May 15 primary election.

The 63-year-old outspoken mayor, who was defeated in 1950 as the Democratic candidate for governor in the general election, announced his resignation at a news conference Sunday. Intimates had reported last year that Dilworth advised them he intended to seek the nomination.

Meet Agreement To Reapportion Penn Districts

HARRISBURG (AP) — Agreement was reached early today on a plan to reapportion Pennsylvania's congressional districts, ending a year-long deadlock on the politically explosive issue.

The final agreement centered on a so-called swing district—one which would merge a Republican and Democratic district to make a new district that would follow the political tide in the 1962 election.

The districts to be merged in the swing district are the 12th (Northumberland and Schuylkill) and the 14th (Berks). If both incumbents run, that would pit Republican Ivor Fenton (12th) against Democrat George M. Rhodes (14th).

The proposed swing district would be the second largest in Pennsylvania in population. It would have 552,000 persons. Only the 7th district (Delaware County) is larger with 553,000.

In other agreements Bradford County would be taken from the 17th District (Cameron, Clinton, Potter, Tioga, Lycoming, Montour, Columbia, Bradford) and added to the 10th (Sullivan, Wyoming, Susquehanna, Lackawanna, Wayne, Pike). Republican Herman T. Schneebeli holds the seat in the 17th; Republican William W. Scranton holds the 10th.

The 23rd District (Warren, McKean, Venango, Forest, Elk, Clarion, Jefferson) would have Clearfield County added to it from the 20th. The 23rd District seat is held by Republican Leon H. Gavin.

As Election Approaches:

GOP Tries to Figure Out Stand, Dems Are Divided

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans, after several days of public soul searching in this congressional election year, are still trying to figure out where they stand and what for.

They can't find a hat to fit all of them. They are looking for a formula to beat the Democrats but they've been inept in this department over the past 30 years.

The Democrats are a divided lot, too. They sometimes give the impression of being not one party but two parties that merge on some issues and then fly apart again.

The evidence is plain enough that for most of the past 30 years the Republicans have been out of step with public thinking. Since 1932, the Republicans have held the White House for only eight years—under Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He was so popular that if he had run as a Democrat he probably would have won just as overwhelmingly, if not more so. In his case the party label hardly meant much.

Bliss Has Gloomy News

The consistent test of public favor showed up in Congress where, in the 30 years since 1932, voters elected a Republican majority only twice, for a total of four years, in 1946 and 1952. In Eisenhower's last six years—including 1956 when he was re-elected—the voters gave Congress to the Democrats.

About a year ago a Republican committee began a study to see what ailed the party. At Oklahoma City last week the head of this committee, a top Ohio Republican, Ray Bliss, had gloomy news.

He told the Republican National Committee there that in the big cities Republicans were "generally outmanned, outorganized, outspent and outworked" by their Democratic and union opposition.

Gives 19 Points

Bliss outlined a 19-point program for rebuilding the party.

His committee—commenting on the 1960 presidential defeat—said Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy because Democrats got tremendous majorities in 27 of the 41 big cities.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizone, a hero to some Republicans and probably a candidate for the party's presidential nomination in 1964, said Nixon lost in 1960 because "we were not Republican enough."

But what is Republicanism? National Committee Chairman William E. Miller of New York said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label.

New York's GOP State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York may be Goldwater's rival for the nomination in 1964—got in his view.

Must Have Answers

"The Republican party must reemphasize its position as a dynamic forward-looking movement with answers to the people's problems. (It) must fight being erroneously labeled as the party which is against change and new ideas," Morhouse said.

The usually happy forecasts on this year's congressional elections were given but the Bliss committee report and the Republicans' setbacks in the 1961 off-year elections blew a cool wind over the meeting.

Count on cooking a smoked boneless pork shoulder butt, covered with water, for 40 to 45 minutes per pound. Then you can insert whole cloves in the butt, at 1-inch intervals, and glaze it in the oven just as you treat baked ham.

K.H.S. Student-Council Reports Its Activities

By Barry Gold

Plan Winter Carnival

Since the end of the Christmas recess, Kingston High School Student Council has actively resumed its activities which now center, to a large extent, around the forthcoming Winter Carnival.

Chairman Alan Theiss announced that the Second Annual Student Council Winter Carnival will take place February 10 at Kate Walton Field House.

The carnival will be open to all primary school students from 1 through 5 p. m. with a nominal admission price. Junior and senior high school students will be able to attend the carnival in the evening, from 6 through 11 p. m. Dancing and background music in the evening will be provided by the Kricket Band.

Various committees of the Winter Carnival are presently working to insure its success. Clubs from Kingston High will have booths with various activities at the carnival.

These booths will be either on a profit or non-profit basis, as some clubs will have displays centering around their interests, and other clubs will have participation events.

The Student Directory Committee headed by Paul Jacobson, has announced that its directory of the name, address, class, telephone number, and homeroom is now ready for sale and will be made available to the student body early next week

Congratulations are in order to the Student Directory Committee which worked very hard in its compiling of the information about each student at KHS.

The Constitution Committee headed by Walter Daw has reported that it has completed revising the Student Council constitution.

New Constitution

The committee will submit the new constitution to the student body for its approval in the near future. This will be done through the Student Council homeroom agents. The new Constitution has been designed to streamline the administration of Student Council affairs.

The Student Council is considering the sponsorship of a Curtain at 8:40 show through the cooperation of the Community Theatre. Details such as title of the movie, date and price of tickets will be announced at a later date.

At the present time the possibility of the Student Council's managing of a calendar of events is being investigated. The purpose of this calendar of events is to schedule the activities of clubs and organizations in the school so that the events don't conflict. This plan should end some of the present confusion regarding dates and hours for KHS activities.

Dancing After Games

It was announced at the last Student Council meeting that after each home basketball game, a dance is held at the KHS cafeteria. Attendance, however, at the dances is limited to only the members of the home and visiting teams.

If you have any questions, comments or ideas concerning this column, the Winter Carnival or other Student Council activities, please send them to the Student Council of Kingston High School, 403 Broadway, Kingston.

Recommends New Auditorium at EC Institution

Recommendations for a new education building and auditorium at Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch, and for action to close the village dump near the institution were included in a report of Richard E. Woodward, senior inspector, State Commission of Correction.

The recommendations were made after a three-day inspection at Napanoch last July.

Other recommendations made by Woodward were:

That a minimum of at least two wall towers be manned on a 24-hour basis and that all towers be manned during the daytime.

That a machinery storage shed be erected at the Colony Farm.

That the institution set up its own commissary.

That the recreation area be fenced in and also that fence barriers be placed in strategic locations to prevent damage in case of disturbance.

At the time of the inspection the institution population was 1,103 inmates.

The report noted that it would appear that reasonable precautions are being taken to prevent contraband from entering the buildings.

Recommending action to close the village dump near the institution, Inspector Woodward stated that there is a health menace caused by the rodents and flies in the dump. Woodward said the situation could be controlled if the institution would acquire the abandoned railroad station and freight house.

The kitchen and mess hall are undergoing a complete remodeling, Woodward noted. The mess hall has a capacity of 692.

Woodward contended that construction of a shed for storing farm machinery should be of prime consideration. He stated that at present there are 172 pigs and 40 cows being cared for with the cows producing about 18 cans of milk daily. The farm operation showed a gross income of $73,207.06 with the largest income from milk and eggs.

Annual Welfare Report

$1,303,737 Paid Here In Social Security Benefits

In 1961 citizens of the state drew a sizable return on their investment in the federal government through services to advance health, improve education for their children and broaden economic security.

A total of $1,303,737 in social security benefits was received in 1961 monthly by people serviced by the Kingston Social Security District Office.

The many kinds of help administered by the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare are directed in this area by Joseph B. O'Connor, the Department's regional director for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware.

In reviewing the department's activities, O'Connor stated:

Announces New Phase

"A development of historic importance in the welfare field occurred on December 11, when the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Abraham Ribicoff, announced the first phase of a program to revitalize the Federal-State welfare activities."

Ten administrative actions ordered by Secretary Ribicoff, have two objectives: To help people on public assistance assume useful roles in society by achieving self-support and independence, and to eliminate whatever abuses have crept into the welfare program since it began a quarter century ago.

New importance will be attached to services for the entire family to help them become self-supporting. To emphasize this approach, the name of the Federal Bureau of Public Assistance has been changed to the Bureau of Family Services.

Of the programs in operation in New York, O'Connor cited the following, pointing out that the figures cover calendar year 1961. Where final figures are not yet available, estimates have been made.

Welfare

During the year 59,708 men and women over age 65 received public assistance payments amounting to $72,341,000. Under the aid to dependent children program 336,904 children and their mothers or caretakers received a total of $164,568,000. Payments totaling $46,430,000 were made to 35,450 permanently disabled persons, and $4,273,000 to 3,395 blind persons. Medical assistance for the aged payments totaling $57,778,000 went to 24,401 persons over 65.

Under new amendments of the law, Federal aid was available for the first time in 1961 to dependent children of unemployed parents and to states to help pay for foster family care for children removed from their homes because parents failed to provide properly for them.

Social Security

During the year 1,205,700 retired workers and their dependents received a monthly total of $87,809,000 in social security benefits, and 367,200 widows and children of deceased workers received a monthly total of $23,561,000. Disability benefits totaling $6,504,000 a month were made to 88,000 men and women and their dependents.

Information furnished by George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security District Office, shows that in the area serviced by the Kingston office, a total of $1,303,737 in social security benefits was received monthly by people living here. This is broken down as follows: $1,028,004 to 15,390 retired workers and their dependents; $221,765 to 3,907 widows and children of deceased workers; and $53,968 to 740 disabled men and women and their families.

The 1961 amendments to the Social Security Act allow optional retirement for men of age 62, increase the minimum insurance benefit paid to retired workers from $33 to $40 per month, relax requirements for insurance eligibility, and increase benefits paid aged widows by 10 per cent. The retirement test was modified so that retired workers may increase their earnings on jobs and have less of their social security payments withheld.

Education

The federal government provides direct aid for school districts in which enrollment has increased because of federal activity. During the year, eligible school districts in New York received grants of $6,470,503 for operation of the schools, including teachers' salaries, and $921,968 for school construction.

Congress extended this program for two years, beginning July 1, 1961. During this time over $477 million will be available to help eligible school districts nationwide.

Congress also extended the National Defense Education Act for two years. During the year 19,610 students in New York attended college with the help of money borrowed under the student loan program. Altogether, $7,313,671 was granted institutions of higher learning for this program. Altogether, the federal government contributed $27,192,971 to help improve education and educational opportunities in New York.

Health

A variety of new approaches to better care for the chronically ill and aged will be made possible through the Community Services and Facilities Act of 1961. The act authorizes grants to community agencies to develop new and improved home nursing, home care, and other out-of-hospital services. The act also raises the ceiling for grants to the states for the construction of nursing homes from $10 million to $20 million annually.

Under the Hill-Burton program, eight hospitals, nursing homes, and other facilities in New York were awarded $3,301,000 in federal funds for construction. Their total cost is $11,196,000.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Amendments of 1961 provide the basis for a greatly stepped-up program of waste treatment works construction and broadens the federal government's enforcement powers.

During the year 31 grants totaling $3,513,542.42 were awarded in the state for the construction of 31 waste treatment works. The estimated cost of these projects is $17,136,821.

During 1961 grants amounting to $4,886,156 were made to New York to strengthen health programs, general health programs, mental health, cancer, heart disease, and tuberculosis control, and for the training of professional nurses.

The National Institutes of Health, principal research arm of the Public Health Service, awarded $46,643,278 for 2,028 research projects in New York. Fellowships totaling $2,866,163 were awarded to 504 fellows in 44 institutions, and grants of $14,807,391 were made to 51 institutions for training projects.

Vocational Rehabilitation

During the year the federal government granted $4,360,882 for the basic support of New York's rehabilitation program, and 7,505 handicapped men and women were successfully rehabilitated and returned to productive employment.

Food, Drugs, and Cosmetics

Last year, throughout the nation, more than 36,000 inspections of food, drugs and cosmetic establishments were made by the Food and Drug Administration. Chemists analyzed over 46,000 samples to determine their compliance with the law, and foods seized in over 700 Federal court actions totaled more than 10,700 tons.

Surplus Property

Under the Department's surplus property program, federal personal property with an acquistion value of $20,466,625 and real property valued at $1,892,303 were made available to the state for health or educational purposes.

To Get Merit Award

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Charles A. Upson of Lockport, N.Y., a manufacturer, is one of eight University of Pennsylvania alumni who will receive the school's alumni award of merit for outstanding service during Founder's Day activities Saturday.

The ceremonies are in honor of Benjamin Franklin, Penn's founder.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. Treasury is borrowing a billion dollars in new cash today. It shouldn't have any trouble raising the money—but it will still be embarrassed.

That new borrowing pushes the federal debt up awfully close to the $298-billion ceiling the Treasury thought would be high enough when it got the debt limit hiked temporarily at the last session of Congress. The permanent level is $285 billion and getting back to that looks well nigh impossible at this stage.

Faces Huge Debt

Worse, the Treasury fears now that it might have to go into debt in excess of $298 billion before the June 15 tax collections roll in—and possibly above $300 billion shortly before Christmas, because of the fall slack in tax receipts.

The Treasury's embarrassment is comparable to yours if your banker and other lending sources said you could borrow only so much, and you were near or at that limit. You would be wondering what to do about the expenses that vary from time to time and about any emergencies—not to mention your inability to take advantage of a bargain when it flits by.

Would Like No Ceiling

That's what's behind the ruckus over the federal debt ceiling.

The Treasury says it can't maneuver as it should in the money market to get the best terms of interest and length of payments if it is too close to the ceiling. It also fears that expenditures, foreseen or possible in this quickly changing world, could push it tight against the ceiling, leaving it unable to borrow to pay its bills if it obeys the law.

The Treasury would like no ceiling at all. Barring that, it would like a boost shortly in the temporary ceiling, say to $300 billion, and then later to several billions above that.

Would Exceed Record

This would top the record actual debt of $300 billion during World War II. In 1946 the permanent debt ceiling was put at $275 billion, raised to $283 billion in 1958, to $285 billion in 1959. But from 1955 on, higher temporary ceilings were mostly the rule.

The argument against setting a debt ceiling and frequently changing it, is this:

Congress itself votes the appropriations and programs that set the size of the Treasury's expenditures. Congress votes the kinds and rates of taxes that provide almost all of the Treasury's receipts. If expenditures exceed collections, the Treasury borrows to pay the bills and the federal debt rises.

May Fix Limit

Congress, therefore, may set a permanent or temporary debt limit, but the actual size of the debt largely is set by the amounts Congress appropriates and the taxes it authorizes. An added factor is the terms on which the Treasury may borrow—how much total interest it pays, boosting expenditures by that much and thus adding to the debt if tax collections aren't big enough.

The Treasury thinks that if the ceiling was higher it could choose the borrowing-time and the terms more easily. Congressional conservatives think that without the ceiling the administration might be tempted to spend carelessly and then run to Congress for an appropriation to make up the deficit.

Warmer Weather Helps Niagara Power Production

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The ice-plagued Niagara Power Project was producing more than 900,000 kilowatts today as warmer weather continued to loosen chunks of ice near the project's intakes in the upper Niagara River.

The output was the highest since Thursday when an ice jam cut off the bulk of the project's water supply and slashed output by 90 percent. The project has been producing 1,750,000 kilowatts.

Despite yesterday's 40-degree weather here, authorities said ice was still packed solidly above the falls. A State Power Authority spokesman said he could not predict when the project would be operating normally.

The project's major customer, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., turned to steam generating plants last week to keep its own customers supplied with power.

The power cutback was felt as far east as Vermont, where companies who normally draw from the Niagara and St. Lawrence Power Projects used standby sources.

Malcolm Wilson Is Named Guest Speaker For Annual Meeting of Practical Nurses

ALBANY, N. Y. — Lieutenant Governor Malcolm Wilson will be the principal speaker at the Annual Legislative Meeting of Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc. in the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, Albany, on Wednesday, it has been announced by Mrs. Rhoda E. Beswick of Niagara Falls, N. Y., president of the state-wide membership organization.

In addition to the luncheon session which will be addressed by Lieutenant Governor Wilson, morning and afternoon sessions will be held to review legislative matters of interest to licensed practical nurses. Miss Marie Dolan of New York City, a member of the organization's Board of Directors and State Legislative Chairman, will preside.

An all-day Workshop on Leadership will be held Tuesday, Jan. 16, with Mrs. Beswick presiding. More than 100 delegates and other members from the 38 County Divisions of Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc. will participate in the two-day conference.

Among the speakers at the Workshop will be Mrs. Beatrice A. Turley of Hampton Bays, Long Island, a member of the Board of Directors and State Membership Chairman, who will outline plans to stimulate the 1962 membership drive which will be conducted by County Division Membership Chairmen.

Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc., strives to improve the standards of practice in its field; offers refresher courses at nominal fees; provides gorup insurance at special rates, and other benefits to its members; and serves as a clearing house of information concerning legislation, schools of practical nursing, salaries, job opportunities, etc.

Inquiries concerning activities of the organization or the qualifications for membership should be addressed to Mrs. Christine B. Quell, Executive Secretary, Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc., 250 West 57th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

Summer Institute In Earth Science Planned by Vassar

A Summer Institute in Earth Science will be held at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, for 40 participants beginning July 9, 1962. The six-week institute, which closes on August 17, is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and has a faculty of Vassar scientists.

The course, designed for high school and junior high school teachers of science, will utilize formal classes, informal group discussions, field trips and laboratory work to teach geology, astronomy, and spatial concepts. Dr. John H. Johnsen is director and Dr. Jerome Regnier of Rollins College, a former member of the Vassar faculty, is associate director. Dr. Henry Albers, associate professor of astronomy at Vassar, is also a member of the institute faculty.

Applications must be received before February 15. Descriptive pamphlets are available upon request from Dr. Johnsen at Vassar College.

Egyptian Snood Is Introduced in Style Show by Chapman

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fashionable ladies of ancient Egypt wore robes of transparent linen, and working girls wore nothing at all.

Obviously designer Ceil Chapman had no choice. In her spring collection, "Daughters of the Nile," she modestly skirts the bare facts of history and settles for the spirit of that exotic era.

As a consequence, 200 fashion writers winding up a week of New York Couture Group showings saw bare-shouldered Chapman models undulate along the runway in clinging, draped or pleated chiffon dresses, under the baleful stare of a huge pharaonic statue onstage.

Sinuously successful were strapless gowns gathered high under the bosom and draped in a body-molding line. Sometimes the bare shoulders were sheltered by suede tops—and the daring combination of suede and chiffon won applause.

The Egyptian snood, that familiar squared-off half-circle headdress the Sphinx has affected for some centuries, was worn with some of the dresses as a hat.

Colors were named appropriately: Sahara brown, lotus green and yellow, baked sand, henna, which glamor girls of 6,000 years ago used for tinting fingers and toes, and kohl, which they used to darken eyelashes.

Kingston Camera Club Meeting Is Set for Wednesday

The next meeting of the Kingston Camera Club will be held Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1962 at 7:30 p. m. at the Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway.

A workshop evening is planned by the guest speaker, Charlotte McGraw. This will entail the correct method on how to shoot close-ups and copies. Everyone who has a close-up or portra attachment and a tripod is requested to bring same to the meeting. No member or non-member will be admitted without a camera. Photographs, postcards or any small object to be copied, should be brought to the meeting. Any member with a print or slide taken closer than three feet is asked to bring same for open discussion.

The regular monthly black and white contest open to all members, will also be held. The subject for this meeting is "tabletop in action" and will be judged by the membership. Each contestant may enter two prints.

A question and answer period will follow the regular social hour. All those interested in amateur photography are invited as guests of the club.

Sisterhood Meeting Is Held; Cabaret Night, March 17

Sisterhood Ahavath Israel held a general membership meeting Wednesday, Jan. 10 in the Vestry Hall. Mrs. George Small presided. Minutes of the previous meeting were submitted by Mrs. Eckdish read the correspondence. Summary of important world events that happened in 1961 was given by Mrs. Cecil Murkoff. Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein, reporting on Judaism in the home, spoke of some basic prayers which should be included in the daily household routine.

It was announced that home card party week would be held January 15-20. All members wishing to host a card party in their homes should contact Mrs. Edward Furman or Mrs. Martin Singer. Also as part of a fund-raising campaign orders will be taken for Mah Jong cards. All interested in purchasing a card should contact Mrs. Mel Kelmen.

March 17 was picked as Cabaret Night, which will employ a French theme. Mrs. Joseph Colen is in charge of the entertainment for what promises to be a very enjoyable evening.

The program for the meeting was dedicated to Torah Fund. Mrs. Sanford Gossett, Torah Fund Chairman, explained that all contributions to this worthy cause helped to support the Jewish Theological Seminary, which trains future teachers and Jewish leaders. Also sustained by the Seminary Museum in New York and the television program "The Eternal Light". A humorous, educational film "The Broken Sabbath of Rabbi Asher" culminated the evening's activities. Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Larry Jacobs, in honor of her son's marriage.

Hessdorfer Named Recipient of Science Award Medal Here

Richard Hessdorfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Hessdorfer, Lake Katrine, the top science student in Kingston High School, will be the recipient at graduation of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award Medal. As an award winner, he is eligible to compete for annual science scholarships sponsored by Bausch and Lomb, Incorporated, at the University of Rochester.

The Science Award Medal was introduced in 1932, long before America's need for scientific manpower was as obvious as it is today. The award has played a significant part in stimulating high school students to a greater appreciation of the many opportunities possible in scientific careers. The program has the official endorsement of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals and the award is presented in more than 7,400 schools in the United States and Canada.

Bausch and Lomb provides for three or more science scholarships, with a flexible stipend based on need, and with a total four-year value of $21,600. Only winners of the Honorary Science Award are eligible to compete for the science scholarships. In the 18 years that this program has been in effect, 67 young men and women have been enrolled at the University of Rochester under the company's science scholarships. In addition, because of the high caliber of the contestants, the university has awarded other scholarships of comparable value to 102 runners-up.

The Rochester Scholarship Committee studies all applications and selects 30 of the most promising candidates as finalists. These students are notified of their selection late in February, and finalists from all parts of the country are invited to Rochester for three days, with all expenses paid, for interviews and competitive tests to determine the scholarship winners.

The science award winner may enter the nationwide scholarship competition.

LEAVING A PARTY EARLY

Q: All of my friends are "night owls" whereas I don't like staying up very late at night. When invited to a party how can I leave at a reasonable hour without breaking up the party? People always seem to think they should leave soon after the first one makes the move.

A: The best way is to make your going as inconspicuous as possible. That is, you can explain to your host (or hostess) that you have to leave but don't want to break up the party, so please not to take any notice of your going. Then if you wait a few minutes, you can slip away without being noticed. On the other hand, if you go up to the hostess and shake hands and say good-night, that will certainly tend to break up the party.

Q: Next month my 9-year-old daughter will be a junior bridesmaid at a relative's wedding. Her dress is fashioned after the bridesmaids' dresses. There will also be a flower girl who is 4 years of age. The problem is that the bride wants the two young attendants to wear headpieces exactly like those worn by the bridesmaids which consist of plumes and veiling. I believe that this combination would not be in good taste for the two young attendants and that they are much too young to wear veils over their faces. Would you please give me your opinion on this matter as the wedding is drawing near and the problem is far from settled.

A: I agree with you. In fact, plumes and veils over the face of those children would be little short of ridiculous.

* * *

Q: When I have two couples in to dinner, do I tell each guest where to sit at the dining table, or do they sit wherever they please?

Jaycees Seek New Members at Meeting Tonight

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold a special orientation meeting for prospective members tonight 8 o'clock at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

President of the Kingston Jaycees, Robert V. Carlzon, extends an invitation to all young men between the ages of 21 and 35 years who are interested in their community. He stressed the fact that too many people feel that the Junior Chamber of Commerce is a business organization which is not so. It is a civic organization functioning to better the community and at the same time developing the abilities of each member through its activities, he said.

The meeting will include a brief orientation as to the activities of the organization, a movie entitled The Jaycee Story, a question and answer period and an awards program for first year members, presented by Robert Stedge.

A film will be shown. Refreshments will be served. All members are asked to attend.

Kingston Day Unit

The Kingston Day Unit met Thursday, Jan. 11 at 410 Broadway for the regular meeting. Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan, chairman, presided.

A luncheon meeting was held at 12:30 p. m. Mrs. McGowan and Mrs. Russell Howard assisted the hostess committee in preparing the meal; the meat course which was the project for the day was prepared by Mrs. D. N. Secore. The hostess committee, Mrs. Gertrude Brodhead, Mrs. John Schwenk and Mrs. John Cuff served desserts.

Following the luncheon a lesson on "Cured Meats" was held with 21 members participating. Mrs. D. N. Secore had charge of the class.

At the close of the class, Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan took charge of the business meeting. Two visitors were welcomed — Miss Nellie Elmendorf and Miss Agnes Hartmann.

Samples of polished kitchen utensils were shown and the Unit voted to take up this project. The first meeting in wooden bowls, spoons, forks and other articles will be held January 25, 10 a. m. at 410 Broadway. Anyone wishing information is asked to contact Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan.

Mrs. Joseph Grooks, Mrs. Fred Fahnrick with Mrs. McGowan will serve as a committee to buy some needed supplies.

In February several of the members will entertain the patients at the TB Hospital.

Two new members joined the Unit. The next meeting is Thursday, Feb. 8. Films will be shown on the subjects "Party Pies", "Know Your Lamb" and "Your Sterling."

Members and those interested are invited to attend.

New Paltz Gallery Exhibits Works Of Woolley, Bonagura

The New Paltz Gallery offers two dramatic one-man shows this month. A. E. Woolley of New Paltz exhibits photographs, and Anthony Bonagura, also of New Paltz, presents paintings.

Bonagura's show is comprised of 15 paintings, most of them still life subjects in the neo-realistic tradition, solidly composed and exqisitely painted. Surprisingly, six of the works are abstract, or near abstract, and they hang as strongly as the powerful still-life works.

Louis Marion, executive vice-president of the Parke Bernet Galleries, described Bonagura's work recently as "the finest dramatic realistic still-life specimens I have ever seen, including the works of William Harnett."

Anthony Bonagura was trained at Cooper Union and the Art Students League in New York, and the Chicago Art Institute. He is a lifetime member of the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York City. He shows widely and has received nine prizes and awards, including two firsts at the Springfield, Massachusetts Annual.

A. E. Woolley, photographer-author-artist, is known primarily as a photojournalist whose work appears in Life, Look, Fortune, Holiday and other nationally known publications. The Museum of Modern Art has in its permanent collection two of the prints now on view at the New Paltz Gallery.

Woolley's rare gift is his ability to make each picture a fresh experience for the viewer. No easy stylist, he makes use of form and design according to the dictates of his own selective vision to reveal man and his world in endless variety.

Woolley is also showing a line of drawings rendered with photographic materials. The drawings carry the same sense of excitement, the plunge into new experience, that characterizes his photography. This technique of drawing in photography, termed Develart, was discovered and perfected by Woolley. An article detailing the method was published in SCHOOL ARTS Magazine in 1959 and Develart has since been adopted in many schools as a teaching method.

Woolley writes extensively. Author and illustrator of four technical books on photography, he has written photographic articles for all of the national photographic magazines, and illustrated a textbook on Science Education for Elementary Teachers. An educator, himself, and member of the American Association of University Professors, he has taught at Louisiana State and the State University of New York, at New Paltz. He has held 14 one-man shows, and was a two-star exhibitor in the Photographic Society of America.

The New Paltz Gallery, located one quarter mile off the New York State Thruway Exit 18, toward Poughkeepsie, is open from 10:30 a. m., to 6 p. m., daily and until 9 p. m. Thursday and Friday evenings.

College Has Note

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—The Skidmore College Library is the new owner of a note, signed by Benjamin Franklin, that promised the United States would pay France 750,000 livres.

The note, dated Nov., 15, 1781, was an agreement to repay the loan by Jan. 1, 1788. Franklin wrote 36 words in the note and signed it twice. At the time, he was U.S. minister-plenipotentiary to France.

Skidmore said Sunday the note was a gift of Perc S. Brown of Orinda, Calif.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today's dilemma: What do Peter, Sammy, Dean, et al., give their leader for a wedding present . . . And how does Sinatra's engagement to Juliet Prowse strike Dorothy Provine, who now has lost Frank—and "The Roaring Twenties?"

Dinah Shore is still ducking the press because she doesn't want to talk about the divorce. . .

The two top movie fan mags are a puzzle. One gave up scandal for the sweetness-and-light routine, the other did the opposite. . .

Doris Day should have a talk with husband-producer Marty Melcher. She's still too young and pretty to be filmed through all those filters, as in "Lover Come Back." . . . Saddest sight in town: The leveling of all those wonderful outdoor sets at Fox to make way for a building complex. Down with progress! . . .

Concerning "Something's Got to Give," it may be Marilyn Monroe, who isn't satisfied with the script . . . "Flower Drum Song" is fine entertainment, but do you really need two dream sequences in one picture? . . . Fox, which allowed "The Innocents" to escape rather than being released, is now beginning to sell this distinguished film. . . .

Jill St. John is typed. She plays a movie starlet in Rome in both "Tender is the Night" and "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone." . . . Why was "Tender" released just after the Academy deadline? Because Fox didn't want it to interfere with the Oscar chances of "The Hustler?" . . . Still unanswered: What does Jeffrey Hunter do for an encore after "King of Kings?" . . .

Add Gene Kelly to the pro-Twisters: "It lets people who can't dance think they can, and those who can dance can have fun with it." . . . Nomination: Warren Beatty for the slouchist new star offscreen since James Dean . . . Debbie Reynolds is one of the few girls around who could take a middling comedy-Western like "Second Time Around" and make it fun. . .

Worth looking into?—The claim of University Cinema Arts graduates that certain studio unions are impossible to join unless you are the son of a member. These are the same unions complaining about "runaway" productions. . .

What a difference flubber can make. Disney productions made $4.5 million in 1961, compared to a loss of over a million in 1960. . .

Why We Say--

RACING: This expression, which means to do something well in advance of the starting date, is from racing. It dates back about 35 years to the time when a gun, firing a blank cartridge, was first used to start runners on the track . . . some would be so anxious that they would start before the gun was actually fired.

Unusual Tactics Avoid End-Play

This week will cover interesting plays and today's hand is a conspicuous example of brilliant dummy play nullified by brilliant defense.

You don't have to approve the bidding any more than I do, but the five-diamond contract would have been a cinch against a reasonable trump break.

South was sure that the bidding marked East with all three missing trumps, but he saw a ray of sunshine.

West held the first trick with the king of hearts and shifted to the king of clubs. South took it with the ace, ruffed a club, ruffed a heart, ruffed another club, ruffed a second heart, cashed his ace and dummy's king of spades, ruffed dummy's last heart, led his last club and ruffed with dummy's king of trumps.

This line of play which was based on the correct assumption that West had started with five clubs and four cards in each major suit deserved a better fate than actually befell it.

If East had discarded his last spade when dummy ruffed with the king, he would have been forced to ruff the third spade and lead away from his queen of trumps.

How did East avoid the end play? He underruffed dummy's king of diamonds. Then he was able to follow to the third spade and avoid the end play.

New York Workers Average $102.71 Wage

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's non-agricultural workers were paid an average of $102.71 a week in 1960, the sixth highest among the states.

Alaska, Michigan, California, Illinois and Delaware outranked New York, Industrial Commissioner Martin P. Catherwood said Saturday, citing statistics announced recently by the Federal Bureau of Employment Security.

The average weekly wage of New Yorkers working in non-manufacturing industries was surpassed only by workers in Alaska. New York ranked 12th in manufacturing industries.

Told Tough Boss Where to Go

Kovacs Became Movie Star Hard Way, Lived Rich Life

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

ERNIE KOVACS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There were fewer more colorful characters than Ernie Kovacs, a comic who spent more on cigars than many people earn--about 20 dollars a day.

He came to town with a reputation of being one of television's most inventive comics—a writer, producer, star and director of many shows that were television classics.

Does It Hard Way

He soon became a movie star by doing it the hard way. In his first picture, he told the toughest studio boss in town to go to hell.

As a result, he wound up with a $600,000 house, a price of $200,000 a picture and a reputation as one of the brightest movie comedy finds in years.

People in Hollywood who told off the late Harry Cohn and kept working at Columbia Studios could be counted on the thumb of one hand.

"We were making 'Operation Mad Ball,'" Kovacs once recalled. "It was a party sequence with lots of drunken GIs and lots of pretty French girls. About 4 a.m., this character comes up to me and says, 'I hear you've been having a ball chasing these pretty starlets around the set all night.'

None of His Business

"Actually, that's what I was supposed to be doing but I figured it was none of this guy's business so I told him to go to hell."

Kovacs later was told that it was Cohn, boss of Columbia Pictures.

"For some reason, Harry and I became great friends after that. Don't ask me why."

Kovacs and his wife, Edie Adams, lived like movie stars used to live.

His hilly driveway had an asphalt turntable that spins cars around like a railroad roundhouse and heads them downhill. Little things like that turned what was once a $100,000 home into a $600,000 residence.

In Kovacs' den, there were such things as an indoor waterfall and a wine cellar that had artificial cobwebs on the bottles, placed there by a special effects man of ABC-TV.

A Confirmed Gambler

Kovacs was one of the town's better known gamblers.

Once a friend called him from New York. Kovacs asked if he had a deck of cards in his desk.

The voice 3,000 miles away replied yes.

"Okay," said Kovacs, "cut them. I say red for $500."

Ernie recalled that there was silence on the other end of the line, then profanity.

He next gave his opponent a bet that the next card would be a spade for $500.

Once again there was silence on the other end. And the next mail brought a check for $1,000.

Kovacs' TV shows, always conceived by him, were classics. A recent one was done without a word of dialogue and got rave reviews from critics.

He was a gourmet in his food tastes, a frequent diner at such restaurants as Chasen's, Romanoff's and Larue's.

Would Miss Her Cooking

Then he hired a cook and paid her a thousand dollars a month.

"She is so great that I eat home every night now," he said recently, "because I'm afraid I'll miss something for supper."

Director Richard Quine who directed his first picture and several afterward, once said that Kovacs was so brilliant with comedy that he didn't need to see a script.

"The best way to work with Ernie is to tell him a minute before shooting what the scene is all about and then let him create the comedy himself," Quine said.

For a long time, Columbia typed him as a comic villain, usually as a stiff army captain.

"I fight at being type-cast," he once said. "I don't want audiences seeing my pictures 10 years from now and saying: 'Oh yes, I remember him—the guy who always played fat captains.'

"So I diet between roles. I lost 40 pounds for 'Our Man in Havana.' That shows I can play thin captains, too."

Solon Lists 10 'Worst' '61 Films

The 10 "worst films" of 1961 were announced today by Assemblyman Luigi R. Marano (R-Kings), chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee Studying Pornography.

The selections were made on the basis of each of the motion picture's "blatant wholesaling of sordid sex as the dominant story line," he said.

"While it can be argued whether sex is suitable as a subject for extensive treatment as film entertainment on the adult level, that would be getting into the shadow of the censorship controversy. Our concern is what these lewd, low-grade screen offerings do to our youngsters. Most of the films on this list are just a half-step above illicit stag movies.

"In fact," he said, "the movie producers are now lifting their own ban on the use of sexual perversion as a scenario theme. A film made in Britain and due for release here in February, titled "The Victim" uses homosexuality as its story line," he pointed out.

Marano said that his reason for releasing the list is the hope that parents and others interested in shielding youngsters from this type of lascivious screen fare will be guided accordingly.

Marano said parents must be given the facts so they can help stamp out pornography in literature or movies after the authorities provide the proper legal machinery to do the job. He declared that his committee report will be filed with the Legislature next week and will make recommendations for a stiffer legal approach to the problem.

Marano listed the following films on his "10 worst" line-up: Never on Sunday, La Dolce Vita, Splendor in the Grass, Liaisons Dangereuses, Heat of Summer, Rocco and His Brothers, Something Wild, The Couch, Beat Girl, and Love at Night.

Welfare Association Meets January 18-19

The midwinter meeting of the New York Public Welfare Association will be held in Albany at the Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel, January 18-19. The association is composed of local public welfare officials. The New York State Association of Public Welfare Accountants will meet simultaneously.

Raymond W. Houston, commissioner, New York State Department of Social Welfare; and Patrick J. Keniry, assistant counsel, Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization, will address the opening general session, Thursday morning. Dr. Robert D. Helsby, executive deputy industrial commissioner, State Department of Labor, will speak at the annual dinner meeting that evening.

Wins top automotive award: "Car of the Year"

It's official. Buick is Motor Trend Magazine's Car of the Year. Motor Trend's car experts studied, drove and compared every U.S. car make—then spelled out their award "to the 1962 Buick . . . and the power concept for the future expressed in America's only V-6 automobile engine." And what a combination of V-lively scat and 6-minded economy! The Special's Fireball V-6 engine is standard, too, on all 5 Special models—sedan, coupe, convertible, 2- and 3-seat wagons. Also standard: a 3-speed Synchromesh transmission, heater-defroster . . . even little extras like dual front arm rests. The down-low price will quickly put you on the Bandwagon for Buick. Accord, Delanoy Fuel Score Victories in 'Y' Cage Loop

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Despite rumors circulating among the basketball fraternity, the venerable YMCA League will survive, as it has for more than two decades.

Unever competition and lopsided scores, with as much as 30 and 40 point spreads in final scores, prompted some of the faint hearted to predict an early demise of the league.

A check with Steve Orozco, the personable, young athletic director at the Y, reveals that the YMCA League managers may have been stricken with a mass attack of bashfulness during the organizational meetings last fall.

It seems that nobody, but nobody, wanted any truck with the Ray's Tackle Shop powerhouse. The dilemma was acute but it was solved in this manner. The teams agreed to play a single round robin — 10 games — as a qualifying round. At the end of the first swing around, the league will be split into two divisions based on first half standings.

The proposal has considerable merit and was the difference between having a league and no league.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Wilt Chamberlain was averaging 48.6 points a game the last time the NBA statistical sheet came out. He also had missed 285 free throw attempts in 676 tries. If The Stilt could average anywhere near the big boys in foul shooting, a 50-plus average would be a cinch. But isn't that what the purists are screaming about? . . . The National Motor Boat Show which opened last week in New York points up the fact that boating is now a tremendous business and recreation. It is estimated that there are now 7,175,000 recreational boats in existence on all waters in the United States today. A breakdown of that total reveals there are 760,000 inboard motor boats, 3,880,000 outboard motor boats, 465,000 sailboats, 2,070,000 rowboats, canoes, dinghies, prams and other miscellaneous craft. . . . Bridge is another game that has caught on fire in Ulster County and elsewhere in the country. There are now an estimated 25 million players in the United States. . . . Wonder who is the best bridge player in Ulster County? Will someone venture an opinion and let us take it from there.

• Hot Stove Stuff:

When Ralph Houk piloted the Yankees to the World's Championship in his freshman year at the helm he became only the third big league pilot ever to accomplish the feat. The others were Bucky Harris with Washington in 1924 and Eddie Dyer with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946. . . . In hitting 54 homers in 1961, Mickey Mantle led the majors in home run frequency by clouting one every 9.5 times at bat. Roger Maris was right behind Mickey with a home run every 9.7 times at bat. Incidentally, when Maris was named the American League's Most Valuable Player, it was the 15th time in 31 years since the award was instituted that a Yankee was the winner. Detroit is the runnerup with six MVP's. . . . When Whitey Ford posted his fabulous 25-4 won and lost record, it boosted the little lefty's career record to 156 wins and only 63 losses for a .715 percentage. This puts him second only to former Yankee Spud Chandler's .717, the all-time major league high. Ford's lifetime ERA is a record low 2.76. . . . Announcement that Joe DiMaggio would make a second trip to Florida as a Yankee "batting instructor" points up a curious co-incidence. During the years Casey Stengel was manager, the Yankee Clipper kept a respectful distance from the Bombers. Did Casey resent Joe or was there natural disenchantment between the two? . . . We must dissent from our AP colleagues. We voted for the Green Bay Packers as Team of the Year and Vince Lombardi as Coach of the Year. Lost out on both counts. The Yankees were great in 1961, but as a team and considering all factors involved, we have to go with the Packers. And this from a Yankee rooter since the days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig!

Accord ripped Doran's, 52-33, and Delanoy Fuel edged Dick's Barber Shop, 52-49, in Kingston YFCA cage games Saturday at the Broadway court.

Cliff Schoonmaker, the pilot, and Ron Roby, the popular sports broadcaster, were high for Accord. They had help from Fred Wustrau. Pat Crowley was the only Doran's player in double figures.

Accord led at the quarter stops, 22-13, and 34-19, after the teams had finished the opening stanza in a 6-6 deadlock.

Delanoy and Dick's Barber Shop were tied on 14 different occasions before Ted Bream clinched matters with a basket. He had 10 points and Eric Broberg rimmed 13 to pace the winners. Tony Causa and Joe Spada were in double digits for the Barber Shop.

Tuesday—Byrne vs. Dick's (7), Accord vs. Trailways (8) and Hub vs. Yellow Jackets (9).

Wednesday — Baliton vs. Doran's (7) and Rye YMCA vs. Kingston Stars (8).

Jones Dairy keglers retained their first place advantage in the Hudson Valley League with a pair of wins over Rhoda Arms as Larry Petersen connected for 683.

In an all local match, 3 Brothers Egg Farms beat Charles Ramsey in three while Miron Lumber journeyed to Liberty and took a pair from Monticello Raceway.

Petersen rapped consistent games of 222, 258 and 203 for his total. Chris Gallo added 204-216-229-649 and Jack Ferraro had his usual 600 series, socking 167-247-198-612. Frank Bandiero was the best for the Newburgh team with 196-186-227-609.

The visitors won the first game, 1007-934, but were then beaten, 1052-1001 and 1004-902.

Bill Lawrence toppled the pins for 211-201-245-657 and Charles Manfro added 224-214-195-633 to lead 3 Brothers. Joe Ausanio had 201-186-221-608 for Charles Ramsey. The winners shot 1017-965-982 against 999-917-862.

Anchorman Ken Joseph fired 203-206-200-609 to spark Miron Lumber to its pair of victories. Cliff Schoonmaker had 185-200-216 for 601 to pace the Raceway team. Miron had games of 906-962-856 against 853-954-899.

Opening Tilt

Myron J. Michael Five Tops Saugerties, 63-31

Trailing, 21-20 at halftime, the Myron J. Michael Junior High cagers solved the Saugerties zone defense with a fast break in the third and fourth periods to stop the home side, 63-31, in the opener for Coach Ronnie Cole's cagers Saturday.

Dan Heppner and Ron Lindsey did the bulk of the scoring for the winners while Lindsey and Larry Armstead were the defensive stars.

In the seventh grade contest, the MJM boys won a thriller, 39-34. Joel Tomson and Charlie Lay led the winners with 13 points each while Ritchie had 19 for the seventh grade Sawyers.

The local five will open its season on Saturday, hosting Left Vincent's Arlington Junior High team.

Ray's, Byrne Get Victories In Rec Basketball Contests

It took Ray's Tackle Shop four minutes to score a point but once Coach Ward Dunham's cagers found the range, they remained unbeaten in the City Rec Cage league with a solid 74-50 win over Carroll's Bait Box last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the other attraction, Byrne Chevrolet rallied in the second half to trim Hub Delicatessen, 71-61, despite a good performance by Slim Bill Fitzgerald.

While the Tackle Shop had trouble getting started, the Bait Box zoomed to a 4-0 and then an 8-2 lead. From then on, the powerful league leaders just toyed with their opponents. It was 12-12 at the quarter but a second period outburst broke the game open. The Tackle Shop led, at halftime and just coasted from there.

Scheffel Returns

Bob Bondar led the well balanced attack with 20 points. Joe Klonowski, Chick Boice and Ronnie Scheffel were also in double figures. Scheffel, playing his first game in several weeks, was his usual self in the playmaking department. Veteran Andy Juhl was high for the Bait Box with 20 points.

Byrne trailed the Hub, 26-22, at the halftime break as Fitzgerald hit for 15 points in the first two periods. The winners jumped ahead in the third period and stayed that way the rest of the way. The closest the Hub was able to get was to within five points in the final stanza.

Fitzgerald rimmed 22 points to lead both clubs. Bruce Wiederspiel had 19 to pace Byrne, 18 of them coming in the second half. Bud Harder finished with 12 and Jim Ferraro had 10.

Texas Rancher Guest Speaker At Lowland Club

Floyd Smith of Lampasas, Texas, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Lowlands Ranch Club, Inc.

Smith, member of a Texas family which has lived in Texas for four generations, spoke about a Texas ranch life of the past and present. The talk was followed by a question and answer period and was greatly enjoyed.

The club discussed tentative plans for a square dance in the near future and overall plans for 1962. Refreshments were served after the meeting. The next meeting is scheduled Feb. 4 at 2 p. m. at the clubhouse.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ... by TURRAY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (NEA) — Cal Kunz, the Denver Broncos' owner, reveals that Merlin Olsen, his number one draft choice, turned down an offer of $55,000 for two years, plus a career job starting at $5,000 a year' . . to sign with the Los Angeles Rams. . . . No wonder Cal predicts a common draft between the two professional football leagues in a couple of years. . . .

New York Giant Jimmy Patton has long held the title of littlest defensive regular in pro football . . . but the crown has been usurped by All-American League Dick Harris of the San Diego Chargers who sometimes scales in at 155 . . . What does he do when a 230-pound fullback busts through the line? "I pray." . . .

* * *

Some of the AFL Eastern stars who played under Wally Lemm, believe that his easy-does-it policy, a la Bobby Dodd, will catch up on the Houston head man in a couple of years . . . Wally is back selling sporting goods in Illinois, the only undefeated pro coach of 1961. . . . When Bud Adams of the Oilers first called him about succeeding Lou Rymkus in mid-season, Wally turned him down flat . . . he'd already quit football before last season "because if you're not a head coach by the time you're 40, you should admit defeat." . . . This was two days before Rymkus was let loose and Wally didn't want Lou to think he was undercutting him. . . .

Wally Lemm

To keep Jim Owens at Washington, says Gov. Albert Rosellini, "we wound up giving the coach the University and retaining for ourselves possession of the parking lot concession. . . .

Gene Fullmer reciting his athletic career: "I tried football and got a broken leg, went out for basketball and lost a tooth, switched to track and got a trick knee. That's when I took up boxing—it looked a lot easier." . . . his toughest fight? "The one you've never seen. With my wife." . . .

"When you're in a slump," Roger Maris has been telling winter audiences, "there's only one thing to do. Go crazy." . . .

When Jerry Lucas was in Russia last summer, the Muscovites got so intrigued by the smooth basketball techniques of the Ohio State whiz that they asked him to stage a one-hour solo showing of his moves and shots . . . while they had cameras whirring all over the court. . . . "If I ever go back," grimaces Jerry, "I'll be playing against myself." . . .

Buffalo Bill defenders like Billy Atkins hated to see Buster Ramsey looped as head coach "because there's so much I still want to learn—and Buster's the best." . . . the trap Buster fell into was that he tried to do it all himself . . . he didn't even have good enough assistants to ease the load. . . .

Bobby Bell, Minnesota's All-America tackle, wasn't at all bashful in his caustic reaction to UCLA in the Rose Bowl: "They better get rid of that single wing. They have to go four yards to reach you, so you have that much time to get ready for them." . . . Gopher coach Murray Warmath talking about one of next year's prospects: "Anybody who beats him out of a first-string job will be a 'Goin' Jessie.'" . . .

San Diego press has to think twice before hopping on Charger quarterback Jack Kemp . . . he's going to work for the club as a public relations man. . . .

The most important man in college football these days is the senior "red shirt" drafted as a future by the pros . . . like Booky Bolin, the Mississippi guard, who savored the sights of Las Vegas and San Diego as the guest of Lamar Hunt in his private plane because the Dallas Texans would like to get him in 1963. . . . Booky is also an expert on culinary arts. . . .

* * *

Between you'n'me, the Twist has invaded pro football, too . . . with the current championship claimed by Sherill Headrick, the Texans' linebacker . . . and halfback Paul Lowe of the Chargers a close second. . . .

Return Tilt Wednesday

Kingston YMCA All-Stars Overpower Rye Team, 106-87

Jumping to an early first quarter lead, the Kingston YMCA All-Stars swamped the Rye Stars, 106-87, Saturday at the Westchester County gym.

The home side knotted the count, 42-42, midway in the second period but the local cagers went on another point spree and were never in trouble thereafter.

John Graham and Ted Costas, All-Westchester County selections while in high school, and Jerry Vales, a former Notre Dame cager, topped the home side. As usual, it was balance which paid off for Kingston as Joe Klonowski, Chick Boice, Walt Harder and Leo Armstead were in double figures.

The clubs will play a return game Wednesday at the Kingston court.

Last Gasp Touchdown Gives West 31-30 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The West emerged from the 1962 Pro Bowl, one of the wildest ever, with a 31-30 victory—but it took a combination of triumph and tragedy to overturn the underdog East.

The National Football League's postseason thriller was witnessed Sunday by 57,409 coliseum fans and a national television audience of millions.

There was a 12-yard touchdown pass by Johnny Unitas to Jon Arnett in the last two seconds, a last-minute fumble by the East's Jim Brown that paved the way for the final West score, and a blocked conversion attempt in the third period.

After it was over, Brown — named the most valuable player —said he felt more like a goat.

With five minutes left, the brilliant Cleveland fullback shook off four tacklers and bulldozed 70 yards to a touchdown, giving the East a 30-24 edge.

Jimmy Fumbles

With a minute left and the ball on the East's 41, Unitas went to work. The Baltimore star passed for 15 yards to rookie Mike Ditka of Chicago and 14 yards to Colt teammate Lenny Moore. With 15 seconds left, a Unitas pass to Moore fell incomplete.

As the seconds ticked away, Unitas faded, barely eluding the grasp of New York's Andy Robustelli. Rolling to his left, the quarterback spotted elusive Los Angeles halfback Jon Arnett alone in the end zone and tossed him a perfect strike.

Jim Martin of Detroit kicked the winning conversion, his fourth of the day. Martin also booted a 27-yard field goal in the second period.

Another crucial play occurred in the third quarter when Green Bay's Henry Jordan and Detroit's Dick (Night Train) Lane broke through to bat down an Eastern conversion attempt. Jordan was named most valuable lineman. The blocked point eventually spelled defeat for the East, the loser in the last three Pro Bowl games. The West has an 8-4 edge in the series.

Almost Trapped

Unitas, always unruffled, said of the winning TD toss: "Mike Ditka was the primary target, but he was held up at the line. I was lucky to get out of a trap."

Unitas, most valuable player in the '60s and '61 Pro Bowls, completed 13 of 23 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns.

Next to Brown, the East's unhappiest player was aging quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who tossed two TD passes and completed 15 of 26 pass attempts.

Gaily Purdy Wins In Speedskating

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Eastern States speedskating crowns are worn today by the New York State Women's Golf champion and a high school senior making his first try in the men's competition.

Miss Gail Purdy of Glens Falls, who won the golf title last summer, captured the women's crown Sunday in the 30th annual Eastern States meet. She compiled 12 points with victories in the 440-yard and 880-yard races and a third in the 220 Saturday.

Bob Fenn of Flushing, last year's intermediate champion, won five races for a perfect score of 25. His victories were in the 220, 440, 880, mile and three-mile races.

Both Miss Purdy and Fenn are 18 years old.

Kansas City Wins First Half in ABL

CLEVELAND (AP)— The Kansas City Steers go into the second half of the American Basketball League campaign today wearing the title of champions.

The Steers won the first-half title in a playoff over the weekend, defeating the Cleveland Pipers two games to one. The title guarantee Kansas City a spot in the playoffs at the end of the season, although it looks as though no special pass will be necessary if the Steers keep on playing the way they have been.

Kansas City, the top team in the league's Western Division, displayed a strong defense and accurate shooting as they downed Cleveland 120-104 Sunday in the third game of the series.

Nick Mantis wound up with a total of 25 points for the Steers and Larry Staverman collected 24.

Jack Adams of Cleveland led in scoring with 30 points, all but seven in the first half. Larry Siegfried assumed the Cleveland scoring burden in the second half, when he scored all 26 of his points.

Weber and Mrs. Garms PinChamps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The new champions of national All-Star bowling are Dick Weber, a 32-year-old St. Louis pro, and Mrs. Shirley Garms of Chicago.

Weber scored a 10th frame strike for a 248 final game Saturday night to win the title in a tight match with Roy Lown of El Paso, Tex. Weber's winning margin was 19 pins.

Both men were among bowlers who rolled a record five perfect 300 games during the 21st annual tournament. Lown was relatively unknown in bigtime bowling before the tournament and Weber made the 16-man finals field by only one pin.

Mrs. Garms, 37, rolled 647 in three games to defeat Joy Abel of Chicago for the women's title.

Fullmer Clamors for Moore Fight, But Wants Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Fullmer today set his sights squarely on ol' Archie Moore's New York-Massachusetts-European version of the world light heavyweight championship—with one important reservation.

"I would like to meet Archie for the title any time," said Fullmer, himself the world — National Boxing Association version — middleweight champion. "But I won't fight him if he wants all the money.

"I have heard of some of his demands before he has signed contracts. My days as an amateur are over. I want part of the purse."

Fullmer, who comes from West Jordan, Utah, was honored Sunday night as "Fighter of the Year" by the New York Boxing Writers Association at the organization's 36th annual dinner.

"I think Archie is about ready to be taken," said Fullmer, "and I think I am the man to take him."

His manager, Marv Jenson, nodded agreement.

Quick Elected New President Knot Hole Loop

Donald E. Quick was installed as president of the Metropolitan Knot Hole baseball league in ceremonies Sunday at Amell's Cozy Corner. He succeeds Carl Thurin.

James F. Howard was elected vice president and Albert E. Eisele was named to his fourth term as secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the official organization are: Kenneth E. Newell, director; George S. Brown, chief umpire and director of field operations; Robert Pleugh, director of field maintenance.

Victor C. Amell is the founder and organizer of the Knot Hole league. Walt Daugherty retired as a director.

The Koenig A. C. sponsors of Knot Hole baseball, was organized in 1958 for the express purpose of affording young boys ranging in age from 8 through 12, who for some reason could not qualify in organized leagues, the opportunity to play organized baseball.

The league is made up of six teams with a total of 90 boys in uniform. The league looks forward to its fifth consecutive successful season in 1962.

Wilt Tallies 73, 62 Points Over the Weekend

BOSTON (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the human scoring machine, is playing the best basketball of his record-smashing career. The opinion is unanimous.

Chamberlain bettered the regulation game mark with 73 points against Chicago Saturday night in a 135-117 victory, then improved on his own Boston Garden effort with 62 points Sunday as his team lost to the Celtics 145-136.

"I'm shooting as good as I ever did," Chamberlain said.

"I'm glad I got those 73 points because it covers over the controversy about the 78 I scored in triple overtime against Los Angles. There was an argument over whether it should be considered a record or not."

The previous regulation time point record was 71 by Elgin Baylor.

"I thought Chamberlain shot the best he ever did against me," observed Boston center Bill Russell, who fouled out with four and one half minutes to play.

In other Sunday action, Syracuse crushed New York 141-118 for the Nat's sixth straight victory, Cincinnati outlasted St. Louis 119-114 and Detroit snapped Los Angeles 118-108.

New Paltz, Rondout Cage Tilt Postponed

Tonight's UCAL basketball game between New Paltz and Rondout Valley, scheduled for the Ganders' gym, has been postponed until Wednesday, according to Coach Chick Meehan. Poor road conditions and the fact that both schools are closed today forced the postponement.

The jayvee contest on Wednesday will begin at 6:30 p. m.

West Virginia Bids for Entry Into Top Ten

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anything is sure in Southern Conference basketball, it's West Virginia.

Of course a basketball sometimes can take funny bounces, and it did for West Virginia last March. Overwhelming favorites to win the conference title for the seventh straight time, the Mountaineers were toppled by William and Mary in the league tournament semifinals and the crown eventually went to George Washington.

That took place at the Richmond Arena, which West Virginia will visit tonight for the first time since that unhappy experience last year. The high-powered Mountaineers, fresh from a 120-68 romp over George Washington Saturday night and with a glistening 8-0 conference record, have their second meeting of the season with Richmond's Spiders. They handled Richmond a month ago without strain, 97-61.

The Mountaineers were among the nation's top ten about that time, but were dumped out after a string of three successive losses. Since then they've surged back by winning five straight, counting Villanova among their victims, and are prime candidates for a re-entry into the rankings with an 11-3 mark.

There are likely to be some shaking up in those ratings, too, after some surprises last week. Fourth-ranked Southern California (12-3) was upset, sixth-ranked Villanova (13-2) got racked up, seventh-ranked Mississippi State's (10-1) unbeaten string came to an abrupt end, and second-ranked Cincinnati (11-2) again found the jinx at Bradley too, much.

Vanderbilt crushed Mississippi State 100-86, starting the Bulldogs off on a sad note on their three-game road trip. Next comes Georgia Tech tonight and Mississippi Saturday night.

That loss by Mississippi State left the smooth and awesome Buckeyes of Ohio State as the country's only undefeated team. The top-ranked Bucks ran over Michigan 89-64 Saturday for their 12th straight, and will have a week's rest before resuming their Big Ten campaign at Minnesota.

Villanova was upended, but big, by Xavier on the Ohioans' court, 87-66. Southern California could do no more than split in its Big Five series at Washington, losing 85-67 Friday night as Bill Hanson scored 37 points and rebounding 78-64 Saturday night despite another fine game by Hanson, who pumped in 32 more points.

Cincinnati's downfall came last Wednesday night in a 70-68 overtime loss to Bradley, marking the fifth time in five years the Bearcats have been ambushed at Peoria. Cincinnati has been idle since, but has two potential troublemakers to meet this week—Dayton (10-3) Tuesday night and eighth-ranked Duquesne (11-1) at Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Third-ranked Kentucky (12-1), in its accustomed spot at the head of the Southeastern Conference standings, will be in action tonight at Tennessee before a two-week layoff. The Wildcats polished off Louisiana State 84-63 Friday night and have won 11 in a row since a 2-point setback by Southern Cal six weeks ago.

Jacobs Is Winner Of Golf Tourney In Sudden Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—There's nothing like money to boost a golfer's morale, so it was a happy Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., who led the way today to the Bing Crosby clambake after winning the $25,000-San Diego Open.

Jacobs, whose last good win was at Denver in 1958, pocketed $3,500 as the winner of a dramatic sudden death playoff with another young tournament pro, Johnny Pott of Ocean Springs, Miss.

Both are 26, both are ex-collegians—Jacobs from Southern California, Pott from Louisiana State.

Jacobs shot a final-round 65, six under par for 277, and finished early. Pott, in a better position at the start of the day, scored 69 for 277.

Pott made his bid in a pair of threesomes that included Mike Souchak, Bob Goalby, Art Wall Jr., Gary Player and Jay Hebert.

Jacobs was tied for 15th place Sunday morning. Pott was still close going into the final nine holes, but few gave him much chance to hang on with the likes of Souchak and Goalby, the cool leaders at this point.

Knicks, Warriors Win Cadet Contests

Knicks and Warriors were successful in YMCA Cadet league games on Saturday. The Knicks won, 13-8, over the Globetrotters while the Warriors trourced the Celtics, 16-2.

National YMCA Week Scheduled January 21 to 28

National YMCA Week will be observed from January 21 to 28th, General Secretary Louis H. Schafer said today.

Art Linkletter, radio and TV personality, is the national chairman of this special week. He is also a member of the National YMCA physical education committee. During the TV house party program Friday, Jan. 26, he will present Olympic Decathlon Champion, Rafer Johnson, a plaque as the third annual National YMCA Award for his contribution to the world of sports and to the YMCA.

Kingston YMCA will have many building programs that will be announced. Two special days have been set aside as follows:

Tuesday, Jan. 23, "Open House Day." All members will have the privilege of bringing in friends who are non-members and they will have the opportunity of participating in the day's program.

Saturday, Jan. 27 will be "Parents Night" as well as boys guest day. All boy members can bring a friend to participate in the gymnasium, swimming pool, craft work and other program features between 9 a. m. and noon. The evening program will start at 7:30, when the boys and their parents will participate in specially arranged programs in the gymnasium, swimming pool, recreation gym, game rooms and other special features, ending at 9:30 with refreshments. The parents program will be planned by the parents committee and the three YMCA staff members.

Dutchess Man Held for Jury On Three Counts

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A 39-year-old father of two was being held without bail today for grand jury action on charges of grand larceny, abduction and abandonment of his family.

Walter Pilch was arrested by State Police late Saturday in the Town of Deposit, Broome County.

With him, State Police said, was 14-year-old Dorothea Dinge, of Poughkeepsie. She had been the object of a 13-state alarm since she was reported missing Dec. 4.

Pilch was arraigned Sunday before Poughkeepsie Town Judge George Deitz.

Camel Driver Gets Gift of Pickup Truck

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — A pickup truck with two cases of spare parts and a complete tool box was formally handed to Pakistan camel driver Bashir Ahmad today by U.S. Ambassador William Rountree and the local Ford representative.

This type of truck usually costs about $5,000 in Pakistan. But the government of Pakistan, as a goodwill gesture to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's friend, waived the usual customs duty and sales tax and saved Bashir $1200.

The truck was a gift of the Ford Motor Co.

Search North Iceland For U.S. Navy Plane

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Search for a missing U.S. Navy plane centered today in North Iceland where a farmer reported seeing flashes after hearing an aircraft flying overhead.

The Neptune bomber took off from Keflavik Friday morning on patrol over the Greenland icecap and the Denmark straits with 12 crewmen aboard. The farmer said he saw the flashes shortly after midnight Saturday.

To Talk About Cold

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Negotiations are scheduled today between city officials and 250 trash collectors, who struck Wednesday in protest against working in severe cold.

A six-day accummulation of refuse and garbage and hundreds of disgruntled house-holders await a solution to the dispute.

Cyprus Temple Elects Officers

STANLEY D. SEIGLER

A Schenectady businessman, Stanley D. Seigler was elected potentate at the annual meeting of Cyprus Temple, AAONMS, held at Albany Masonic Temple Saturday night.

Also elected were Harold B. Shults, chief rabban; Robert W. Gale, assistant rabban; John N. McDowell, high priest and prophet; Erwin W. Milstrey, oriental guide; Harold E. Hartman, treasurer, and Rollin H. Thomas, recorder.

Planes Arrive To Help Forces Of Ngo Dinh Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A U.S. Navy ship arrived today with two large Army helicopters and several observation planes to aid the forces of President Ngo Dinh Diem against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

The aircraft ferry Breton, a converted carrier, also had seven jet fighters and a Neptune flying boat bomber on her deck, but these were to be taken to Yokosuka Naval Air Station in Japan, U.S. sources said.

Four jets bearing the markings of the U.S. Air Force 109th Fighter Squadron landed today at Saigon airport, but U.S. sources declined to comment on them.

The sources denied a report that the Breton had discharged a company of helicopters—about 20 aircraft and 200 men—farther up the coast of South Viet Nam on Sunday.

The Breton was the second ship loaded with planes to arrive here since South Viet Nam and the United States reached agreement last month on a major new military buildup.

The first ship, the Core, brought about 40 helicopters and 400 U.S. Army men to fly and service them. The helicopters are capable of carrying 14 men each.

The official silence blanketing the arrival of new U.S. equipment has led to wide speculation as to the numbers and types of weapons being brought into the war-torn republic.

Large quantities of military supplies arrive here both by air and ship nearly every day, and convoys made up of U.S. Army trucks are often seen passing through Saigon.

Buffalo Mayor Shuns Meeting Called by Wagner

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Mayor Chester Kowall of Buffalo said he would shun a meeting of mayors in Rochester today because it "obviously is an exercise in personal political projection" by New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Wagner and Mayor Henry E. Gillette of Rochester, both Democrats, called the meeting of mayors of the state's largest cities "to make common cause" for a larger share of state aid for schools.

Democratic Mayor Erastus Corning of Albany, Republican Mayor John E. Flynn of Yonkers and a representative of Republican Mayor William F. Walsh of Syracuse were scheduled to attend the meeting with Wagner, Gillette and Kowal.

"If collective political action were at all necessary to initiate revision in the school aid program," said Kowal, "Mr. Wagner would hardly seem qualified as a spearhead for practical action.

Weather Picture Up to Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York: Mild weather most of the week, with temperatures averaging well above seasonal normals. Rain changing to snow flurries at beginning and again about Thursday and Friday. Total water content one-half inch or more.

Western New York: Temperatures will average 4-6 degrees above normal. Cooler Tuesday, moderating Wednesday, but cool again Thursday, followed by a warming trend in remainder of the week. Precipitation will average one-half to three-quarters of an inch melted, as snow flurries Tuesday, and snow occasionally mixed with rain Thursday and Friday.

Temperature normals: Daytime highs 25-32. Nighttime lows 5-15.

Struck With Pellets While Hunting Rabbits

A Greene County man suffered minor shotgun pellet wounds Sunday while hunting rabbits with a friend in the Climax section of Coxsackie. According to state police Edward Ross, 35, of RD Coxsackie and Theodore Lennon, 38, of the same address were hunting when a rabbit suddenly ran between them. Lennon fired at it and some of the pellets struck Ross in the lower left leg, troopers said. He was treated by Dr. T. Earl McQuade of Coxsackie.

To remove brown stains from glass baking dishes put three tablespoons of baking soda into each casserole and fill with hot water.

Heavy Wet Snow In Broad Areas Of Midwest Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy wet snow blanketed broad areas of the Midwest today, piling atop the big covering still on the ground from last week's storm.

The storm, which swept northeastward from eastern Kansas and Oklahoma dumped from one up to more than six inches of snow in a belt extending from northern Missouri across northwestern Illinois into southeast Wisconsin and western lower Michigan.

Snow depths in the region ranged from 8 to 10 inches, with the covering in Muskegon, Mich., measuring 15 inches. Chicago, hit by an 11-inch snowfall a week ago, started digging out from the fresh fall which was expected to reach eight or nine inches.

Driving conditions were reported hazardous throughout the snow belt. At least three traffic deaths were attributed to slippery highways, one each in Kansas, Missouri and Iowa. Three persons died of heart attacks while shoveling snow in Illinois.

Air travel was curtailed in some cities, including Kansas City and Chicago.

South of the snow belt, heavy rains pounded areas from southern Illinois and Indiana southward through the lower Mississippi Valley.

Thunderstorms rumbled across Alabama and sections of Louisiana and Mississippi, causing some property damage. Gusts of 66 m.p.h. lashed Birmingham while gusty winds and heavy rains hit southeast Louisiana.

There was a warming trend in most of the Southeast in the wake of last week's unseasonable cold weather. Temperatures were above freezing for the first time in several nights in the Carolinas, Tennessee and the gulf region. Readings ranged up to 80 in southern Florida Sunday.

Negotiators Try Again to Settle Electrician Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators try again today to settle a strike of 9,000 electrical construction workers that began last Thursday.

Day-long talks failed Sunday night to produce a formula for settling the walkout despite a plea by Mayor Robert F. Wagner for quick agreement.

Harry Van Arsdale Jr., business manager of the striking Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, expressed dismay that representatives of the 600 hiring contractors were unwilling to continue the talks through the night.

"The situation," he said, "has taken a turn for the worse." He offered no further explanation.

City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix, who heads a panel of federal, state and city arbitrators trying to find a way to settle the deadlock, said "the atmosphere was not conducive to continuing the talks" Sunday night.

Felix said all areas in the dispute—including the union's demand for a four-hour work day—had been discussed during the day.

The strike has resulted in the layoff of more than 25,000 cement construction workers who were unable to continue projects until wiring and other electrical work was completed. Further layoffs are anticipated this week if the strike continues.

Icy Highways Result in School Closings in Area

Rain-slicked highways, which froze early today in most sections of Ulster County gave school children an unexpected holiday. School closings were ordered in virtually every district in the county, as well as at Rhinebeck, Red Hook and Catskill.

All Kingston City Schools, Consolidated schools and parochial schools in the city were closed. There was no school at Saugerties Central, Onteora Central, Rondout Valley, Ellenville, New Paltz, Highland and also at St. Mary's of the Snows parochial school in Saugerties.

Rural Roads Bad

Treacherous secondary roads in the rural areas prompted the no-school decisions, various superintendents explained.

County highways north of Kingston were sanded and the majority were passable at low speeds. Traffic tie-ups were reported on various county highways south of Kingston. Route 32 south of the Village of Rosendale, although sanded in spots, was tied-up early this morning.

The same conditions prevailed west of the city on Route 28 where several minor accidents were reported.

In the city, icy conditions of the streets reportedly caused 13 minor traffic mishaps. However no one was reported injured. A wheel came off one of the cars.

Driving Improves

Motorists using the state's highways, according to an Associated Press report, seemed to be driving more cautiously as traffic deaths continued at an unusually low level for the second consecutive weekend.

Five persons, compared with four a week ago, were killed by motor vehicles between 6 p.m. Friday and last midnight. Another person, a 6-year-old boy, was drowned when he fell through ice on a creek.

Roads this weekend generally were clear and dry. Ice made most highways slippery a week ago.

Thruway Mishap

An accident on the Thruway near Westfield ended a honeymoon trip for Donald F. Mertz, 29, of Gibsonia, Pa., and his bride of a day, Eileen, 24, who had lived in Pittsburgh. Mertz was killed Sunday when, State Police said, a car driven by his wife crashed into a bridge pier. Mrs. Mertz was injured seriously.

Other accident victims, by community:

Oakdale—Vickie Bird, 13, Oakdale, struck by a car Friday night.

Buffalo—Leslie D. Crusan, 49, Hamburg, struck by a car Friday night; died Saturday.

New York—Walter Schumann, 45, Astoria, struck by a car Saturday.

New York—Ronald Boccieri, 55, Staten Island, struck by a car Saturday night.

Freezing Rain, Fog Hit State In Southeast

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—Freezing rain and fog hit mountainous Southeastern New York early today, coating highways with ice and resulting in the cancellation of school in many rural areas.

Minor traffic smashups were reported throughout the area.

Several traffic jams on Route 9W up Storm King Mountain south of here were attributed to auto pileups.

State Police set an advisory speed limit of 35 miles an hour on the New York State Thruway between Suffern and Catskill.

Kingston Legion's Korean Veterans Night Scheduled

Kingston Post 150, American Legion, urges all Korean veterans to attend a special "Korean Veterans Night" meeting in the post home, 18 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston at 8:15 p. m., Tuesday.

[illegible]s meeting is in connection [illegible] the American Legion, De[illegible]ment of New York goal of obtaining approval of the "New York State Korean Veterans Bonus" in 1962.

Post 150 urges all veterans and non-veterans to support this program in an effort to recognize those who served their country in a time of national emergency. As everyone will recall, a bonus was paid to the veterans of World War I and II through the enactment of a State Bonus Bill.

Since 1951, there have been several Korean Bonus Bills introduced in the State Legislature. Every one of theme has been set aside in some legislative committee. The American Legion has had a Bonus Bill on tap for some time, and this year the greatest effort ever is being made to get this bill out of committee in order that the residents of the state may vote on its approval.

Every resident of this state is urged to write to his Congressman and Senator—without delay — stating their support of the Korean Bonus as proposed by the American Legion.

The Rev. Clarence E. Brown will be the speaker at Tuesday's Korean Veterans' Night meeting. The Rev. Mr. Brown is a World War I veteran and a 40-year member of the Legion. He has served as local post chaplain for the past 20 years, and has held office in the various levels of the Legion throughout the Department of New York. The Rev. Mr. Brown is considered an authority on Legion affairs and will discuss various bills passed by the state and government which are beneficial to the veteran and his family. One of the Legion's many accomplishments is the "GI Bill."

Since the Korean Bonus has been neglected for so long, all veterans are urged to attend this special meeting to discuss the ways in which your cooperation is so important and so urgently needed.

Members of the local Post are urged to personally contact as many Korean Veterans as possible, or accompany them to this meeting.

They Reach Solution

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Harry G. Helm and Police Chief Charles W. Maileff were discussing speeding on city streets.

They noted a sharp drop in complaints about speeding in one neighborhood.

The possible reason: The person who had made most of the complaints was arrested for speeding.

Yonkers Raceway To Zeckendorf Is Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP) — William Zeckendorf Sr. says the proposed sale of Yonkers Raceway to the Zeckendorf interests "is still very much alive."

Martin Tananbaum, raceway president, said Friday that negotiations had ended after a second payment of $3 million—due Jan. 5—for a 33 per cent controlling interest in the raceway was not made.

Zeckendorf, head of the Webb & Knapp real estate firm, said Sunday in a telegram:

"As of late last Friday, following a conference with Tananbaum and counsel, we understood that the purchase of the Yonkers Raceway stock was open and very much alive and that it would be closed as agreed."

The contract was announced last Oct. 11. It called for three payments for a total of more than $16 million, the final payment to be made in March.

In his statement Friday, Tananbaum said there was a question whether the first payment, announced as $1 million, would be forfeited because of the Jan. 5 failure.

Balloon Shot Fails Today When Huge Bag Falls Apart

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A huge space balloon broke apart hundreds of miles above the Atlantic today as it was inflating to the size of a 13-story building.

The breakup of the big balloon—dubbed "Big Shot" — showered several pieces of aluminum coated plastic into the ocean about 600 miles southeast of the Cape. The pieces, illuminated brilliantly by the rays of the rising sun, provided a spectacular show for observers.

The 300-pound bundle of plastic sheeting was folded neatly in a canister in the nose of a thor rocket which blasted off at 6:06 a.m. in an experiment aimed at testing techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite.

A few minutes after the launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the balloon had separated from the Thor and had started to inflate. But a short while later the space agency said that the balloon had split.

Failure Reason Unknown

The reason for the failure was not immediately known. Technicians planned to study television film relayed from a camera in the Thor booster. The film recorded the 25-minute flight.

An attempt also was under way to recover a 16-mm movie camera which ejected from the Thor and parachuted into the sea. The package carrying the movie camera was sighted floating in the ocean about 200 miles northeast of San Salvador about an hour after the launching. This film would provide a clearer picture of what happened to the big sphere.

Newsmen at the Cape saw the beginning of the inflation process as the sun reflected off the gleaming surface. The balloon at first appeared as a solitary star drifting slowly upward in the dark, clear sky.

Planned as Largest

Suddenly, several other bright objects appeared to surround it. Observers thought initially that these might be parts of the rocket and the canister which carried the folded balloon.

The fragments climbed upward for approximately the intended maximum altitude of 950 miles before starting a quick descent, leaving wavy vapor trails in their wake.

"Big Shot" was to have inflated to a diameter of 135 feet, which would have made it the largest—but not the heaviest—space vehicle ever sent aloft.

NASA has a backup Thor and balloon and expects to repeat the shot as soon as today's trouble is pinpointed.

If the second shot is successful, a similar sphere will be rocketed into orbit later this year as Echo II.

Health for All

Why Teach Health In Schools?

Youngsters in school do not always agree with the occasional critics of health education. One complaining parent said, "I don't want my child to be frightened by talk about cancer and tuberculosis and rheumatism. It's bad enough that every Saturday she has to visit her grandmother who is bed-ridden, without hearing about sickness in school."

Another thought it unnecessary. He said, "Schools should be concerned with language, mathematics, history and science. Everything else is a waste of the taxpayers' money."

What is the student side of the story?

Here are parts of compositions written by high school seniors who are glad that health education was part of their training.

"When my brother caught tuberculosis, the nurse wanted to test all of us. My parents were afraid to let her. They didn't understand why this had to be done. I knew about it from school and I translated the leaflet I got in school for them, so it was all right."

"I brought home a pamphlet about cancer. At first my mother was angry. She had a lump she was worried about and trying to forget. She even told me that if I hadn't brought it home, the lump would have gone away by itself. But now she is thankful. It turned out not to be cancer, but at least she doesn't have to worry about it in secret any more."

"I am perfectly healthy but I am glad for health education for two reasons. I feel more secure in knowing that the way my family lives is right and will help keep us healthy. It makes me feel good to be able to contribute to improving the health of people less fortunate."

Paintings Are Given To Dutchess College

President James F. Hall of Dutchess Community College today announced the acquisition of two Eighteenth Century paintings by the English artists George Morland and Ben Marshall and one Nineteenth Century painting by the English artist Thomas Faed. Valued at $9,000, the paintings were given to the college by Jack Mills, president of Mills Music, Inc., one of the world's largest music publishing companies.

In a letter presenting the bequest to the college, Mills stated: "I feel that works of this order should become public property fo rthe good of our young people, and I hope you will get much use out of them at your college."

This was not the first bequest to the college by Mills. In November 1958, he donated an eight century Byzantine wood carving.

Town of Esopus Vols HostTuesday County Meeting

Town of Esopus Fire Department will be host to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening at the Esopus fire house.

Since there was no meeting in December President Oscar Lambert will have an important agenda to have acted upon.

Among the matters will be presentation to 25-year members of their quarter-century cards by Secretary Fred C. Harder and the naming of delegates to the State and Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association conferences. Other business will also come before the meeting.

The February meeting will be held in Kingston where the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association will act as host.

Balance of Payments Takes Turn for Worse

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. balance of payments situation took a sharp and unexpected turn for the worse in the last quarter of 1961.

Preliminary figures indicate that the payments deficit soared to an annual rate of about $5 billion, not far from the peak rate of $5.7 billion recorded a year earlier at the height of a rush by foreigners to buy American gold.

In the July-September quarter of last year the deficit rate was $3.1 billion.

The deficit, in essence, represents the difference between the amount of money Americans spend, lend, invest and give away abroad and the lesser amount received from foreign sources.

The U.S. balance of payments is considered important because it has a direct impact on the strength and stability of the dollar, the principal Western currency.

The surprising change in the payments situation was disclosed over the weekend by informed sources, who also said the precise cause had not been determined.

Fires on Sunday In County Areas

Firefighters in Ulster County were kept busy on Sunday with blazes in High Falls, East Kingston, Ellenville and Rosendale. The most serious was a bungalow fire in High Falls which caused damage of between $2,000 and $2,500.

According to Chief Jesse Williams of High Falls, fire which started in the kitchen, damaged that room, its ceiling and the attic of the summer bungalow of Charles Ottmyre of New York City. The chief said Ottmyre spends weekends at the place. Stone Ridge gave assistance, filling the High Falls booster tanks, he added. The fire occurred shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday noon.

An unoccupied two - story frame dwelling some 500 yards north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge was levelled by flames early Sunday morning. The fire which started shortly after 1:30 a. m. had gained such headway that the building was beyond saving when the Vols arrived, according to Fire Chief John J. Watzka of East Kingston. He said the place had not been occupied since before the bridge was erected. He also said he believed the house was owned by the Bridge Authority.

Chief George Garrison is investigating a blaze at the Jewish Center in Ellenville about 7 p. m. Sunday. He said only minor damage was caused, the chief added.

Fire at the home of George Moylan on Davis Street in Rosendale did considerable smoke damage. According to Chief Robert Markle, grease from something cooking on the electric range spattered over on the burner and caught fire. Efforts were made to carry the blazing grease outside and some of it spilled on the dining room floor causing slight fire damage there. No estimate of the loss was immediately available.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

Gizenga Is Censured; To Return

Pro-Red Premier Virtual Prisoner

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congo Parliament by an overwhelming majority censured Antoine Gizenga today for his defiance of the central Congo government. The pro-Communist deputy premier was a virtual prisoner of U.N. and Congolese forces encircling his residence in Stanleyville.

The government announced Gizenga had agreed to end his self-imposed exile and return to Leopoldville by this Saturday after his personal bodyguard surrendered Sunday to congolese troops. His capitulation came too late to avert the parliamentary wrath.

After a brief but angry debate, the vote in the Chamber of Deputies was 67 for the censure motion, a single vote against it, and one abstention.

Could Oust Deputy

The parliamentary action left the way open for Premier Cyrille Adoula to oust Gizenga from the deputy premiership he accepted last August but never actually filled.

One deputy said Gizenga's gendarmes who battled Congolese troops in Stanleyville over the weekend were in every way comparable to the foreign mercenaries fighting for President Moise Tshombe in Katanga Province.

Nearly 300 of Gizenga's gendarmes — his military army in Stanleyville—have been disarmed and taken prisoner by central government troops a U.N. spokesman reported.

One platoon of about 25 remains to be neutralized, but they were being rounded up in the bush around Stanleyville, he added.

14 Congolese Killed

Up to the end of fighting yesterday 14 Congolese troops were reported killed.

Thirty-four guards posted around Gizenga's riverside mansion laid down their arms after government forces waged a decisive half-hour mortar attack on Camp Ketele, home of the Gizengist gendarmerie.

No casualties were reported. Reports from Stanleyville said the United Nations was cooperating with the central government's forces in pacifying the remainder of Gizenga's disheartened forces, estimated to number about 200.

Gizenga messaged Premier Cyrille Adoula and asked for a U.N. plane to pick him up and bring him from Stanleyville, 775 miles northeast of the capital, where he had been holed up for four months.

Congolese sources did not rule out the possibility Gizenga might balk at the last minute and change his mind about returning.

INSPECTS DAMAGE TO HIS SAFE—J. Ellis Briggs, electrical appliance and heating dealer, whose establishment was burglarized early Friday morning, and $400 in cash stolen inspects damage to his safe. The Briggs showrooms are on Route 9W at the by-pass intersection of Albany Avenue Extension in the Town of Ulster. BCI investigators are continuing their probe of the case. State police said the safe door was evidently forced open far enough to permit tampering with the mechanism. Tools found in the showroom were used by the burglars. (Freeman photo).

Angola Issue Strains U. S., Portugal Ties

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Renewed U.N. debate on Angola today puts a new strain on ties between the United States and its Atlantic ally Portugal.

The debate was the first major business as the General Assembly resumes its 16th annual session after a Christmas recess.

Asian and European diplomats said U.S. delegates had told them it hoped the 104-nation assembly would adopt a moderate, meaningful resolution that would push the Portuguese toward self-determination for Angola.

But Portugal contended that the assembly had no right to even discuss its big West African territory. It maintained that all Portuguese overseas territories are provinces, not colonies, and their control is a domestic matter outside the assembly's jurisdiction.

May Quit U.N.

There was speculation that the Portuguese delegation would boycott the Angola debate as it did on a similar occasion last April. Sources in Lisbon have predicted that Portugal would quit the United Nations if the assembly censured rule over Angola.

Diplomatic sources said the United States probably would not introduce a 'resolution itself but would try to see that any introduced from Africa, Asia or Latin America would contribute toward (1) self-determination for Angola (2) a satisfactory settlement of the 11-month-old rebellion there.

Communist countries were reported seeking to get African delegations to put in a resolution that would (1) call on all countries to refrain from supplying Portugal with arms to use against the rebels and (2) ask the assembly's 17-nation special committee on independence for colonies to give its first attention to Angola.

Whatever the United States or the Soviet bloc might want, the 50-nation Asian-African group was expected to produce its own resolution on Angola and push it through the assembly with little or no change.

Before Full Assembly

The second part of the assembly session is expected to last four to six weeks. Angola is the only question before the full assembly.

The assembly's trusteeship committee still has to set a date for ending Belgian trusteeship over the little African countries of Ruanda and Urundi. Seven officials of those countries and Bel-

GOP Tightens Up Lines, May Be Rougher for JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are tightening their lines in this election year and President Kennedy is likely to find it more difficult to scrape up needed congressional GOP votes for his new proposals.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana faced realities Sunday when he said he was counting on Republican votes to gain approval of some programs opposed by conservatives of both parties.

Notes GOP Help

Mansfield noted that several key Kennedy bills would have failed in Congress last year if Republicans had not contributed from five to 13 Senate votes for them.

While some Republicans will continue to support specific Kennedy recommendations, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., said in an interview he thinks there will be more solid GOP opposition in Congress this year.

As an assistant Senate Republican leader who often lines up with the liberals, Kuchel is charged with finding out where his party colleagues stand on individual issues and with making

Commission Urges Bingo Revision To Protect Funds

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Investigation Commission urges revision of the bingo law to assure that receipts are used for the charitable and civic purposes intended by the Legislature when it legalized the game in 1958.

The commission, reporting Sunday on its investigation of the game last year, said it had uncovered infiltration of bingo by promoters and professional gamblers, bribery of public officials and diversion of receipts to personal profits.

Cite Inexperience

It described the State Lottery Control Commission as "wholly untrained and inexperienced in law enforcement" and urged revitalization of enforcement of the bingo law at both state and local levels.

The investigative staff of the lottery agency should be strengthened and reorganized "to improve the caliber, employment and use of personnel," the commission said.

Offenses cited in the investigative group's report paralleled those charged last Friday by Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr., who had been appointed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to investigate bingo.

Gilchrist said direct evidence had been turned up that some members of the lottery control group had subjected themselves to "varying degrees of conflict of interest."

Clarification Urged

The Investigation Commission said bingo regulations now limit the spending of bingo proceeds to "lawful purposes." It urged that such purposes by clearly defined.

It also recommended "meaningful and strict scrutiny" of bingo halls by licensing them separately from organizations that rent the halls for bingo.

Under present regulations, the commission said, promoters and gamblers have been "slipping by in the license of the lessee organization."

The commission also urged that members of sponsoring organizations who help run bingo games be required to have permits, through sworn applications, with photographs of themselves.

Carlino Backs Governor In Rift Over Tax Rebate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, contending that any extra state funds were needed for aid to education, backed Gov. Rockefeller today in a growing capitol debate over tax relief.

The Republican governor has said that rising state expenses will make it impossible to provide a tax rebate this year.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney is the leader of the tax-rebate advocates and has refused to surrender hope that some relief might be possible.

Carlino said he wished a rebate were possible but a decision was dictated by state finances. "We can't have a tax cut and provide for our needs in education and other vital areas," he said in an interview.

No final answer in the controversy is expected for several weeks.

Meanwhile, four Onondaga County Republicans have rallied behind Mahoney.

Sens. John H. Hughes and Lawrence M. Rulison and Assemblymen Don H. Brown and Philip R. Chase said in a joint statement Saturday they would examine Rockefeller's budget, due by Feb. 1, in search of spending items that could be eliminated in favor of tax relief.

Three Brooklyn lawmakers, also Republicans, joined the tax-relief ranks publicly last week.

The dispute centers around a 10 per cent rebate the Legislature voted last year on 1960 income taxes. Many Republican lawmakers, including Mahoney are concerned over possible adverse political effects in failure to continue the rebate in an election year.

The basic dispute is over whether the state is collecting more revenue than is necessary to meet state needs and, if so, how much. Current figures to arrive at an independent judgment on this question are not yet available.

In other state-government developments:

Legislation—Mahoney and Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Auburn, sponsored legislation to authorize training for policemen iin handling race-relation problems. The measure, which also would provide for creation of human relations commissions on local and county levels, constitutes "a new approach to anti - discrimination," the senators said.

Job Development—The governor completed appointment of the New York State Job Development Authority, which will administer a $100-million program to stimulate economic expansion. He named Spencer V. Silverthorne of Beaver Falls, Lewis County, Howard H. Kimball Jr. of Elmira and Peter J. Brennan and James M. Nicely, both of New York City.

New Jersey Taxes — A bill to prevent New Jersey from taking over $27 million that commuters from that state now pay New York in income taxes was headed for final approval in the Legislature. The Senate will act tonight and the Assembly Tuesday.

South Carolina Almost Records No Road Deaths

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — One highway traffic death was reported today, spoiling what officials had thought to be the first deathless weekend on the state's highways in memory.

The Highway Department said the state went without a highway death from the night of Jan. 10 until last night's accident shortly before midnight.

Earlier, a Highway Department spokesman said there were no reports of highway deaths during the weekend.

Wright Maines, 79 Retired Fireman Dies Here Sunday

Capt. E. Wright Maines, 79, a former Kingston firefighter for nearly a half century, died at Kingston Hospital on Sunday. He resided at 42 Fair Street.

A life-long resident of this city, he retired from Kingston Fire Department in May 1952 afer 44 years of public service. He actually served in firemanics for 52 years including eight years as a volunteer with Excelsior Hose Company.

Capt. Maines fought some of the city's biggest fires since 1900. He was promoted to captain January 16, 1943. He served during the transition from horse-drawn apparatus to motorized equipment.

Capt. Maines was one of the city's first 10 partially paid firemen. He received a provisional appointment on January 1, 1908, and on December 1 became a regular member of the department. He was employed as an ironworker before his appointment.

Was Weiner Driver

After serving a short time at Weiner station on Hasbrouck Avenue, he was stationed at Wiltwyck where he served from 1908 to 1914. From there he was assigned to central station. Later he was reassigned to Weiner station where he was the driver of the horses. In 1915 the Weiner station was equipped with its first 750-gallon motorized pumper and Maines drove that until it was replaced by a new one several years later.

The first big fire in Maines' early experience was that which destroyed the Mohican Market on Wall Street on December 26, 1909. Another which followed

Furnished Liquor To Youths, Gets 30 Days in Jail

An Ellenville hotel worker was jailed for 30 days Sunday for furnishing intoxicating beverages to teen-agers in that village, according to Ellenville Village police.

Carl Summerall, 47, was specifically charged with endangering the life and health of children, Chief Abe Rand reported. The chief said Summerall bought liquor and then turned it over to teen-agers, too young to purchase it.

The man was taken before Police Justice Frank Decker of Ellenville and pleaded guilty. He was given 30 days in Ulster County Jail.

Rusk Goes To Report On Trouble

Purchase of U.N. Bonds on Slate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk goes to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on world trouble spots. One possible subject for discussion is proposed U.S. purchase of U.N. bonds.

A Closed Session

Rusk appears before a closed session of the committee as Congress members continue to voice their opinions of President Kennedy's proposal for authority to purchase half of a $200-million U.N. bond issue.

The 25-year, 2-per cent bonds would help pay the cost of U.N. perations in the Congo and the Middle East.

A Democrat, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, has been vocal and persistent in his opposition to the idea. Sunday a Republican, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, of Kentucky, swung behind it.

He'll Vote for It

"We've committed ourselves to it. We're in it and I'll vote for it," he said of the U.N. financing plan.

But, Cooper added on a television interview—CBS — "Washington Conversation"—the United States should inform all nations it will not continue such aid unless they pay up their U.N. assessments.

Elsewhere, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a member of the Senate committee, championed U.S. purchase of the bonds to help "clinch (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev's defeat in the Congo."

Calls Congo Worst Defeat

"The one biggest defeat Khrushchev has suffered in the last 10 years has been in the Congo," Gore said. "Success in the Congo, which means success in Africa, will represent our biggest victory since World War II."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., denounced the bond issue proposal Sunday, asserting it would provide the Soviet Union "a long-time escape avenue" for refusing to pay its share of the Congo operation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he is "hopeful that we can get through what the administration requested, and that is a $100-million bond issue underwritten by us which will be repayable."

The U.N. deficit is expected to reach $170 million by June 30. The world organization has been unable to collect special assessments for its Congo operations and its truce supervision in the Gaza Strip.

State Trooper Killed

May Initial Sweeping Agreement on Cutting Of Industry Tariffs

Reduction Of 20 PC Foreseen

U. S., European Nations to Meet

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States and common market nations will initial a sweeping agreement to cut tariffs on many industrial products Tuesday, informed sources said today.

The informants confirmed reports that cuts of about 20 per cent on some industrial items are foreseen.

As to U.S. agricultural products, they will be considered in later negotiations between the United States and the European Economic Community, the formal name for the six-nation common market, these sources reported. They will involve wheat, corn and poultry.

Peterson Signs for U.S.

The agreement will be initialed by Howard Peterson, special adviser to President Kennedy; and Jean Rey, member of the EEC in charge of foreign relations.

The agreement cannot become final until it is approved unanimously by the EEC council of ministers, informants said. U.S. sources said the agreement also has to go back to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade organizations in Geneva, under whose auspices the negotiations began.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission to the EEC confirmed that a meeting had been arranged between Peterson and Rey for Tuesday, but said as far as they know, the meeting is not for the formal signature of any agreement.

Going Well, Report Says

"Everything seems to be going all right," the sources said. "Meetings of experts are taking place today to examine the last problems still pending. These meetings will continue tomorrow morning if need be."

The sources indicated that the French representatives had expressed some reservations about tariff cuts on imports of some American chemicals, but that it was hoped these objections could be met to the satisfaction of the French government.

Up to 20 PC Maybe

The pact, it was understood, involves up to 20 per cent reductions on hundreds of tariffs—more by the six-nation market than by the United States.

It also was reported that an arrangement had been made for protecting U.S. farm products in trade with the market.

The agriculture problem had

Bus Committee Asks To See Co. Records

A study of fiscal records of the Kingston City Transportation Corp. as a means of aiding in local legislative policy pertinent to bus service, has been asked by the Common Council's railroad and bus committee, it was revealed today by Alderman Arthur Smith (D) Eighth Ward, its chairman.

Alderman Frank A. Adams (D) Fifth Ward, whose bid last week for restoration of a cut schedule downtown, touched off a threat of ending all service, also today re-emphasized that the question to be settled is whether the bus line "can arbitrarily, and without recourse to some government agency and a public hearing, curtail its service."

Set. Jan. 22 Date

Alderman Smith, in his letter to the corporation, fixed Jan. 22 as the deadline date of reply. If the company agrees to a review of its records, Smith said, he will call a meeting of the committee "at our mutual convenience."

Mrs. Thomas J. Gadd, wife of the corporation's president, who has been ill, today proposed that the committee inspect the records at the corporation's office 14 East Chester Street.

Will Be Glad to Help

"I feel that if they come there," she said, "they'll be able to do a better job. We'll be glad to help them and answer any questions they care to ask."

Mrs. Gadd reported last week that the corporation would seek to be relieved of its franchise by next June 30 but after talking with Mayor John J. Schwenk agreed to reconsider suspension of service and continue in business if the city cooperates in granting financial relief. The latter course she said should be indicated by March 15.

Smith's letter noted that as chairman of the railroad and bus committee, he recalled "several meetings held with representatives of your company on this very question" and that it was "requested repeatedly that you submit all your books and records" to the committee, and "not only these books which show a loss."

Wants All Records

The new bid, he said, was for "all your records and books, so that we can report to the Common Council your true financial picture."

The letter, Smith said, was "motivated in the spirit of cooperation and with a sincere desire to help you and the people of Kingston."

Alderman Adams, in his statement today felt there has been deviation from the "point at issue." That, he noted, is to get adequate service in the Fourth,

Harry Rigby Jr. Is Named City Historian by Mayor

Mayor John J. Schwenk has appointed Harry Rigby Jr., official historian for the City of Kingston, it was announced today.

Rigby is a well known writer, lecturer, and educational consultant on regional history. He is vice president of the Ulster County Historical Society, Hudson Valley coordinator and consultant to the New York State Civil War Centennial Commission, a member of the New York State Historical Society, a director of the Friends of the Senate House Association, and a member of the New York State Commission on Historic Observances. He also is a commentator for the New York Herald Tribune Radio Network station in Kingston on the history of the Hudson Valley.

Rigby's contributions in the field of education were recently recognized by Governor Rockefeller, who appointed him a trustee of the Ulster County Community College. A leader in the drive to secure a community college for the county, he served as chairman of the Citizen's Committee for an Ulster County Community College, and as chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee on the Community College to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors. Also, in the educational field, he is a member of the Adult Education Advisory Committee to the Kingston (consolidated) Board of Education, and he is licensed by the University of the State of New York as a teacher of history in adult education.

A prominent member of the Kingston business community, he is vice president of the Kingston Coal Company, a trustee of the Hudson Valley Oil Heat Council, and president of the New York Fuel Merchants' Chapter, National Oil Fuel Institute. He is a vice president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, a member and past president of the Central Businessmen's Association and a trustee of Kingston Savings Bank.

Rigby, who lives at 56 Plymouth Avenue, is a member of the Old Dutch Church, where he has served as senior deacon, and the Kingston Area Council of Churches. He is a member and past president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, and a member of the Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM.

HARRY RIGBY JR.

MAYOR SCHWENK CONGRATULATES THE CITY PLANNING BOARD upon receipt from Washington of a telegram advising that the planning advance of $94,350.00 for the Broadway East urban renewal project has been approved. Schwenk said he felt that although the telegram came to him as mayor, the credit and congratulations belonged to planning board members (left to right) John R. Shults Jr., Elmore Yallum, chairman, and James K. Ryan, former Common Council Democratic majority leader. "With your cooperation," Mayor Schwenk told the planning board, "I intend to move ahead with the Broadway East project at top speed." (Freeman photo).

U. S. Opposed Sale of British Planes to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department told a congressional critic today that it had opposed a British sale of airliners to Communist China but that Britain felt it had every right to make its own decision.

The State Department's position was stated in a letter from Assistant Secretary Frederick G. Dutton to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. The senator had protested the transaction to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In the multimillion-dollar deal the Peiping government late last year purchased six Vickers Viscount airliners. Since then Red China was reported to have begun talks for the purchase of a fleet of Handley Page Herald airliners. Earlier this month, the Rootes Group, one of Britain's biggest motor builders, announced the sale of 130 trucks to Peiping.

Cancellation of the sale, Dutton told Keating, would cause a bad public reaction in Britain "largely directed against the United States and, in the judgment of the British government, would cause undue harm to Anglo-American relations."

Dutton said the State Department was consulted in advance about the aircraft deal and told the British "we were opposed to supplying the Chinese Communists with these planes together with the embargoed equipment on them."

Dutton said the British also gave these reasons for completing the deal: The strategically important British aircraft industry is badly in need of orders to maintain employment; the political effect of this purchase of aircraft of Western manufacture would have useful propaganda value; and refusal of the contract would have greatly increased domestic pressures in the United Kingdom against the entire strategic trade control program.

Shippers Meet

DETROIT (AP) — Shippers of the Great Lakes met here today for three days of sessions on a variety of subjects.

One dealt with the reduction in the fleet. Shipping sources here say the lakes lost 81 vessels during the past year because of economic factors while adding 14.

The meetings brought together members of The Lake Carriers Association of the United States and The Dominion Marine Association of Canada.

Today's discussions were to deal with the U.S. and Canadian governing bodies of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Sentenced to 10 Years In Prison for Spying

TELAVIV, Israel (AP)—A top Israeli military commentator, was sentenced Sunday to 10 years in prison for spying for an unnamed foreign power. Apparently it was the Soviet Union.

Israel Beer, found guilty after a trial held mostly in secret, reportedly had declared after his arrest that he contacted agents of the foreign power because he believed that power would some day conquer the world.

GOP Tightens Up

it certain they are on hand when the roll is called.

Will Use Judgement

"When we Republicans believe the President's recommendations are in the best interests of the country, we will support them," Kuchel said. "When we think the President is wrong, we will oppose his proposals and offer what we consider constructive alternatives.

"On fundamental issues, however, I think the Republicans are going to be nearly unanimous. We all want fiscal responsibility of the type that the Democrats don't always demonstrate. We are going to do everything we can to see to it that the President's pledge of a balanced budget is kept.

What They Won't Accept

"If I read the signs right, there will be overwhelming Republican opposition to giving the President authority to cut taxes. And we are not going to accept any farm program that delegates to the Agriculture Department what would amount to the authority to pass laws in this field."

Kuchel, who needs independent and Democratic support in this year's bid for re-election in California, was not prepared to go as far as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in demanding a "clearly recognizable" line of demarcation between the Republicans and the Democrats.

Goldwater, a spokesman for conservatives, told the Republican National Committee conference in Oklahoma City over the weekend that the party's presidential defeat of 1960 may have come about "because we were not Republican enough."

Jap Patrol Boat Fired Upon by South Korean

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese patrol boat was fired upon early today by a South Korean patrol boat on the high seas between Japan and South Korea, the Japanese Maritime Safety Agency reported.

The agency said there were no casualties among the Japanese crew and no damage to the ship.

4-YearDroughtBroken In Central Australia

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — A four-year drought appears to have been broken over a large area of Central Australia, where cattle have been dying for lack of food and water.

Up to six inches of rain has been recorded over 180,000 square miles north of Alice Springs.

A week ago a great cloud of dust covered 80,000 square miles of this area. Today a thin carpet of green is spreading as grass begins to sprout.

May Initial

been the main obstacle in the 15 months of negotiations. That apparently was cleared Sunday when the Common Market hammered together a joint agriculture program.

When the deal goes through—and informants indicated it may be near the signing stage—the U.S. tariff reductions would be made under the authority already held by President Kennedy.

Such authority was granted by the 1958 enabling act of the reciprocal trade program. This is the program Kennedy wants greatly expanded to give him a freer hand in negotiating massive tariff reductions with the Common Market.

State Department officials said that one result of the agreement would be that the Common Market would lower its tariffs 20 per cent.

U.S. reductions—limited by the trade act—would be up to 20 per cent.

The agreement was worked out in Brussels with special presidential adviser Howard Peterson representing the United States in final talks with officials of the Common Market—which is made up of West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

In the Brussels meeting, the Common Market officials have been negotiating agreements for the second stage of a three-phase trade program.

Completion of the second stage after 16 days of tough horse trading smooths the way for negotiations with other European nations seeking to join the trade bloc and for possible bilateral agreements with the United States.

The market's goal is a united, economic giant that could compete successfully with both the United States and the Communist bloc.

Man Suffers Burns Fighting Oil Fire

A downtown man suffered burns of the hands in checking a fire resulting from an upset gasoline-burning stove Saturday night.

Donald Mapes, of 157 Abeel Street, firemen said, using a soaked blanket, quenched the blaze before they arrived. He suffered burns in removing the stove from his third-floor apartment after it had been upset by a youngster. A section of carpet was damaged in the blaze. Mapes was not hospitalized for the burns.

Units from Cornell and Central stations, the Rapid and Wicks companies responded to a call at 7:25 p. m.

A car owned by Freeman Cook, of Poughkeepsie, was reported badly damaged by fire early Sunday while it was parked at 240 West Chestnut Street. Units from Central and Cornell stations responded to the call at 3:10 a. m. Origin of the blaze was undertermined.

Escapes Injury

A Kingston motorist escaped injury Sunday when his automobile skidded and hit a telephone pole on Route 213 in Eddyville. According to the sheriff's office, Robert Gregory, 28, of 421 Abeel Street, skidded on loose gravel as he headed east on Route 213 in Eddyville and hit the pole about 1:30 p. m. His car and the pole were damaged, but Gregory apparently escaped unharmed.

Angola Issue

gian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak were on hand for the discussion.

The trusteeship committee also has to deal with resolutions seeking negotiations between Britain and British Guiana on an independence date for the latter, and an inquiry whether Southern Rhodesia enjoys self-determination.

The British government announced early today it is willing to call a constitutional conference in May to discuss independence for British Guiana, a colony on the north coast of South America. Cheddi Jagan, the colony's left-wing prime minister, has been insisting on independence by May 1.

Bus Committee

Fifth and Sixth wards, where there is now no service after 6 p. m.

Desires Legal Opinion

Adams said he felt the bus corporation has apparently taken it upon itself to discontinue the service and he seeks an opinion from Corporation Counsel Harry Gold as to their right to do so.

If the bus line shows its books, he said, he has been told by Alderman Smith that it "will be given a fair hearing." He also cited Smith's requests for the records, and contention that only those showing losses have been forwarded.

Mentions Inefficiency

"Could it be," he asks, "that the company is operating inefficiently? I understand they have one bus that is 20 years old and that it can get only three miles to a gallon of gas." He wondered also if the company "is using this operation for a tax loss against some other company?"

Adams noted an absentee ownership, which he felt was one "not involved with the desires of our community, as we are. If financial relief is justified by the records, this should be explored and expedited." The first responsibility, he held, was to the people and the second "to the profit and loss statement."

The alderman noted that the mayor was willing "to give them relief." The bus line, he said, has certain rights and duties as does the city. While the company is entitled to a profit, the city has its right to decide what is good for its people.

If the requested service is restored, he said, "I will insist that we give them some financial relief, if their entire operation requires it. I will not, however, do this under any threat or duress from the company." He felt that the company's recently reported intention of going out of business was an indication of "their disregard for the people of our city."

Again he said he left that the city would not be without service if the company surrendered its franchise. Others, he held, would operate on a satisfactory schedule. He felt the company's "ultimatum was ill advised and uncalled for. If cooperation is achieved, he felt, I am sure we'll all live in harmony."

Glenford Builder Heads New GOP Club at Hurley

Peter Weider, Glenford builder, was chosen to head the newly reorganized Town of Hurley Republican Club at a meeting of some 100 residents of the town Friday at Hurley fire hall.

Other officers named are: Eugene Hanney of Hurley Heights, vice president; John Marquardt of Glenford, newly named deputy clerk of the board of supervisors, secretary; Stuart Messenger of Hurley, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Goble of Hurley, corresponding secretary.

Outlines Program

Following the election, President Weider outlined the purposes of the club and said the objective was to keep the Republican Party in the town strong and to get more town residents interested in town government.

Town Attorney Robert MacKinnon was named temporary chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers of the evening.

Attorney S. James Matthews of Kingston spoke of the need for a political organization and urged that the town form a Young Republican Club. Councilman William West of Woodstock and Thomas Dendy, president of Woodstock Republican Club, then went into the organization of a Republican Club and told the audience how an effective club can aid in the election of Republican candidates.

Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., newly appointed Ulster County assistant district attorney, was the principal speaker of the evening. He said that a well knit political organization was one of the determining factors in the recent Republican administration in the City of Kingston.

Regular Club Favored

At the conclusion of the speaking program a motion was made and accepted that a regular Republican Club rather than a Young Republican Club be formed. Election of officers then followed.

President Weider, at the close of the business session, announced that the next meeting of the club will be held at 8 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 15, at West Hurley firehall.

5 Area Men Are Held for N. J. Assault Robbery

Four Kingston men and a former High Falls resident, charged with involvement in a reported assault and robbery at the home of a Park Ridge, N. J., man recently, were picked up by local and state police over the weekend and were returned to New Jersey this afternoon for hearing.

Arrested Sunday by Kingston police were: John Butler, 40, of 24 Hamilton Streeet; Donald Sickler, 18, of 35 Abbey Street; Kenneth VanNostrand, 25, of 51 Liberty Street, and John Wayne Ploss, 19, of 608 Broadway.

The arrests were by detectives Leonard Ellsworth, William Slover and Gurnsey Burger and officers Flyod Krom, Louis Sapp and Otto Short.

Fred Doremus, 19, of Mahwah, N. J. formerly of High Falls, was taken into custody there by Senior State Police Investigator Frank Steinkamp and Investigator Joseph Ventriglia. All had been reported as fugitives from justice.

It is charged that the five are involved with assaulting and robbing Maurice Broussely, of Park Ridge when they visited him Saturday morning at that place just over the New York-New Jersey line in the Woodcliff area.

Police said Broussely had been assaulted, and reported taken from his home were a coin collection of unknown value, cameras and some $70 in cash. Police said statements indicated that the coin collection was sold in New York City for $65.

Information obtained locally indicated that Doremus, who has been working in New Jersey, had Butler drive him there and the others rode along.

Says Police Need Special Training In Race Relations

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Police need special training in the "sensitive area" of race relations, Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said in sponsoring legislation to authorize such training.

He joined with Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Auburn, in a program they said constituted "a new approach to anti-discrimination problems and the betterment of intergroup relations in New York State."

Under the plan, announced Sunday night:

1. The Legislature would authorize the State Police Training Council, which sets standards for localities, to help communities train policemen "in peaceful handling of incidents involving racial problems."

2. The state housing commissioner would recommend ways to revitalize the Mortgage Facilities Corp., created in 1956 to help members of minority groups purchase or rehabilitate homes but, according to Mahoney, "conspicuously unsuccessful since its inception."

3. Cities and counties would be authorized to establish human relations commissions to head off any racial troubles.

The Republican senators said that full-scale race riots were averted recently in Albany, Ga., because of special training that had been given policemen.

The Mortgage Facilities Corp., they said, had approved only 18 loans in the year ending last October, all of them in the New York City area.

The corporation was formed, with banks and insurance companies providing capital, to lend money for home purchases in areas in which other property was deteriorating.

Farm Bureau Board Approves Final By-laws

The board of directors of the New York Farm Bureau has announced final approval of bylaws for its affiliated marketing organization, the New York Farm Bureau Marketing Cooperative, Inc.

In reporting the board's action, the organization's president, William E. Bensley, said, "Marketing plays a new role in determining a farmer's income because he receives no money until he has sold what he has produced. Farm Bureau's marketing co-op will provide producers of specific commodities as effective tools with which to make the marketing of their products more profitable."

Incorporated in early 1961, the new marketing organization is a member of the American Agricultural Marketing Association, a cooperative organization by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Bensley points out that establishment by Farm Bureaus in other states of a similar marketing organization with membership in the American Agricultural Marketing Association will provide the opportunity for coordination of marketing activities on a nationwide basis.

The board of directors of the Farm Bureau Marketing Cooperative will be William E. Bansley of Springville; Robert Greig of Red Hook; Harold Hawley of Weedsport; George Humphreys of New Hartford; Amherst Davis of Mt. Sinai; Walter Moore of Cazenovia and Earl Harding of Albion.

HE GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment

A Few Months Later

Mr. T. A. Melton, Jr., of Hollidaysburg, Pa. (above) gave about 20 minutes of his time for an interview with the Erickson representative — saved and regrew his hair in only a few months with the exclusive home method.

Erickson HAIR and SCALP SPECIALISTS
World's Largest Home Treatment System

Will be in Kingston, N. Y. Tomorrow, Tuesday Only

The Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists' Staff Director, P. L. Starkey on his regularly scheduled visit will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, N. Y., Tuesday January 16. Every hair-worried person should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Erickson method is known all over the United States. You can have a conference with the Erickson representative regarding your hair and scalp problems at no cost to you, whatsoever, learn how the scalp treatments work, and the results you can expect in a short period of time.

Results guaranteed by the Erickson organization. We don't ask you to take our word. You will be given a written guarantee from the beginning to end on a pro-rated basis.

The Erickson scalp method, or any other method, is of no value against excessive hair loss due to male pattern baldness. The person shown above does not have male pattern baldness. If you are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss the Erickson scalp method cannot help you.

If you have dandruff, excessive hair fall, thinning hair, excessive oilines or dryness, itchy scalp, or if your scalp is still creating hair you should take 20 minutes of your time to see what you can do.

Thousands have reported satisfaction from the Erickson Scalp Method. Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp? Anyway it costs you nothing to come in and learn how thousands have been helped by the years of Erickson experience plus the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Just go to the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston on Tuesday, January 16 only, between 1 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. Ask the Hotel Desk Clerk for Mr. P. L. Starkey, he will do the rest.

Interviews are given in private. You will not be embarrassed in any way.

Industrial Body Might Produce 70,000 New Jobs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Job Development Authority, about to begin operations, might help produce 70,000 new industrial jobs and 120,000 additional service jobs, Gov. Rockefeller reports.

He commented Sunday night in naming four members to the agency, which will direct a $100-million program to spur industrial expansion.

The governor named Spencer V. Silverthorne Jr., of Beaver Falls, Lewis County; Howard H. Kimball Jr., Elmira; Peter J. Brennan and James M. Nicely, both of New York City.

They will serve terms ending, respectively, Jan. 1, 1966, to Jan. 1, 1963.

Voters authorized establishment of the industrial authority last November. At the same time, they put state credit behind $50 million of an anticipated $100 million in bonds the agency will issue.

Money will be lent to businessmen in high-unemployment areas to help them open new plants or expand existing ones.

Money from the state-backed bonds, which will have a lower interest rate, will be used in areas where the job problems is most critical.

The authority is authorized by law to lend up to 30 per cent of the cost of an individual industrial operation. The borrower must obtain the balance elsewhere.

The businessman will repay the state under long - term agreements.

To Lessen Friction

NEW YORK (AP)—A gift of $5,000 for Arab refugees has been made by the American Council for Judaism Philanthropic Fund. Henry S. Moyer, president of the fund, said the gift is to help demonstrate the fund's "humanitarian, nonpolitical concern for the welfare of the less fortunate" and to help "lessen the friction between Moslem and Jew." The gift was made to Church World Service, the relief and rehabilitation agency of the National Council of Churches.

Ramapo Catskill Library System Now in 2nd Year

January, 1962 marks the first full year of inter-library loan service to public libraries in Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and adjoining areas of Ulster County.

Through federal funds to rural libraries the Ramapo Catskill Library System obtained direct free teletypewriter service to the New York State Library in Albany in January, 1961.

With this assurance of speed in obtaining needed books, notice was sent to 36 libraries that books could be obtained through system headquarters to fill specific requests. During the first month 141 requests were received. By December of 1961 requests were averaging 600 a month of which better than 90 per cent are filled.

Inter-library loan requests are initiated when a reader wants a book which is not in the collection of the library to which he belongs. The request is referred to Ramapo Catskill Library System where the staff searches the union catalog representing holdings of its member libraries. If not available locally requests are teletyped to Albany daily at 2:45. Answers are received the following day.

When a book is not available from New York State Library or Ramapo Catskill Library System member libraries requests are mailed or Ramapo Catskill Library System member libraries requests are mailed to other cooperating institutions. These include the libraries at West Point, New Paltz State Teachers College, Rockland County Community College, Orange County Community College, Brooklyn Public Library. The reader may be assured of receiving most of the books he will need or of discovering where they are available.

A total of 5,190 such loans were filled in 1961 and the number of requests increases monthly indicating the expanding place of this cooperative service.

Inter-library loan service is provided in addition to the loan collections of books sent by the system to member libraries.

Kids About Shark, Then Has Narrow Escape as Diver

SAN FRANCISCO AP) — A brawny, six-foot skindiver told his wife, "I probably won't be back. I figure a shark will get me."

Floyd Pair Jr., 29, a Sacramento, Calif., milkman said it as a joke but he almost foretold his fate. Only the ending turned out differently.

Here's what happened Sunday:

Pair came to San Francisco for a day's skindiving near the Farallon Islands 25 miles west of the Golden Gate. He was one of a party of 100 Sacramento area divers who had chartered four boats for the purpose.

At about 11 a.m. Pair went over the side of the boat, New Merrimac, a black skin suit taut against his body, oxygen tanks on his back, face mask in place, spear gun in his hand.

"I went down to about 40 feet," Pair recounted. "I chased a fish, lost him, decided to surface.

"Then it hit me, just as I surfaced. At first I thought it was a seal. But a seal doesn't have a mouth that big. It was brown, and every inch of 14 feet long. It hit me from the right side and started shaking me like a dog plays with a bone.

"I saw that it was a shark. I remember thinking first that it didn't hurt. Then I half remembered something I had read by a German deep sea expert, Hans Hass.

"Hass said to make a lot of noise and hit an attacking shark in the face.

"I spit out my breathing mouthpiece, began yelling, 'Shark! Shark!' at the same time I began jabbing at the shark's snout with my spear. He let loose of me and took off."

Two other divers helped Pair back to the New Merrimac. In minutes the water was cleared of other divers. A helicopter was called and took Pair to San Francisco's Franklin Hospital.

"On the boat they wanted to cut off my suit and look at the wounds," Pair said. "But I felt I needed that tight suit to keep whatever blood I still had in me."

Doctors described Pair's wounds as serious but not crippling. He suffered gaping leg wounds and a deep bite into a buttock.

A doctor said Pair's femoral artery just missed being severed. "If that had gone, he'd have gone too."

Mary Jack's Success

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Jack Benny celebrated his 35th wedding anniversary Sunday—pretty good for a fellow who says he is only 39 years old.

Benny and Mary Livingston met in Los Angeles while playing in a musical. They were married in Waukegan, Ill., in 1927.

Horticultural Meeting Here To Present Scientific Facts

The New York State Horticultural meeting will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 23, 24 and 25 at the Kingston Armory. The three day speaking program will combine the latest scientific information with the experience of growers. The trade show will have over 60 exhibits showing the latest in machinery, spray material, packages, etc.

A feature of this year's program will be William Luce, veteran county agent in Yakima County, Washington, who will talk on "Innovations In Handling the Apple crop in the Northwest. He will also talk on "New Strains of Red Varieties and Controlled Rootstocks and their future in the Northwest".

Other features will be Thomas Rich, manager of P & C stores on "Can We Cut the Spread Between Farm and Retail Prices", and Ben Dominick on "Savings by Direct Delivery of Apples from Farm to Store".

Many Subjects Covered

Other subjects to be covered are control of sooty blotch and fly speck, amount of spray material needed per acre, control of red banded leaf roller, performance of dust treatments in 1961 and spray recommendations for 1962.

Other important subjects on the 3 day program will be, prevention and control of fire blight in pears, control of apple scald and apple stippen. Growers will give their experience in apple scald control.

"What we are doing to Move More Apples" will be covered by L. M. Marvin and Rockwood Berry of the New York and New England Apple Institute, and "What the National Apple Institute is Doing for Apple Growers" will be discussed by James Moore, Exec. Secretary.

The use of bulk bins for fresh fruit and storage construction will be covered by the college experts and by growers that have used them. Getting orchards into heavy production early will be discussed by C. G. Forshey. Grass and weed control in orchards will be covered by Otis Curtis of Geneva, and by growers who have had considerable experience with the new materials.

A Must For Growers

This 3 day meeting is aimed at keeping the progressing fruit grower abreast of the times in a rapidly changing world. This 3 day program will do that.

TB Eradication Termed New Goal

Eradication of tuberculosis, not merely control, is the new goal of worldwide forces attacking the disease, according to Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, and Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, Medical Director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

New drugs opened up the possibility of elimination of tuberculosis and the "big push" toward that end was initiated late in 1959 by national leaders in public health and tuberculosis control.

Emphasizes Task

The statement by the two local officials emphasizes the task remaining by quoting federal and local statistics on the TB problem:

10,000 deaths in the United States; 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 in the world.

55,000 newly reported active cases in the United States. In New York State, Ulster County ranks third (next to Erie and Onondaga Counties) in new cases with an average of 49 new cases a year between 1958 and 1960, or a rate of 42 per 100,000 population. Recent statistics for 1961 reveal 38 new cases reported last year with 303 cases presently listed on the local tuberculosos roster.

Although the figures show much still to be done, significant gains have been made over the past decade, it was pointed out. The annual average rate of new cases reported in Ulster County for the years 1948 to 1950 totaled 112 as against 48 in 1960. This represents a decline of 62 per cent which reveals progress in which we can justly take pride.

National authorities estimate that 35,000,000 Americans have in their bodies live, virulent tuberculosis germs. Two million of these infected persons will have active disease during their lifetime if the present rate of breakdown continues. Over 1,750,000 living Americans have had tuberculosis and many of them will break down again.

Tuberculosis, although now ranking 15th as a cause of death, is the most costly to government (the taxpayers) of any disease.

In reviewing these Department of Health statics, Dr. Holcomb added, "We no longer are working, just for control of TB, this is not enough, we can eradicate tuberculosis but experts feel it must be done now, in this decade, before resistant strain of bacilli emerges.

Authorities define eradication of TB as the "ultimate goal of having no human being on this earth react significantly to a skin test with a proper dosage of a standardized tuberculin; in other words, total bacteriologic eradication.'"

It is to this end that the National, State and local Christmas Seals groups are dedicated. We shall continue to work closely with the official state and county health authorities toward this goal which we share.

RED CROSS REPORT

The familhy is the very foundation stone upon which free societies such as ours are built. And, only so long as our belief in and concern for the family continue to flourish will they continue to thrive.

That most Americans so believe is shown by their generous support of those institutions that help keep the family strong.

One such institution, which has been a part of our lives for 81 years, is the American Red Cross.

Its annual report for the year ending last June 30 was issued this week. It is both an accounting of its stewardship of contributions from some 45,000,000 of us and a record of invaluable services for—and by—American families.

"Maintaining family solidarity," the report states, "is a main objective of the assistance made available to members of the armed forces and to veterans. Family rehabilitation is a crucial need of many disaster victims. Helping to ensure family health and safety is a major aim of the program engaged in obtaining, voluntary blood donations, is enrolling volunteer nurses and teaching home nursing skills, and in promoting safety education."

Our contributions of money alone, however, do not make possible Red Cross services to American families.

The Red Cross is essentially an organization of volunteers—two million of them—who outnumber the career staff 155 to one.

It is these volunteers—men, women and youth, the report points out, giving freely of their time and skills, who help make our dollars perform "not only uncounted acts of humanity among our own people but also . . . acts of mercy and goodwill far beyond our boundaries."

Girl caddies would improve American men's golf scores, says a petite French caddy. We're not so sure, but it might cut down on swearing over dub shots.

Taxpayers get 24 hours more in which to file returns because April 15 falls on a Sunday. It isn't more hours they need; it's more money.

INDIA PAYS A PRICE

While the extent of damage to the free world's image of India cannot yet be fully assessed, the business world has reacted sharply to the seizure of Goa and the other Portuguese enclaves. Within two days of the military takeover a large American corporation canceled its plans for a five-million-dollar production outlet on the Indian subcontinent. Directors of the corporation said their reason was evidence of the untrustworthiness of the Indian government.

It is not difficult to understand the reaction of these businessmen. Production facilities cost lots of money and when built beyond our borders are constructed largely on faith that the local government will keep hands off and let the project thrive. Expropriation remains an ever present bogey in the foreign field.

Nehru and company may have no such designs on foreign investments. They have so stated many times in the past. But this assertion may now be scant comfort to businessmen in view of Nehru's shattered word over Goa.

If the above mentioned cancellation were to "snowball," the consequences to the Indian economy could be extremely serious. Were that country to be deprived of this source of foreign exchange the Nehru government would hardly survive the shock. The prime minister had better give this possibility his carefull attention.

There'll be a congressional investigation of alleged "muzzling" of military leaders—but not much prospect that wild charges and counter-charges at the hearings will be muzzled.

'These Days'

THE CONTINUITY OF ADMINISTRATION

Those governments which have a system of continuity survive longest. Until World War I, such countries as Russia, Great Britain, the Austro-Hungarian Empire could point to a thousand or so years of history. No nation in Asia has had a continuous record of so many years. China, for instance, has had a record of changes of dynasty which indicates a total lack of continuity. Many of the dynasties were foreign in origin. For instance, the great Tang Dynasty was foreign in origin, the Yuan was Mongol, the Taching was Manchu. The history of India is one of constant conquest of different parts of the country, leading to varieties of form of government.

Those countries which have been continuous have been most stable and their people have been protected from the startling shifts and changes of government by violent revolution.

Russia had a continuous history from the conquest of that country by the Mongols (1207-1238) to 1917. The Czarist government was not progressive nor was it, on the whole, beneficial to the Russian people, but its successor, the Soviet government, faces domestic problems which it may not be able to meet without further revolution. The loss of the Hapsburg Dynasty has been a disastrous episode in European history. Not a single successor nation has been able to stabilize itself, although little Austria is moving forward better than was expected during the past two decades.

The United States is a comparatively new country politically but it has had a continuous form of government for three centuries. The Revolutionary War did not alter the form of government. It only intensified its nature. The Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution did not change the form of government or the social habits of the people; they strengthened a form of government which had been continuous among the Anglo-Saxon peoples in principle since the Witenagemot, the earliest parliament, the conception of which was some form of repsentative government that ultimately, through many stages of evolution, produced the idea of government by choice.

And so, we come down to the year 1962 in the United States with John F. Kennedy at the head of a continuous government as he stands before a Congress chosen by the people to report on the State of the Nation. Not all the people favored or favor Kennedy. Not all the people agree with the policies of the present Administration, but those who agree or disagree are united in support of a continuing government. As the President stood before Congress, all parties applauded him.

There are always those whose opposition reaches extremist and unpleasant attitudes. Since the beginning of American history, there have been little movements of intensified opposition such as Shays' Rebellion, or the violence of Aaron Burr or the War Between the States. But no antagonistic movement has survived the strength of a continuous government. The result has been stability and strength.

When President Kennedy expressed his opposition to extremist movements, he anticipated for his country not revolutionary movements but a partnership in progress. What we must expect is not only political but economic stability. This has been the genius of the American system. While we do not have perfection in a free society we do labor to maintain a society in which freedom approaches equality.

The President's State of the Union message attacked no previous Administration; it did not assert superiority over its predecessors. It offered a program for the future continuity of the American system of freedom and equal opportunity. He spoke long but his speech can be summed up in a phrase, equal opportunity for all in a free society which in all sections of the country builds a partnership for freedom.

Despite political differences, this speech was a continuation of one made by Abraham Lincoln, of another party. But in 1962, a President of the United States can take advantage of science and technology to establish a better life for all our people.

There are those who are so prejudiced that they refuse to recognize new needs and new developments; who insist that this nation can grow in wisdom and strength without anybody doing anything about it. To these, it need be said that greater strength comes from constant renewal of strength. This is not radicalism. It is a constant movement in the direction of continuity and stability.

Worthy Work: Prevention Of the Mentally Retarded

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I've just had an interesting visit with one of our community-minded neighbors. She's captain of a team of 10 women, each of whom has volunteered to give a morning or an afternoon to the care of a mentally retarded boy.

This unfortunate youngster is the only son of a widow who lives on a nearby farm and who works five days a week in a local factory. She is understandably loathe to have her only child "put away," as she phrases it.

These good women have agreed to pinch-hit for her while she earns her living, for she is much too proud to accept anything in the way of gifts or money.

Now certainly this is noble and self-sacrificing work. It would indeed be most unkind to belittle what the members of this team are doing for the unhappy mother and the most unfortunate child.

Yet at risk of criticism, I presume to draw your attention to how much greater the accomplishment might be if these efforts were directed at prevention. For, upon guarded inquiry, I learned that no direct measures are being taken by this particular group to encourage a program of prevention at the local community level.

Here are some of the measures that might readily be undertaken:

Urge members of the PTA to expose teen-age girls to German measles (rubella) before they enter child-bearing years.

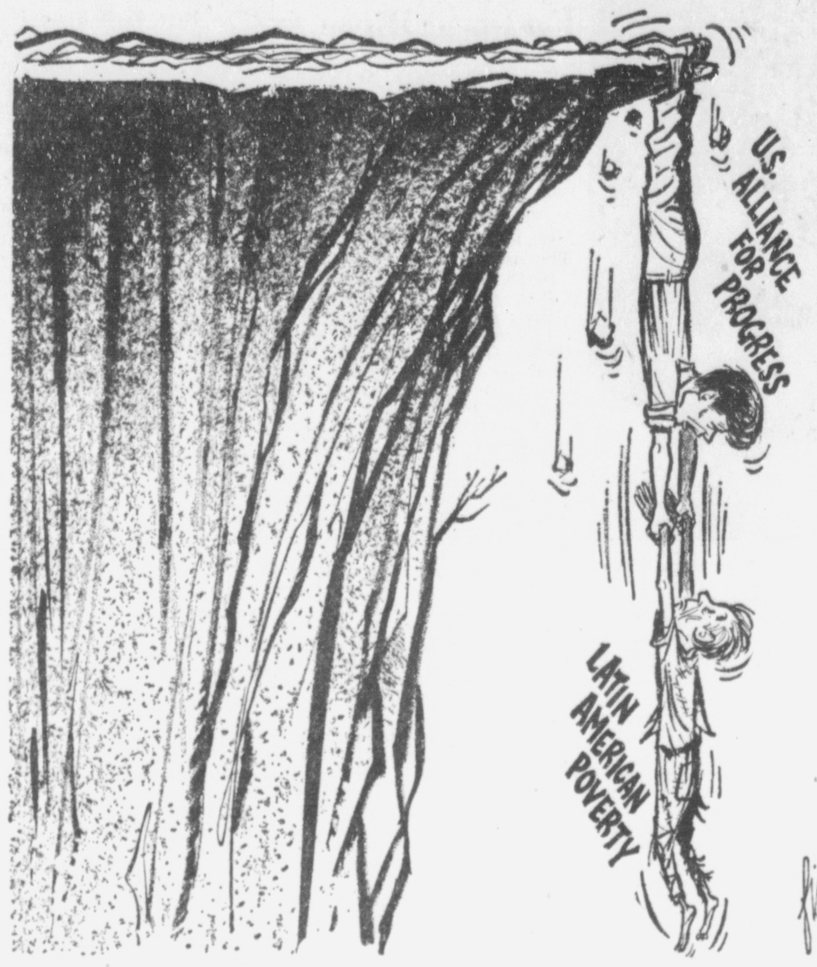
Establish a prenatal clinic. Encourage prospective mothers to avoid contact with any child having any infectious disease at least during the first three months of the pregnancy. Warn them, too, of the dangers of exposure to radioactivity except for an occasional film taken because of urgent necessity.

Recommend that each expectant mother give up cigarettes in favor of foods of high calcium, high vitamin, high iron content. Such as: milk and other dairy products (including cheeses of all kinds, ice cream and whipped cream desserts) eggs and egg recipes, beef and calf liver, pork and the less expensive cuts of beef or lamb, green, yellow and other deeply colored vegetables and fruits, vegetable and citrus fruit juices, salads and greens. Note that no vitamin supplementation is required other than a single injection of B12 just before labor.

Encourage breast feeding as soon and as long as possible. Not only for economy and convenience but to avoid "infantile eczema" (hypersensitivity to cow's milk) and even the later development of curious and little understood disturbances such as nonspecific ulcerative colitis.

And you don't need a fund-raiser, a drive, a big name to launch the drive, a committee of debutantes to sell tickets for whatever shindig is planned to raise funds, or an orator to orate to the bored husbands who have been dragged to the shindig.

"At This Point Your Government Will Come to Help---I Hope"



Washington News

By WASHINGTON STAFF

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N. J., rubbed the top of his crystal ball with a dash of bitters and came up with these predictions for 1962:

"January — House of Representatives deadlocked over choice of new Speaker, applies the 'troika principle: one representative from NAM, one from AFL-CIO and one from the League of Women Voters . . . February — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall hikes up Capitol Hill in rain . . . March — Airlines propose capital punishment for passengers who fail to show up for flights . . . April —Fidel Castro invades South America with armed troops . . . May — Arizona attempts to secede from union; move hailed by Belgian lobbyists . . . June—Russian put 12-story apartment house in orbit around Jupiter . . .

"July — John Birch Society launches campaign to impeach Abraham Lincoln posthumously . . . August—European Common Market applies for membership in British Commonwealth . . . September—House of Representatives votes to abolish Senate as punishment for passing too much legislation . . . October—Newburgh, N. December — Kennedy touch football team is invited to Rose Bowl."

ALL THE RADIO and TV networks brought their top foreign correspondents back home during the holidays, to show and sound them off. Eric Sevareid cracked that they now have more foreign correspondents than vice presidents, which is progress.

FCC CHAIRMAN Newton N. Minow is a close second behind Attorney General Bobby Kennedy as the object of the most snide remarks directed toward New Frontiersmen.

"In France a judge can act as prosecutor in his own court," comments one radio executive. "But in the United States it's the chairman of FCC."

Somebody sent him a New Year greeting card and penned in the wish for, "A more mellow Minow."

WHEN INFORMED that the Army had developed an electronic device able to count up to 10,000 raindrops per minute and calibrate them in sizes from one-one hundreth of an inch in diameter to one-eighth of an inch, one old Pentagon veteran snorted:

"Maybe the thing will be able to tell how wet behind the ears some of these new recruits are!"

THE PENTAGON is still getting letters about the Jack Paar-Berlin border incident. One indignant lady writes that in her opinion, Paar should have been busted to private.

WHILE RADIO commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. was answering questions after a talk to the right-wing "Human Events" political action conference, a delegate popped up, grabbed a microphone and asked:

"Mr. Lewis, when Sen. Barry Goldwater is elected president of the United States in 1964, will you be available to run the United States Information Agency now headed by Edward R. Murrow?"

WHEN PARIS correspondent David Schoenbrun learned that he was being transferred to Washington, he asked, "Will I have to learn to play touch football?"

"No," they told him. "You can always beg off saying that you have a bad back.

Balking Heard in Congress Over 'Neutral' Nations Aid

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Small wonder the State-of-the-Union message of President Kennedy got applause in the press around the world. For he said, in effect, that the United States will continue to pour billions of dollars abroad in "foreign aid" even to some countries addicted to Communist philosophy. America evidently will not demand anything in return.

Congress, however, is balking already. Many members do not like the fact that those Asian, African and Eastern European nations which do the bidding of the Moscow government keep on voting against the United States in the UN and open their doors to the Communist agents. Yet apparently President Kennedy will not withhold aid from such countries.

Represents a Change

This new pronouncement on his part seems to represent a change from the declaration made by Mr. Kennedy last year when, in signing a bill for another year of foreign aid, he wrote:

"It is my belief that in the administration of these funds we should give great attention and consideration to those nations who have our view of the world crisis."

Mr. Kennedy now puts it this way in his latest message:

"These programs help people, and, by helping people, they help freedom."

It is difficult to see how "freedom" is helped if Communist and totalitarian governments are supported with American money. The President adds:

"The views of their governments may sometimes be very different from ours—but events in Africa, the Middle East and Eastern Europe teach us never to write off any nation as lost to the Communist camp."

Moscow Unopposed

Moscow, of course, has been willing to look the other way when American money is given, for instance, to Poland—it relieves the Kremlin of just that much of a financial burden.

The cold fact is that Moscow controls every one of the Communist countries on its borders and is beginning to exercise similar control in southeast Asia and Africa and some Latin American countries by means of a well-trained apparatus of "technicians," students and other members of the Communist party who have been taught in Moscow how to run a satellite government. Again and again in the Middle East the local radio and press reflects the Moscow viewpoint, and this is beginning to be true also in African countries.

The President, in his State-of-the-Union message, went so far as to defend the "non-aligned" nations. He seemed to pass over lightly their alleged "independence" when, in truth, in most instances they are afraid to vote differently in the UN from what their masters in the Kremlin tell them. Mr. Kennedy said:

"We support the independence of those newer or weaker states whose history, geography, economy, lack of power impels them to remain outside 'entangling alliances'—as we did ourselves for so many years. For the independence of nations is a bar to the Communists' 'grand design'—it is the basis of our own."

But just three days after the President's message was delivered, a report has come from three pro-Administration Democratic Senators—Gore of Tennessee, Hart of Michigan and Neuberger of Oregon—which takes an opposite stand. The report was the result of a visit to fifteen African nations by these Senators as a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It says:

"We do not deny that the new states of Africa must be free to develop their own brands of political organization. But we do not believe American aid should be used to assist governments engaged in the systematic supression of free expression. . . . .

"In some countries we found that our officials took the position that the United States found it necessary to put up with a certain amount of blackmail simply because there were certain installations there that we wished to maintain. . . .

"If African nationalistic myopia toward basic issues involved in the struggle between the free and the Communist worlds leads only to abstention on important votes in the United Nations or to a neutrality measured by a desire always to be on dead center in free world-Communist bloc issues of principle, African states will rapidly lose their influence in world forums."

Critical Gahana Ald

The Senators singled out Ghana for criticism and questioned whether American aid to the $360-million Volta River project will promote the kind of "freedom" espoused in President Kennedy's address. The Senators' report says:

"Unfortunately the domestic policies of Ghana in recent months, including the imprisonment of some 400 political opponents and the enactment of laws apparently designed to intimidate those who would express anti-government views, have raised serious doubts as to whether United States aid for the Volta River project will in fact promote independence and individual freedom for the people of Ghana. We hope we are wrong!"

What the three Democratic Senators say is mild in comparison with the emphatic disagreements which are being expressed by other members of Congress. For the speech of the President looks like a one-way street as America doles out billions to the "non-aligned" countries and gets no assurance of any benefit to American taxpayers. This could become a campaign issue next autumn.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TUCSON, ARIZ., Jan. 14—I saw Squire Reid on the Oracle Road today, first time in months, and I hear he doesn't hustle as fast as he hustled me back around '41 when he devilled me almost wild to put a little money into a dismal jungle of mesquite, greaswood, Indian weed and various cacti down a great, wide ravine in the desert. It was offered at $25 an acre, but Squire Reid kept saying "Let me have an offer to take to this fellow." He said, "You might get it for $20 - or $18." He said, "Why not take a hundred acres, part cash? Pay it out on time."

But I had already bought the home patch over on Magee Road, a mile to the north and on high ground, and that was enough desert for me. I was king of my own 40 acres. The nearest neighbors, a wealthy retired reporter from the old New York Evening World, and his wife, a big, roughhewn greying blonde originally from Globe, Ariz, were close enough, but we were mutually concealed by the leaping cactus called cholla, by prickly pears and palos verdes and all like that.

Hamish McLaurin came of a clan of Scots in North Dakota who had squirrelled a bundle of money. Amie, his wife, had a load of her own. They had met in some such place as Rector's or Bustanoby's in New York just after the First War. Somehow he had taken up yoga and had written a book which seemed to be a master work called "Eastern Philosophy for Western minds." He was a bad asthmatic and over 60, but, given a couple of drams of bourbon about half-past five, he could stand on his head and sing "Wee Deoch and Doris." Amie could cross her feet in her lap notwithstanding arthritis and finger-joints the size of crabapples.

They are gone now, and the wilderness again is almost a jungle between the old McLaurin place and mine.

One night about '45 I headed east on the Ina Road from the Casa Grande Road, belting for home before dark, which clanks down like an iron curtain. The Ina Road was just a broken line on the county maps, but there was a cattle trail meandering into the jungle. I jumped off on a gamble, I came on a desert rat with ivory whiskers tenting down for the night. He had a can on his little fire. His burros were hobbled. He had a cask of water. Two dogs growled at me. The old man had no "howdy" for me—intruding on his privacy that way.

It was years before the county put the Ina Road through from the Oracle Road to the Casa Grande Road, with a blacktop through the sandy stretch at the bottom of the valley. And about then some promoter from Chicago, a contractor named Sam Nanini, bought up the whole floor of the valley and drilled four or five wells, about 18-inch bore and some hundreds of feet deep. He hired some Indian and Mexican help and cleared the brush and put in irrigation to raise Pima County cotton.

Gus Borego, a retired cavalry soldier, took up a homestead claim of about a square mile a little north of Nanini's and built him a shack and corral and some hovels for pigs which he fed on garbage from the Santa Rita Hotel and hamburger joints. Gus was a very kind, neighborly fellow. His health was failing and he asked Nanini to buy him out. He wanted $15,000. Sam offered $12,000. I was away most of the time and I finally heard Gus had died and that his homestead patch had been sold to some third party for $80,000.

For three years, Nanini has been taking me to hilltops and pointing out the tees, greens, lakes and traps and the clubhouse site of the proposed Tucson National Golf Club. You give such a dreamer a measure of patience, but it was getting monotonous. Meanwhile, Sam had built a truly beautiful village center called Casas Adobes and a couple of hundred homes. But there was no activity in the Tucson National Golf Club until three weeks ago. Then the rumble and grunt of machinery became not only insistent but incessant around the clock down the valley where I had fought off Squire Reid and his darned bargain back in '41. All night these earthmovers clank and carry on like dragons, piercing the desert quiet with their noise and the starry blackness with their flashing beams. They make 35 miles an hour loaded with 20 yards of earth, much of it phenomenal black loam.

My bargain will be in grass in February or March and under golf before summer is out.

Sam Nanini, an immigrant kid from Italy around 1910, labored for a dollar a day in Alaska his first year over from Naples. Now he whips up and down bunkers and axle-deep in a little German Mercedes.

The water lines are going in and the gas will be piped in soon. The electric light and power lines are going underground. Next will come the enticing sample houses and the gentlemanly real estate salesmen with their charts and contracts, offering acre lots from, say, around $8,000 up. All on those $25 acres down in the old wilderness where the hermit desert rat was fixing to fry a few strips of bacon to go with his sour dough and coffee that eventide in 1941.

Stone Ridge Man Named to Head Holstein Group

Ralph Buswell, manager of Ridgely Farms at Stone Ridge, who was elected president of the U.S.O. Holstein Club for 1962 at the November annual meeting, has assumed the duties of that office. Other officers are Williard Palen of Gosben, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. Mino Menendez of Walden, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the board of directors are Nicholas Kolk of Goshen, M. J. Smith of Wallkill, J. Blake Winter of Middletown, Arthur Maier of New Hurley, Mrs. Margaret Hillriegel of Calicoon and Russell Buswell of Washingtonville.

Named a Director

Franklin Kelder of Accord is state director; Joseph Brill of Stone Ridge, milk marketing representative; Mrs. Elizabeth Barnhart of Stone Ridge, news reporter, and Mrs. Margaret Hillriegel of Callicoon, junior activities.

A program of activities for the 1962 season has been outlined. The next meeting will be at Pine Bush on February 8, with Jack Thorn as chairman. The March 29 meeting will be at Gardiner with Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt as chairman. On April 19 the spring banquet meeting will be held at New Hurley with Arthur Maier, Margaret Hillriegel and Nicholas Kolk as chairmen.

A calf will be awarded to a junior member of the U.S.O. Club who is present at the meeting. There will also be other awards at that meeting.

The Black and White Show will be held at Middletown on July 28, and Willard Palen will be chairman of that session.

The U.S.O. sponsored tour will be held in August with Lloyd Peavey and Franklin Kelder as co-chairmen. The date and program for this tour will be announced later.

Plan Consignments

For the annual calf sale in October Leonard Baird will serve as chairman. Consignments will be made by U.S.O. breeders for the purpose of giving young Holstein people a chance to purchase calves.

The November meeting will be held at Goshen with Nicholas Kolk as chairman.

Says Indonesian Boat Sunk by Dutch

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—An Indonesian motor torpedo boat has been sunk by Dutch warships in Dutch territorial waters off New Guinea, a navy spokesman said today.

The engagement took place when Dutch patrol vessels encountered a number of Indonesian motor torpedo boats, the navy spokesman said. He had no information on the fate of the other torpedo boats.

The Dutch news agency in The Hague said the engagement took place Sunday night.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Profit taking clipped New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 at 256.00 with industrials up .40, rails up .30 and utilities up .20.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional, some going to a point or so.

Central and Pennsy were affected by profit taking following their rise in anticipation of the merger agreement announced late Friday. Behind the selling also was the belief that the roads have a long haul before the merger can be actually consummated, if it ever is.

Gains by other carriers kept up the rail average, however, thus

Fallout Shelters Topic of Letters To School Head

SAUGERTIES, Jan. 15 — A communication has just been received by the local School Superintendent, Dr. Grant D. Morse, from the Executive Committee of the American Association of School Administrators on the subject of fallout shelters. Since this is a topic that is in the minds of many people, a digest of this letter may be of of interest to many readers. Here are some excerpts from this letter:

"Concern about constructing fallout shelters to protect people in towns and cities as well as the open countryside in case of thermonuclear bombing attacks has reached nationwide proportions. The Kennedy Administration has encouraged the development of protective measures. Several state governments have taken action. The debate rages furiously in magazines, on TV, and on the editorial pages of prominent newspapers. Citizens in almost every community manifest a sense of uneasiness. Many business organizations have developed products to be used in constructing and equipping shelters. There is much to sell.

"The officers and staff of AASA have had urgent requests from school administrators relative to the steps they and their school boards should take. Weeks ago the AASA staff asked advice from the Secretary of Defense. None has been received. While awaiting reliable information on which to base specific suggestions, your Executive Committee is sending you this statement.

Lacking Information

"Reliable information is lacking about the structure and nature of adequate facilities; the destructive potential of mass thermonuclear explosions and the intensity, nature, and duration of the fallout hazard; the extent to which water and food supplies will be contaminated beyond use; the effect on plant and animal life; the area of saturation from any given point to the extent that fallout protection will be needed; the hazards of fire and falling debris; possible sources food supply after leaving shelter; the difficulties that can be expected from the disruption of transportation and communication lines; the medical services required; the psychological problems involved in dealing with large groups of people tightly confined under conditions of extreme fear and panic, particularly with children separated from parents and supervised by teachers.

"Superintendents and boards are already being pressed to adopt policies, to initiate programs, to convert basements, to construct shelters, and to take positive steps in some direction about this tremendous problem. To refuse to accept any responsibility for such protection is to place the school system in a situation of seeming to have less concern about the well-being of the children and of the total community than it actually has. To accept the full responsibility without serious community consideration and careful thought and planning is to place on school administrators and boards of education a burden they ought not to bear alone.

"The hazards of radiation and fallout from a nuclear bomb threaten parents as well as children. To separate children from their parents in a time of such a disaster is almost unthinkable.

Community Responsibility

"Providing protection against the fallout hazards of nuclear bombing attacks therefore is a total community responsibility. It should be a general public responsibility and not that of the board of education, school administrator, and teaching staff alone. If the community authorities, civil defense specialists, and the board of education agree that the school building is the place where the shelter should be constructed, then it should be financed by appropriations outside the school budget. Even matching funds from federal or state sources induce or require the use of money very often desperately needed to construct and equip classrooms. To the extent that training in procedures and developing understanding are involved, the schools should readily accept responsibility in a manner comparable to what they have done in past years in developing procedures for fire, flood and storm disaster.

"Until there is more evidence on the essential elements for a reasonable protective program in case of thermonuclear attack and until a sound national and community policy is presented, more dependable facts made available, and a community agreement reached, your AASA Executive Committee advises that you not be stampeded into any form of ill-considered action or into a frenzy of construction that may be urged by frightened individuals, hysterical propaganda, commercial interests, or local leaders who do not process the facts.

Sincerely,
The Executive Committee
American Association of School Administrators"

VFW Auxiliary Notes Activities

The Department President of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Lena Rank, will pay her annual visit to the Hudson Valley County Council Sunday, January 28, at the Saugerties VFW Hall, according to a report given at Wednesday evening's monthly meeting of the Saugerties group. Miss Hannah Lewis, president of the Council, urged all to attend followed by a dinner.

The group voted to sponsor a bus ride, open to the public, to Washington during the cherry blossom season. Mrs. Violet Rocklein and Mrs. Isabel DeCelle, co-chairmen, will announce full details at a later date. The plans will include a weekend in the nation's capitol, and an all day tour of the city.

Mrs. Violet Rocklein was ceremoniously initiated into the Auxiliary.

An appeal was made by Mrs. Helen Arold for any white or colored materials to be made into cancer pads. Also, old white shirts which she can make into bedjackets. Last month Mrs. Arold reported having made 450 pads and seven bedjackets, averaging over 200 hours of work.

The Auxiliary President, Mrs. Janice Dengler, will be the honored guest at a dinner, January 23, at the Cafe Marius, by the Past President's Club. Secretary, Mrs. Hazel Drewes, issued an invitation to any Auxiliary member and her guests to attend and eat by "candlelight." Cars will leave the Hall promptly at 6:30 p. m. Reservations must be phoned to Mrs. Drewes no later than Saturday, January 20.

Mrs. Marie Zimyarch of Partition Street was awarded the license plates. Mrs. Johanna Tyrell was the dark horse winner of the night.

The president expressed her thanks to Mrs. Ruth Prendergast for arranging the highly successful Christmas party at Castle Point. Mrs. Dengler also was grateful to Mrs. Mary Lou Dengler for her fine work in handling the details for the December bus ride to New York City.

Mrs. Prendergast stated that over 102 gifts had been distributed at the Point by "Santa Claus." Each vet also was given a turkey sandwich, soda and candy. The sum of $193.57 was spent during December in the hospital work.

It is hoped to have a February blood bank drawing, according to Mrs. Helen Gardner, chairman.

Auxiliary members will individually donate the cakes and coffee to be served following the Golden Age small appliance demonstration Thursday at the hall. All who can were asked to attend.

Any VFW member interested in helping to formulate the Loyalty Day plans can attend the meeting scheduled for January 23, 7:30 at the hall.

Miss Marie McCutcheon reminded the members to sell their tickets for Saturday night's anniversary dance, featuring the Bavarian folk dance group.

The usual donation was voted to the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Ida Kilgannon after inspecting the Auxiliary, remarked that the floor work, books and reports of committees were "wonderful!"

The next meeting is slated for the meeting beginning at 2 p. m., February 14.

Legion Auxiliary Prospects Listed

It was announced at Thursday night's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary that February 17 has been set as the date for the entertainment of 30 veterans from the Albany Veterans Administration Hospital at the Legion Home on John Street. A roast beef dinner will be served and games played during the program.

Mrs. Edith Schaffer and Mrs. Lila Simmons, chairmen of the New March of Dimes campaign, reported that 96 cannisters had been distributed to area business establishments, and the Mothers March will take place on January 30, beginning at 7 p. m. with the sounding of the fire sirens. Volunteer workers are now signing up for that project.

The auxiliary donated $10 from its treasury to the fund.

Reports of other standing committees included the following: Cancer control, 50 pounds of material was collected for making cancer pads; child welfare, used clothing for 10 children valued at $50 was distributed; membership, 84 paid members, 7 paid members of the past presidents parley; publicity, eight articles and three pictures were covered by three local newspapers and one radio broadcast; rehabilitation, three baskets of fruit were given to ill veterans.

The meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. Catherine Teetsel, president, was followed by refreshments served by Rosemary Martin, Margaret O'Dea, Rita Rosner and Jeannette Mulligan.

Building Plans Are P-TA Topic

Norman Nitschke, co-chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Group, will be the guest speaker at the Saugerties Central Schools P-TA meeting Wednesday, 17, in the Main Street School, at 8 p. m.

The public may attend the meeting to hear about plans for immediate and future school construction in the Saugerties School District.

Another feature of the meeting will be an authentic Indian dance by Glen Davis, Allen Gardner, Brian Legg, Orman Leighton, Ronald MacRae, and Alan Wolven. Members of the Canandaigua Chapter of the Saugerties District, Order of the Arrow, the local high school boys were recent winners in Indian dance competition with the Kingston and Rondout Valley Districts.

Refreshments will be served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Angelo Sasso Jr.

Flanagan Named Camp Fire Head

Edward Flanagan was elected president of the Saugerties Council of Camp Fire Girls at a meeting held last week. Outgoing president Patrick Rodden was elected first vice president for the coming year. Other officers include George Thornton, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Walton, secretary and Mrs. Andrew Vozdik, treasurer.

Mrs. William Plimley, a longtime resident of Saugerties, now living in the Southwest, was given a verbal tribute and a vote of thanks on behalf of council members, leaders and parents by the newly elected president. Mrs. Plimley, who was named as the 1959 Camp Fire Woman of the Year, for many years conducted the musical activities of the Camp Fire and served devotedly as program chairman.

$64 Is Donation To Dimes March

A contribution of $64.08 was made to the New March of Dimes campaign by Paul Barca as a result of the all-day benefit sale of gasoline at his Shell station, Route 9W Saturday. This is the fifth consecutive year that Barca has donated his profits from a day's receipts to aid the local fund raising project for the National Foundation, which is being carried on by the Lamouree-Hackett Unit 72 of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Zoning Hearing Slated Tonight

A public hearing on a zoning change of a portion of the Knaust property between Malden Avenue and Finger Street from a U-1 residential to a U-2 multiple dwelling classification will be held 8 o'clock tonight at the meeting of the village board in the village clerk's room at the Municipal Auditorium.

The parcel of land, part of the former Valley Farm, is 350 feet in width and 580 feet in depth and situated on the westerly side of Malden Avenue.

If the village board approves the reclassification, garden type apartment houses will be built on the property.

School Offers Test For TB Detection

The senior students in Saugerties High School have the opportunity of taking the Heaf Test, a new, reliable, painless method of tuberculosis detection.

It does not involve the use of X-ray. However, should there be a positive reaction to the Heaf Test in any instance, an X-ray examination will be provided to determine whether the individual is afflicted with tuberculosis.

Consent slips have been sent home to the parents of senior boys and girls on which they may give their approval.

Says Interest Is To Hide High Cost

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Attacking what he describes as a borrower's wonderland of hidden credit charges, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., says American families pay $13 billion in credit charges yearly—$4 billion more than the cost of the national debt.

Douglas told the Rochester City Club Saturday that in some cases "credit camouflage" has been set up to hide the real cost of interest.

He cited a department store monthly service charge of 1½ percent, which he said actually rur: 18 percent annually, and a 3 percent loan reducer, which he said amounts to 36 percent interest annually.

Report Theft of Change In Davenport Burglary

The Sheriff's Department today is investigating a burglary at the Walter Davenport Sons main office in High Falls.

According to County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, intruders pried open a rear window, ransacked all desks in the fuel product concern's office and escaped with a small amount of change.

Brown is being assisted in the investigation by Deputy Sheriff Richard Drew Jr.

Quite a Few Issues Of Restaurant Stocks

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "You hardly ever speak of food catering and restaurant stocks. It seems as though these are undervalued at present levels. What do you think of Frisch's Restaurants and Restaurant Associates?" T. L.

A) In looking back over my files, I find to my surprise that you're quite right.

I haven't written about the restaurant stocks since Dec. 1, 1960, for no other reason than that I have apparently received no general questions about them. I spoke favorably of the restaurant chain business then and have since had no reason to change my attitude.

The American people are restless, they like to eat out — and with the highest personal income in their history, they can well afford to do so. There are quite a few issues to choose from in the restaurant business and there is considerable difference in the valuation the market puts on them.

For stocks where a pretty good growth pattern has been established—for example, Chock Full O'Nuts (NYSE) and Hot Shoppes (OTC) — the earnings multiple is over 35.

On stocks like Restaurant Associates (ASE), where growth is just beginning to develop, the market assigns a price-earnings ratio of 24. In the case of Frisch's, which has shown little change in earnings in the past three years, the shares sell at an earnings multiple of 23.

I like all four of these stocks. The first two are relatively more conservative and perhaps safer. The second two have good management and may be on the threshold of growth — but they are speculative.

Why not buy a few shares in the industry's future.

Q) "I have a loss in Houston Fearless which I can ill afford. It sells for half what I paid. Should I sell?" S. T.

A) Houston Fearless has been expanding pretty rapidly, and earnings have suffered in the process. I advise you to hold and give management more time to pull its acquisitions together.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Demonstration Unit Sees Mrs. Herrick in Puppetry Performance

A most entertaining program by Mrs. Ronald Herrick of Hurley delighted members and guests of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit at their January meeting.

Mrs. Herrick, who with her husband made up one of the best known puppeteer experts in the country, spoke on the history of marionettes both in this country and abroad.

The Herricks not only give more than 180 performances a year, but also design and make their puppets and write their own scripts.

After exhibiting the various types of puppets, Mrs. Herrick demonstrated the method of working some of her own characters. The trapeze performer cavorted, the clown danced and Jelly Roll, a most amazingly mobile fellow, expanded and contracted much to the glee of young and older in the audience.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Theater 62," NBC's monthly series of television dramas adapted from motion pictures, has been one of the season's great disappointments. The first three or four shows have not been noteworthy.

But Sunday night's adaptation of "The Farmer's Daughter" was bright, engagingly acted and thoroughly amusing.

The story is a political fairy tale —about the Swedish maid in a political household who by a trick of fate runs for Congress and eventually winds up in the arms of her employer's congressman son.

Lee Remick played the pretty amateur politician with a dandy Swedish accent. Cornelia Otis Skinner was the family matriarch (and why don't we see more of this lady on TV?). But it was the presence of Peter Lawford as the aristocratic, impetuous young congressman that gave the comedy just the right spark. All real political party labels were carefully removed from the plot so there couldn't be any possible embarrassment in high places. Anyway, it was all good fun.

The weekend also brought two other special entertainment shows. Most promising special was CBS' "The Good Years," on Friday night, a potpourri of nostalgia that flew like a badminton bird between review and documentary formats.

Some portions of the 90-minute show were effectively done with the familiar Project 20 technique —old photos, cartoons and film clips—to evoke an era, in this case 1900-1914.

In between were musical production numbers and comedy sketches which for the most part wasted the talents of Lucille Ball and Henry Fonda. The presence of Mort Sahl proved almost a complete loss. It was impossible for him to be sharp, topical and satiric on such lively, controversial issues as Teddy Roosevelt and J. P. Morgan the elder. It was an expensive, ambitious show—or maybe it was two shows. Whatever it was, it lacked something vital.

Jan de Hartog's durable play, "The Four Poster," was converted from a sly, gently satiric treatment of the institution of marriage into a broad, flat-footed farce on CBS Saturday night. Jackie Cooper played the husband in the mood of typical TV situation comedy—vain, sulky, childlike and pretty much of an idiot. Tammy Grimes bustled about a lot, too. Tom Ewell did his tongue-in-cheek best with an unnecessary anthropological lecture the adapters felt it was necessary to add to the play. The whole effort had the atmosphere of a high school senior play.

Recommended tonight: "Lee, the Virginian," NBC, 8-8:30 (EST) —a Special Projects documentary made in connection with the Civil War centennial and companion piece to the earlier, "U.S. Grant, Unlikely Hero."

Harrow numbers among its former boys Robert Peel, Lord Byron, Anthony Trollope, Henry Cardinal Manning and Sir Winston Churchill.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received a nice note and newspaper clipping from Alex P. Cunningham of 156 Pine Street, Kingston. He writes: "January 10th, I will be 88 years of age, So "I Remember" some years past. Knowing that you are looking for something out of the ordinary—I am enclosing a clipping that I have had for sometime. You may find some use for it."

Cunningham further writes: "I used to call on your father for Crispell Co. and send his order down on the trolley, then call him up. He then picked it up in front of his store." That must have been a very long time ago, for my father died in 1951, and I know Crispell Co. have been out of business a long time. The first bus started running on January 17, 1926. Miss Blanche Montayne, I remember, used to stop in all the drug stores every morning to pick up orders for H. S. Crispell Co. 608 Broadway. They had a wholesale drug firm, and also a drug store known as Kingston Central Pharmacy.

Cunningham's letter brings back many interesting memories. Those were the days before delivery trucks as we know them today. In those days we had, same day service, as he points out. The package would be delivered the same day for a nickle to the stores on Broadway.

If I remember correctly, each trolley had a number, and no doubt Cunningham used to tell my father the number of the trolley carrying his package Later on, I remember my father would tell me, "now go watch for trolley No. 1 or so . . ." Those were also the days of two mail deliveries. The important business mail came before I left for school. The second class mail usually came after lunch.

I also want to mention, that Cunningham, who was 88 years old on Jan. 10, has a fine clear round handwriting that it is a pleasure to read.

I am sure, that the orders he wrote up and brought in, were easy to read and fill out properly. He was of the old school, where they crossed the t's carefully and dotted the i's in the proper place. There is also, no mistaking a letter t, for the l, which he writes in wide loops. His note could be framed and shown as a model of good handwriting.

Prescriptions were usually all written by hand, and I remember my father used to like the handwriting of prescriptions of some of the doctors more so than others. As I remember he used to say if everyone wrote as well as Dr. Stern and Dr. Chandler it would be fine. My father could speak and read and write several languages besides Latin in which prescriptions are often written in part. My father was a registered pharmacist, cumma laude, from the old country and then passed the Board of Pharmacy exam, of course in English, in New York State.

I dropped in at Pardee's Insurance Agency at 20 Ferry Street and suddenly I spotted two large photographs in the office which I had not seen before. They were of old Kingston, both of downtown, and of all places, one had, in the center, my father's drug store at 46 Broadway, back around 1922. In the window can be seen a model of the bridge which my father made. Miss Mathilda E. Bruck and her secretary tried to read some of the signs, but we did not have a strong enough magnifying glass.

The other picture shows, up Abeel from Broadway, and the Rondout Creek Bridge can be seen in back of the Temple Emanuel. Among the stores can be seen on Broadway, Terpening's bicycle shop, Dr. Stern's office, and McTague's newspaper store next to ours.

Thrift at Its Best

Some years ago a courageous young woman from Lithuania came to America to begin life anew. She had to overcome many social and economic hazards in establishing her new life in New York City.

English was a foreign tongue to her. For that reason she had to get a job where language was unimportant. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York hired her as a charwoman at its Fifth Avenue office.

She kept my office spotless for more than fifteen years. Thrift and saving were congenital traits with her. She opened a mutual savings bank account and every payday she deposited some money in it.

By 1950 she had a fair command of conversational English. One afternoon she asked me if she could invest some of her savings. I suggested that she buy some shares of the bank employing her. She was surprised to learn that a charwoman could become part-owner of that great institution. I told her that the smallest investor in America — socially, economically and politically — could move in the best financial society.

She bought ten shares of Guaranty Trust of New York with some of her decade-accumulated savings. In 1953 these shares were split five for one, and in 1957 she received a 20 per cent stock dividend. Thus, her 10 original shares became 60 shares within 10 years and today her $2,200 investment is worth more than $8,000 and her 60 shares pay her $240 a year, affording a yield of more than 11 per cent on a cost basis.

Her first investment led her into other fields. She shops at Macy's at Thirty-fourth and Broadway, New York City. She bought 50 shares for $1,100 and today they are worth more than $3,500.

She bought Woolworth in which she now has 300 per cent capital gains.

She purchased Borden — the company that supplies her Bronx home with milk, cream, butter and cheese. This, too, has advanced a great deal in price.

Consolidated Edison furnishes her apartment with light and heat. She bought shares of Edison around $30 a share and she beams when she sees the stock selling at $85-$90.

* * *

In the coming decade there will be millions of thrifty savers who should follow the path of this Lithuanian charwoman. She became a shareholder in an enterprise which first gave her employment and then later on she purchased shares of prosperous enterprises which she regularly patronized.

The sound investment of savings need not be a difficult task.

Every person in America with an investible surplus enjoys a good standard of living. And these standards are maintained by hundreds of leading corporations.

Puzzled investors with idle money can solve their own problems by writing down the names of 10, 20, 30 corporations they regularly patronize. Then search out an experienced broker or banker who, after examining the earnings' and dividend records of these enterprises, will make suitable recommendations.

An energetic, thrifty Lithuanian charwoman can teach investment lessons to millions of Americans who don't know what to do with their money.

Britain Changes Scale On Thermometers

LONDON (AP)—Temperatures took a steep dive all over Britain today, but winter had nothing to do with it.

Britain began shaking off tradition and switched from the Fahrenheit to the centigrade scale of thermometer marking.

The change to the continental way of measuring hot and cold was the first phase of an official program to convert Britons to the decimal system of measuring.

The switch was gradual. Television and radio weathercasts gave both centigrade and Fahrenheit figures. Eventually Fahrenheit will be quietly dropped.

A government move is also under way to discard pounds, shillings and pence for easier-to-reckon decimal currency. A committee has been appointed to work out how the change can best be made.

Delicious Sandwich

Rinse a can of shrimp (after draining) with cold water; chop and mix with coarsely grated cucumber and mayonnaise for a delicious teatime sandwich. Flavor with a little onion, if you like.

MERGER ANNOUNCED—A merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads were announced jointly by James M. Symes, left, and Alfred E. Perlman. Action Expected To Keep Jersey From Tax Benefit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Senate is expected to act tonight, and the Assembly Tuesday, on a bill that would prevent New Jersey from collecting $27 million a year in income taxes paid by New Jersey residents who work in New York State.

Both houses of the New York Legislature were expected to approve the measure, requestd by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

New Jersey has levied a tax on persons who commute between New Jersey and New York to work. This was done in a move designed to divert the $27 million to the New Jersey treasury.

The New York legislation would eliminate a tax-law provision that permits out-of-state residents to deduct from their New York State tax bills the amount of income taxes paid in their home states.

Democrats to Meet On 35th Candidates

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic county chairmen in the new 35th congressional district will meet again next month to continue their discussion of the merits of two candidates for Congress from the district.

Six of the eight chairmen decided at a meeting Saturday it would be premature now to endorse Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady or former Assemblyman Francis J. Souhan of Seneca Falls, the candidates. Stratton also is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

A special session of the Legislature in November realigned the 36th district, now served by retiring Rep. John Taber of Auburn, into the 35th. Stratton's present district was abolished.

William H. McKeon, Cayuga County chairman, said no vote was taken at Saturday's meeting, although "there was both Stratton and Souhan sentiment."

Others at the meeting were: Dr. Robert Kerr of Cortland County, James P. Wilson of Montgomery, John Fabeizi of Ontario, Dr. Alexander Carson of Otsego, and Leo Boyle of Seneca.

2 Face Abandonment For Leaving Dead Child

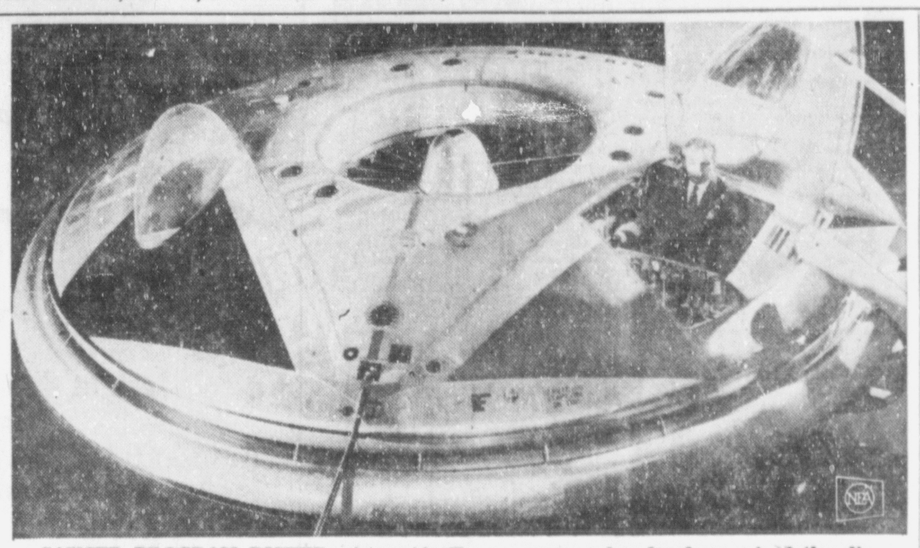
ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—A husband and wife, accused of leaving their seven-week old son dead in a vacant apartment, were in jail today on a charge of abandonment.

Kenneth E. Rutzgen, 33, and his wife, Betty Jane, 22, were returned here from Pennsylvania Saturday. They were arrested in Philadelphia Friday by Endicott police, who traced them through a Christmas card.

The baby's body was found in an apartment here last May 4, three days after the Rutzgens had moved out. An autopsy showed the infant had suffered a skull fracture and pneumonia.

Dist. Atty. Stephen Smyk said Rutzgen admitted he had struck the baby.

Justice John D. O'Loughlin of police court ordered the Rutzgens committed to the Broome County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail each.



SAUCER PROGRAM DISHED—Army-Air Force program for development of the disc-shaped vehicle, above, is being shelved. The saucer, which was to ride a cushion of air, has been under development by a Canadian firm. Not intended to be a space vehicle, it was intended for troop and supply movement, to carry loads over any kind of ground and beneath the scanning eye of radar. With funds running out, the $7.5 million project is grounded—at least for the present. Change in emphasis on weapons systems is seen as one reason for the move.

Coordination Is Urged in Study Of Waterways Link

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Waterways Association Inc. urges coordination of the study of a proposed barge waterway linking the Ohio River and Lake Erie with the study of proposed improvements of the New York State Barge Canal System.

The proposed development of a barge waterway linking the Ohio River with Lake Erie was supported Sunday night by David A. Wright, president of the waterways association.

Wright said the proposal is "imaginative, bold, and a dramatic breakthrough in the establishment of an economical means of transportation linking the tremendous industrial and natural resources of the Ohio River Basin with the highly developed and great consumer market of the East."

The waterways association said a statement of support has been filed with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, scheduled to hold a hearing at Youngstown, Ohio, today on the proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie waterway.

The association described the plan before the corps as a 104-mile canal extending from the area of Ashtabula, Ohio, on Lake Erie, to the Ohio River near Rochester, Pa.

The association said the New York Barge Canal, which now provides a direct water link between the East Coast and the Great Lakes, would connect with the proposed river-to-lake waterway and open a new and short access to the industrial heartland of the country.

The 527-mile New York State Barge Canal system includes the Erie Canal, the Champlain Canal and the Oswego, Cayuga and Seneca Canals.

4 California Men Die in Plane Crash

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., (AP)—Blue Mountain claimed its third airplane tragedy in four years when four California men died in the crash of their single-engine plane.

The Californians went down Sunday in a spinning beechcraft bonanza in foggy, rainy weather. State trooper Glen Minton, who is a pilot, theorized that the plane got into trouble in foul weather and lost a wing in a high-speed spin.

Minton said Louis Risner of Englewood, Calif., apparently was the pilot. Other victims were Henry Clay Risner, Louis' brother; Russ Weininger, a business associate of Louis Risner; and Charles Cornell, all of the Los Angeles area.

Korean Vet's Night Set by Olive Legion

Korean Veterans Night has been scheduled by Olive Memorial Post 1627, American Legion for Monday, Feb. 5 at 8 p. m. in the Legion Hall, Ashokan.

All Korean Veterans are urged to attend this meeting to discuss plans for promoting passage of a Korean veteran's bonus bill in the Legislature. To be eligible they must have served between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953.

Refreshments will be served by the Legion Auxiliary.

Mayor Resigns Post, May Run for Governor

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth has resigned, effective Feb. 12, ostensibly to seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the May 15 primary election.

The 63-year-old outspoken mayor, who was defeated in 1950 as the Democratic candidate for governor in the general election, announced his resignation at a news conference Sunday. Intimates had reported last year that Dilworth advised them he intended to seek the nomination.

Meet Agreement To Reapportion Penn Districts

HARRISBURG (AP) — Agreement was reached early today on a plan to reapportion Pennsylvania's congressional districts, ending a year-long deadlock on the politically explosive issue.

The final agreement centered on a so-called swing district—one which would merge a Republican and Democratic district to make a new district that would follow the political tide in the 1962 election.

The districts to be merged in the swing district are the 12th (Northumberland and Schuylkill) and the 14th (Berks). If both incumbents run, that would pit Republican Ivor Fenton (12th) against Democrat George M. Rhodes (14th).

The proposed swing district would be the second largest in Pennsylvania in population. It would have 552,000 persons. Only the 7th district (Delaware County) is larger with 553,000.

In other agreements Bradford County would be taken from the 17th District (Cameron, Clinton, Potter, Tioga, Lycoming, Montour, Columbia, Bradford) and added to the 10th (Sullivan, Wyoming, Susquehanna, Lackawanna, Wayne, Pike). Republican Herman T. Schneebeli holds the seat in the 17th; Republican William W. Scranton holds the 10th.

The 23rd District (Warren, McKean, Venango, Forest, Elk, Clarion, Jefferson) would have Clearfield County added to it from the 20th. The 23rd District seat is held by Republican Leon H. Gavin.

As Election Approaches:

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans, after several days of public soul searching in this congressional election year, are still trying to figure out where they stand and what for.

They can't find a hat to fit all of them. They are looking for a formula to beat the Democrats but they've been inept in this department over the past 30 years.

The Democrats are a divided lot, too. They sometimes give the impression of being not one party but two parties that merge on some issues and then fly apart again.

The evidence is plain enough that for most of the past 30 years the Republicans have been out of step with public thinking. Since 1932, the Republicans have held the White House for only eight years—under Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He was so popular that if he had run as a Democrat he probably would have won just as overwhelmingly, if not more so. In his case the party label hardly meant much.

Bliss Has Gloomy News

The consistent test of public favor showed up in Congress where, in the 30 years since 1932, voters elected a Republican majority only twice, for a total of four years, in 1946 and 1952. In Eisenhower's last six years—including 1956 when he was re-elected—the voters gave Congress to the Democrats.

About a year ago a Republican committee began a study to see what ailed the party. At Oklahoma City last week the head of this committee, a top Ohio Republican, Ray Bliss, had gloomy news.

He told the Republican National Committee there that in the big cities Republicans were "generally outmanned, outorganized, outspent and outworked" by their Democratic and union opposition.

Gives 19 Points

Bliss outlined a 19-point program for rebuilding the party.

His committee—commenting on the 1960 presidential defeat—said Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy because Democrats got tremendous majorities in 27 of the 41 big cities.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizone, a hero to some Republicans and probably a candidate for the party's presidential nomination in 1964, said Nixon lost in 1960 because "we were not Republican enough."

But what is Republicanism? National Committee Chairman William E. Miller of New York said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label.

New York's GOP State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York may be Goldwater's rival for the nomination in 1964—got in his view.

Must Have Answers

"The Republican party must re-emphasize its position as a dynamic forward-looking movement with answers to the people's problems. (It) must fight being erroneously labeled as the party which is against change and new ideas," Morhouse said.

The usually happy forecasts on this year's congressional elections were given but the Bliss committee report and the Republicans' setbacks in the 1961 off-year elections blew a cool wind over the meeting.

Count on cooking a smoked boneless pork shoulder butt, covered with water, for 40 to 45 minutes per pound. Then you can insert whole cloves in the butt, at 1-inch intervals, and glaze it in the oven just as you treat baked ham.

K.H.S. Student-Council Reports Its Activities

By Barry Gold

Plan Winter Carnival

Since the end of the Christmas recess, Kingston High School Student Council has actively resumed its activities which now center, to a large extent, around the forthcoming Winter Carnival.

Chairman Alan Theiss announced that the Second Annual Student Council Winter Carnival will take place February 10 at Kate Walton Field House.

The carnival will be open to all primary school students from 1 through 5 p. m. with a nominal admission price. Junior and senior high school students will be able to attend the carnival in the evening, from 6 through 11 p. m. Dancing and background music in the evening will be provided by the Kricket Band.

Various committees of the Winter Carnival are presently working to insure its success. Clubs from Kingston High will have booths with various activities at the carnival.

These booths will be either on a profit or non-profit basis, as some clubs will have displays centering around their interests, and other clubs will have participation events.

The Student Directory Committee headed by Paul Jacobson, has announced that its directory of the name, address, class, telephone number, and homeroom is now ready for sale and will be made available to the student body early next week

Congratulations are in order to the Student Directory Committee which worked very hard in its compiling of the information about each student at KHS.

The Constitution Committee headed by Walter Daw has reported that it has completed revising the Student Council constitution.

New Constitution

The committee will submit the new constitution to the student body for its approval in the near future. This will be done through the Student Council homeroom agents. The new Constitution has been designed to streamline the administration of Student Council affairs.

The Student Council is considering the sponsorship of a Curtain at 8:40 show through the cooperation of the Community Theatre. Details such as title of the movie, date and price of tickets will be announced at a later date.

At the present time the possibility of the Student Council's managing of a calendar of events is being investigated. The purpose of this calendar of events is to schedule the activities of clubs and organizations in the school so that the events don't conflict. This plan should end some of the present confusion regarding dates and hours for KHS activities.

Dancing After Games

It was announced at the last Student Council meeting that after each home basketball game, a dance is held at the KHS cafeteria. Attendance, however, at the dances is limited to only the members of the home and visiting teams.

If you have any questions, comments or ideas concerning this column, the Winter Carnival or other Student Council activities, please send them to the Student Council of Kingston High School, 403 Broadway, Kingston.

Recommends New Auditorium at EC Institution

Recommendations for a new education building and auditorium at Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch, and for action to close the village dump near the institution were included in a report of Richard E. Woodward, senior inspector, State Commission of Correction.

The recommendations were made after a three-day inspection at Napanoch last July.

Other recommendations made by Woodward were:

That a minimum of at least two wall towers be manned on a 24-hour basis and that all towers be manned during the daytime.

That a machinery storage shed be erected at the Colony Farm.

That the institution set up its own commissary.

That the recreation area be fenced in and also that fence barriers be placed in strategic locations to prevent damage in case of disturbance.

At the time of the inspection the institution population was 1,103 inmates.

The report noted that it would appear that reasonable precautions are being taken to prevent contraband from entering the buildings.

Recommending action to close the village dump near the institution, Inspector Woodward stated that there is a health menace caused by the rodents and flies in the dump. Woodward said the situation could be controlled if the institution would acquire the abandoned railroad station and freight house.

The kitchen and mess hall are undergoing a complete remodeling, Woodward noted. The mess hall has a capacity of 692.

Woodward contended that construction of a shed for storing farm machinery should be of prime consideration. He stated that at present there are 172 pigs and 40 cows being cared for with the cows producing about 18 cans of milk daily. The farm operation showed a gross income of $73,207.06 with the largest income from milk and eggs.

Annual Welfare Report

$1,303,737 Paid Here In Social Security Benefits

In 1961 citizens of the state drew a sizable return on their investment in the federal government through services to advance health, improve education for their children and broaden economic security.

A total of $1,303,737 in social security benefits was received in 1961 monthly by people serviced by the Kingston Social Security District Office.

The many kinds of help administered by the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare are directed in this area by Joseph B. O'Connor, the Department's regional director for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware.

In reviewing the department's activities, O'Connor stated:

Announces New Phase

"A development of historic importance in the welfare field occurred on December 11, when the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Abraham Ribicoff, announced the first phase of a program to revitalize the Federal-State welfare activities."

Ten administrative actions ordered by Secretary Ribicoff, have two objectives: To help people on public assistance assume useful roles in society by achieving self-support and independence, and to eliminate whatever abuses have crept into the welfare program since it began a quarter century ago.

New importance will be attached to services for the entire family to help them become self-supporting. To emphasize this approach, the name of the Federal Bureau of Public Assistance has been changed to the Bureau of Family Services.

Of the programs in operation in New York, O'Connor cited the following, pointing out that the figures cover calendar year 1961. Where final figures are not yet available, estimates have been made.

Welfare

During the year 59,708 men and women over age 65 received public assistance payments amounting to $72,341,000. Under the aid to dependent children program 336,904 children and their mothers or caretakers received a total of $164,568,000. Payments totaling $46,430,000 were made to 35,450 permanently disabled persons, and $4,273,000 to 3,395 blind persons. Medical assistance for the aged payments totaling $57,778,000 went to 24,401 persons over 65.

Under new amendments of the law, Federal aid was available for the first time in 1961 to dependent children of unemployed parents and to states to help pay for foster family care for children removed from their homes because parents failed to provide properly for them.

Social Security

During the year 1,205,700 retired workers and their dependents received a monthly total of $87,809,000 in social security benefits, and 367,200 widows and children of deceased workers received a monthly total of $23,561,000. Disability benefits totaling $6,504,000 a month were made to 88,000 men and women and their dependents.

Information furnished by George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security District Office, shows that in the area serviced by the Kingston office, a total of $1,303,737 in social security benefits was received monthly by people living here. This is broken down as follows: $1,028,004 to 15,390 retired workers and their dependents; $221,765 to 3,907 widows and children of deceased workers; and $53,968 to 740 disabled men and women and their families.

The 1961 amendments to the Social Security Act allow optional retirement for men of age 62, increase the minimum insurance benefit paid to retired workers from $33 to $40 per month, relax requirements for insurance eligibility, and increase benefits paid aged widows by 10 per cent. The retirement test was modified so that retired workers may increase their earnings on jobs and have less of their social security payments withheld.

Education

The federal government provides direct aid for school districts in which enrollment has increased because of federal activity. During the year, eligible school districts in New York received grants of $6,470,503 for operation of the schools, including teachers' salaries, and $921,968 for school construction.

Congress extended this program for two years, beginning July 1, 1961. During this time over $477 million will be available to help eligible school districts nationwide.

Congress also extended the National Defense Education Act for two years. During the year 19,610 students in New York attended college with the help of money borrowed under the student loan program. Altogether, $7,313,671 was granted institutions of higher learning for this program. Altogether, the federal government contributed $27,192,971 to help improve education and educational opportunities in New York.

Health

A variety of new approaches to better care for the chronically ill and aged will be made possible through the Community Services and Facilities Act of 1961. The act authorizes grants to community agencies to develop new and improved home nursing, home care, and other out-of-hospital services. The act also raises the ceiling for grants to the states for the construction of nursing homes from $10 million to $20 million annually.

Under the Hill-Burton program, eight hospitals, nursing homes, and other facilities in New York were awarded $3,301,000 in federal funds for construction. Their total cost is $11,196,000.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Amendments of 1961 provide the basis for a greatly stepped-up program of waste treatment works construction and broadens the federal government's enforcement powers.

During the year 31 grants totaling $3,513,542.42 were awarded in the state for the construction of 31 waste treatment works. The estimated cost of these projects is $17,136,821.

During 1961 grants amounting to $4,886,156 were made to New York to strengthen health programs, general health programs, mental health, cancer, heart disease, and tuberculosis control, and for the training of professional nurses.

The National Institutes of Health, principal research arm of the Public Health Service, awarded $46,643,278 for 2,028 research projects in New York. Fellowships totaling $2,866,163 were awarded to 504 fellows in 44 institutions, and grants of $14,807,391 were made to 51 institutions for training projects.

Vocational Rehabilitation

During the year the federal government granted $4,360,882 for the basic support of New York's rehabilitation program, and 7,505 handicapped men and women were successfully rehabilitated and returned to productive employment.

Food, Drugs, and Cosmetics

Last year, throughout the nation, more than 36,000 inspections of food, drugs and cosmetic establishments were made by the Food and Drug Administration. Chemists analyzed over 46,000 samples to determine their compliance with the law, and foods seized in over 700 Federal court actions totaled more than 10,700 tons.

Surplus Property

Under the Department's surplus property program, federal personal property with an acquistion value of $20,466,625 and real property valued at $1,892,303 were made available to the state for health or educational purposes.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. Treasury is borrowing a billion dollars in new cash today. It shouldn't have any trouble raising the money—but it will still be embarrassed.

That new borrowing pushes the federal debt up awfully close to the $298-billion ceiling the Treasury thought would be high enough when it got the debt limit hiked temporarily at the last session of Congress. The permanent level is $285 billion and getting back to that looks well nigh impossible at this stage.

Faces Huge Debt

Worse, the Treasury fears now that it might have to go into debt in excess of $298 billion before the June 15 tax collections roll in—and possibly above $300 billion shortly before Christmas, because of the fall slack in tax receipts.

The Treasury's embarrassment is comparable to yours if your banker and other lending sources said you could borrow only so much, and you were near or at that limit. You would be wondering what to do about the expenses that vary from time to time and about any emergencies—not to mention your inability to take advantage of a bargain when it flits by.

Would Like No Ceiling

That's what's behind the ruckus over the federal debt ceiling.

The Treasury says it can't maneuver as it should in the money market to get the best terms of interest and length of payments if it is too close to the ceiling. It also fears that expenditures, foreseen or possible in this quickly changing world, could push it tight against the ceiling, leaving it unable to borrow to pay its bills if it obeys the law.

The Treasury would like no ceiling at all. Barring that, it would like a boost shortly in the temporary ceiling, say to $300 billion, and then later to several billions above that.

Would Exceed Record

This would top the record actual debt of $300 billion during World War II. In 1946 the permanent debt ceiling was put at $275 billion, raised to $283 billion in 1958, to $285 billion in 1959. But from 1955 on, higher temporary ceilings were mostly the rule.

The argument against setting a debt ceiling and frequently changing it, is this:

Congress itself votes the appropriations and programs that set the size of the Treasury's expenditures. Congress votes the kinds and rates of taxes that provide almost all of the Treasury's receipts. If expenditures exceed collections, the Treasury borrows to pay the bills and the federal debt rises.

May Fix Limit

Congress, therefore, may set a permanent or temporary debt limit, but the actual size of the debt largely is set by the amounts Congress appropriates and the taxes it authorizes. An added factor is the terms on which the Treasury may borrow—how much total interest it pays, boosting expenditures by that much and thus adding to the debt if tax collections aren't big enough.

The Treasury thinks that if the ceiling was higher it could choose the borrowing-time and the terms more easily. Congressional conservatives think that without the ceiling the administration might be tempted to spend carelessly and then run to Congress for an appropriation to make up the deficit.

Warmer Weather Helps Niagara Power Production

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The ice-plagued Niagara Power Project was producing more than 900,000 kilowatts today as warmer weather continued to loosen chunks of ice near the project's intakes in the upper Niagara River.

The output was the highest since Thursday when an ice jam cut off the bulk of the project's water supply and slashed output by 90 percent. The project has been producing 1,750,000 kilowatts.

Despite yesterday's 40-degree weather here, authorities said ice was still packed solidly above the falls. A State Power Authority spokesman said he could not predict when the project would be operating normally.

The project's major customer, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., turned to steam generating plants last week to keep its own customers supplied with power.

The power cutback was felt as far east as Vermont, where companies who normally draw from the Niagara and St. Lawrence Power Projects used standby sources.

Malcolm Wilson Is Named Guest Speaker For Annual Meeting of Practical Nurses

ALBANY, N. Y. — Lieutenant Governor Malcolm Wilson will be the principal speaker at the Annual Legislative Meeting of Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc. in the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, Albany, on Wednesday, it has been announced by Mrs. Rhoda E. Beswick of Niagara Falls, N. Y., president of the state-wide membership organization.

In addition to the luncheon session which will be addressed by Lieutenant Governor Wilson, morning and afternoon sessions will be held to review legislative matters of interest to licensed practical nurses. Miss Marie Dolan of New York City, a member of the organization's Board of Directors and State Legislative Chairman, will preside.

An all-day Workshop on Leadership will be held Tuesday, Jan. 16, with Mrs. Beswick presiding. More than 100 delegates and other members from the 38 County Divisions of Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc. will participate in the two-day conference.

Among the speakers at the Workshop will be Mrs. Beatrice A. Turley of Hampton Bays, Long Island, a member of the Board of Directors and State Membership Chairman, who will outline plans to stimulate the 1962 membership drive which will be conducted by County Division Membership Chairmen.

Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc., strives to improve the standards of practice in its field; offers refresher courses at nominal fees; provides gorup insurance at special rates, and other benefits to its members; and serves as a clearing house of information concerning legislation, schools of practical nursing, salaries, job opportunities, etc.

Inquiries concerning activities of the organization or the qualifications for membership should be addressed to Mrs. Christine B. Quell, Executive Secretary, Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc., 250 West 57th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

Summer Institute In Earth Science Planned by Vassar

A Summer Institute in Earth Science will be held at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, for 40 participants beginning July 9, 1962. The six-week institute, which closes on August 17, is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and has a faculty of Vassar scientists.

The course, designed for high school and junior high school teachers of science, will utilize formal classes, informal group discussions, field trips and laboratory work to teach geology, astronomy, and spatial concepts. Dr. John H. Johnsen is director and Dr. Jerome Regnier of Rollins College, a former member of the Vassar faculty, is associate director. Dr. Henry Albers, associate professor of astronomy at Vassar, is also a member of the institute faculty.

Applications must be received before February 15. Descriptive pamphlets are available upon request from Dr. Johnsen at Vassar College.

Egyptian Snood Is Introduced in Style Show by Chapman

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fashionable ladies of ancient Egypt wore robes of transparent linen, and working girls wore nothing at all.

Obviously designer Ceil Chapman had no choice. In her spring collection, "Daughters of the Nile," she modestly skirts the bare facts of history and settles for the spirit of that exotic era.

As a consequence, 200 fashion writers winding up a week of New York Couture Group showings saw bare-shouldered Chapman models undulate along the runway in clinging, draped or pleated chiffon dresses, under the baleful stare of a huge pharaonic statue onstage.

Sinuously successful were strapless gowns gathered high under the bosom and draped in a body-molding line. Sometimes the bare shoulders were sheltered by suede tops—and the daring combination of suede and chiffon won applause.

The Egyptian snood, that familiar squared-off half-circle headdress the Sphinx has affected for some centuries, was worn with some of the dresses as a hat.

Colors were named appropriately: Sahara brown, lotus green and yellow, baked sand, henna, which glamor girls of 6,000 years ago used for tinting fingers and toes, and kohl, which they used to darken eyelashes.

Kingston Camera Club Meeting Is Set for Wednesday

The next meeting of the Kingston Camera Club will be held Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1962 at 7:30 p. m. at the Artcraft Gallery, 694 Broadway.

A workshop evening is planned by the guest speaker, Charlotte McGraw. This will entail the correct method on how to shoot close-ups and copies. Everyone who has a close-up or portra attachment and a tripod is requested to bring same to the meeting. No member or non-member will be admitted without a camera. Photographs, postcards or any small object to be copied, should be brought to the meeting. Any member with a print or slide taken closer than three feet is asked to bring same for open discussion.

The regular monthly black and white contest open to all members, will also be held. The subject for this meeting is "tabletop in action" and will be judged by the membership. Each contestant may enter two prints.

A question and answer period will follow the regular social hour. All those interested in amateur photography are invited as guests of the club.

Sisterhood Meeting Is Held; Cabaret Night, March 17

Sisterhood Ahavath Israel held a general membership meeting Wednesday, Jan. 10 in the Vestry Hall. Mrs. George Small presided. Minutes of the previous meeting were submitted by Mrs. Eckdish read the correspondence. Summary of important world events that happened in 1961 was given by Mrs. Cecil Murkoff. Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein, reporting on Judaism in the home, spoke of some basic prayers which should be included in the daily household routine.

It was announced that home card party week would be held January 15-20. All members wishing to host a card party in their homes should contact Mrs. Edward Furman or Mrs. Martin Singer. Also as part of a fund-raising campaign orders will be taken for Mah Jong cards. All interested in purchasing a card should contact Mrs. Mel Kelmen.

March 17 was picked as Cabaret Night, which will employ a French theme. Mrs. Joseph Colen is in charge of the entertainment for what promises to be a very enjoyable evening.

The program for the meeting was dedicated to Torah Fund. Mrs. Sanford Gossett, Torah Fund Chairman, explained that all contributions to this worthy cause helped to support the Jewish Theological Seminary, which trains future teachers and Jewish leaders. Also sustained by the Seminary Museum in New York and the television program "The Eternal Light". A humorous, educational film "The Broken Sabbath of Rabbi Asher" culminated the evening's activities. Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Larry Jacobs, in honor of her son's marriage.

Hessdorfer Named Recipient of Science Award Medal Here

Richard Hessdorfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Hessdorfer, Lake Katrine, the top science student in Kingston High School, will be the recipient at graduation of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award Medal. As an award winner, he is eligible to compete for annual science scholarships sponsored by Bausch and Lomb, Incorporated, at the University of Rochester.

The Science Award Medal was introduced in 1932, long before America's need for scientific manpower was as obvious as it is today. The award has played a significant part in stimulating high school students to a greater appreciation of the many opportunities possible in scientific careers. The program has the official endorsement of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals and the award is presented in more than 7,400 schools in the United States and Canada.

Bausch and Lomb provides for three or more science scholarships, with a flexible stipend based on need, and with a total four-year value of $21,600. Only winners of the Honorary Science Award are eligible to compete for the science scholarships. In the 18 years that this program has been in effect, 67 young men and women have been enrolled at the University of Rochester under the company's science scholarships. In addition, because of the high caliber of the contestants, the university has awarded other scholarships of comparable value to 102 runners-up.

The Rochester Scholarship Committee studies all applications and selects 30 of the most promising candidates as finalists. These students are notified of their selection late in February, and finalists from all parts of the country are invited to Rochester for three days, with all expenses paid, for interviews and competitive tests to determine the scholarship winners.

The science award winner may enter the nationwide scholarship competition.

Suppers

West Camp Church

A spaghetti and meatball supper will be served Thursday, Jan. 18 beginning at 5:30 p. m., and until all are served, in the parish hall of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp.

West Camp Auxiliary will prepare and serve the supper which is open to the public. No reservations are necessary.

Soak for a few minutes then wash. If there are stubborn stains, rub with a damp cloth dipped in soda. Do not scour glass cook-ware with coarse abrasives. They may weaken the skin or surface and weaken the glass in that spot.

LEAVING A PARTY EARLY

Q: All of my friends are "night owls" whereas I don't like staying up very late at night. When invited to a party how can I leave at a reasonable hour without breaking up the party? People always seem to think they should leave soon after the first one makes the move.

A: The best way is to make your going as inconspicuous as possible. That is, you can explain to your host (or hostess) that you have to leave but don't want to break up the party, so please not to take any notice of your going. Then if you wait a few minutes, you can slip away without being noticed. On the other hand, if you go up to the hostess and shake hands and say good-night, that will certainly tend to break up the party.

Q: Next month my 9-year-old daughter will be a junior bridesmaid at a relative's wedding. Her dress is fashioned after the bridesmaids' dresses. There will also be a flower girl who is 4 years of age. The problem is that the bride wants the two young attendants to wear headpieces exactly like those worn by the bridesmaids which consist of plumes and veiling. I believe that this combination would not be in good taste for the two young attendants and that they are much too young to wear veils over their faces. Would you please give me your opinion on this matter as the wedding is drawing near and the problem is far from settled.

A: I agree with you. In fact, plumes and veils over the face of those children would be little short of ridiculous.

* * *

Q: When I have two couples in to dinner, do I tell each guest where to sit at the dining table, or do they sit wherever they please?

Jaycees Seek New Members at Meeting Tonight

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold a special orientation meeting for prospective members tonight 8 o'clock at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

President of the Kingston Jaycees, Robert V. Carlzon, extends an invitation to all young men between the ages of 21 and 35 years who are interested in their community. He stressed the fact that too many people feel that the Junior Chamber of Commerce is a business organization which is not so. It is a civic organization functioning to better the community and at the same time developing the abilities of each member through its activities, he said.

The meeting will include a brief orientation as to the activities of the organization, a movie entitled The Jaycee Story, a question and answer period and an awards program for first year members, presented by Robert Stedge.

West Hurley Unit

The West Hurley Unit will meet Thursday, Jan. 18 at the West Hurley School, 8 p. m.

A film will be shown. Refreshments will be served. All members are asked to attend.

Kingston Day Unit

The Kingston Day Unit met Thursday, Jan. 11 at 410 Broadway for the regular meeting. Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan, chairman, presided.

A luncheon meeting was held at 12:30 p. m. Mrs. McGowan and Mrs. Russell Howard assisted the hostess committee in preparing the meal; the meat course which was the project for the day was prepared by Mrs. D. N. Secore. The hostess committee, Mrs. Gertrude Brodhead, Mrs. John Schwenk and Mrs. John Cuff served desserts.

Following the luncheon a lesson on "Cured Meats" was held with 21 members participating. Mrs. D. N. Secore had charge of the class.

At the close of the class, Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan took charge of the business meeting. Two visitors were welcomed — Miss Nellie Elmendorf and Miss Agnes Hartmann.

Samples of polished kitchen utensils were shown and the Unit voted to take up this project. The first meeting in wooden bowls, spoons, forks and other articles will be held January 25, 10 a. m. at 410 Broadway. Anyone wishing information is asked to contact Mrs. C. Stuart McGowan.

Mrs. Joseph Grooks, Mrs. Fred Fahnrick with Mrs. McGowan will serve as a committee to buy some needed supplies.

In February several of the members will entertain the patients at the TB Hospital.

Two new members joined the Unit. The next meeting is Thursday, Feb. 8. Films will be shown on the subjects "Party Pies", "Know Your Lamb" and "Your Sterling."

Members and those interested are invited to attend.

New Paltz Gallery Exhibits Works Of Woolley, Bonagura

The New Paltz Gallery offers two dramatic one-man shows this month. A. E. Woolley of New Paltz exhibits photographs, and Anthony Bonagura, also of New Paltz, presents paintings.

Bonagura's show is comprised of 15 paintings, most of them still life subjects in the neo-realistic tradition, solidly composed and exqisitely painted. Surprisingly, six of the works are abstract, or near abstract, and they hang as strongly as the powerful still-life works.

Louis Marion, executive vice-president of the Parke Bernet Galleries, described Bonagura's work recently as "the finest dramatic realistic still-life specimens I have ever seen, including the works of William Harnett."

Anthony Bonagura was trained at Cooper Union and the Art Students League in New York, and the Chicago Art Institute. He is a lifetime member of the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York City. He shows widely and has received nine prizes and awards, including two firsts at the Springfield, Massachusetts Annual.

A. E. Woolley, photographer-author-artist, is known primarily as a photojournalist whose work appears in Life, Look, Fortune, Holiday and other nationally known publications. The Museum of Modern Art has in its permanent collection two of the prints now on view at the New Paltz Gallery.

Woolley's rare gift is his ability to make each picture a fresh experience for the viewer. No easy stylist, he makes use of form and design according to the dictates of his own selective vision to reveal man and his world in endless variety.

Woolley is also showing a line of drawings rendered with photographic materials. The drawings carry the same sense of excitement, the plunge into new experience, that characterizes his photography. This technique of drawing in photography, termed Develart, was discovered and perfected by Woolley. An article detailing the method was published in SCHOOL ARTS Magazine in 1959 and Develart has since been adopted in many schools as a teaching method.

Woolley writes extensively. Author and illustrator of four technical books on photography, he has written photographic articles for all of the national photographic magazines, and illustrated a textbook on Science Education for Elementary Teachers. An educator, himself, and member of the American Association of University Professors, he has taught at Louisiana State and the State University of New York, at New Paltz. He has held 14 one-man shows, and was a two-star exhibitor in the Photographic Society of America.

The New Paltz Gallery, located one quarter mile off the New York State Thruway Exit 18, toward Poughkeepsie, is open from 10:30 a. m., to 6 p. m., daily and until 9 p. m. Thursday and Friday evenings.

College Has Note

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—The Skidmore College Library is the new owner of a note, signed by Benjamin Franklin, that promised the United States would pay France 750,000 livres.

The note, dated Nov., 15, 1781, was an agreement to repay the loan by Jan. 1, 1788. Franklin wrote 36 words in the note and signed it twice. At the time, he was U.S. minister-plenipotentiary to France.

Skidmore said Sunday the note was a gift of Perc S. Brown of Orinda, Calif.

School Aid Announced

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today distribution of $182,215,300 to school districts for the support of public schools.

The quarterly payment includes $47,040,000 to New York City.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today's dilemma: What do Peter, Sammy, Dean, et al., give their leader for a wedding present . . . And how does Sinatra's engagement to Juliet Prowse strike Dorothy Provine, who now has lost Frank—and "The Roaring Twenties?"

Dinah Shore is still ducking the press because she doesn't want to talk about the divorce. . .

The two top movie fan mags are a puzzle. One gave up scandal for the sweetness-and-light routine, the other did the opposite. . .

Doris Day should have a talk with husband-producer Marty Melcher. She's still too young and pretty to be filmed through all those filters, as in "Lover Come Back." . . . Saddest sight in town: The leveling of all those wonderful outdoor sets at Fox to make way for a building complex. Down with progress! . . .

Concerning "Something's Got to Give," it may be Marilyn Monroe, who isn't satisfied with the script . . . "Flower Drum Song" is fine entertainment, but do you really need two dream sequences in one picture? . . . Fox, which allowed "The Innocents" to escape rather than being released, is now beginning to sell this distinguished film. . . .

Jill St. John is typed. She plays a movie starlet in Rome in both "Tender is the Night" and "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone." . . . Why was "Tender" released just after the Academy deadline? Because Fox didn't want it to interfere with the Oscar chances of "The Hustler?" . . . Still unanswered: What does Jeffrey Hunter do for an encore after "King of Kings?" . . .

Add Gene Kelly to the pro-Twisters: "It lets people who can't dance think they can, and those who can dance can have fun with it." . . . Nomination: Warren Beatty for the slouchist new star offscreen since James Dean . . . Debbie Reynolds is one of the few girls around who could take a middling comedy-Western like "Second Time Around" and make it fun. . .

Worth looking into?—The claim of University Cinema Arts graduates that certain studio unions are impossible to join unless you are the son of a member. These are the same unions complaining about "runaway" productions. . .

What a difference flubber can make. Disney productions made $4.5 million in 1961, compared to a loss of over a million in 1960. . .

Why We Say--

RACING: This expression, which means to do something well in advance of the starting date, is from racing. It dates back about 35 years to the time when a gun, firing a blank cartridge, was first used to start runners on the track . . . some would be so anxious that they would start before the gun was actually fired.

Unusual Tactics Avoid End-Play

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This week will cover interesting plays and today's hand is a conspicuous example of brilliant dummy play nullified by brilliant defense.

You don't have to approve the bidding any more than I do, but the five-diamond contract would have been a cinch against a reasonable trump break.

South was sure that the bidding marked East with all three missing trumps, but he saw a ray of sunshine.

West held the first trick with the king of hearts and shifted to the king of clubs. South took it with the ace, ruffed a club, ruffed a heart, ruffed another club, ruffed a second heart, cashed his ace and dummy's king of spades, ruffed dummy's last heart, led his last club and ruffed with dummy's king of trumps.

This line of play which was based on the correct assumption that West had started with five clubs and four cards in each major suit deserved a better fate than actually befell it.

If East had discarded his last spade when dummy ruffed with the king, he would have been forced to ruff the third spade and lead away from his queen of trumps.

How did East avoid the end play? He underruffed dummy's king of diamonds. Then he was able to follow to the third spade and avoid the end play.

New York Workers Average $102.71 Wage

Alaska, Michigan, California, Illinois and Delaware outranked New York, Industrial Commissioner Martin P. Catherwood said Saturday, citing statistics announced recently by the Federal Bureau of Employment Security.

Told Tough Boss Where to Go

Kovacs Became Movie Star Hard Way, Lived Rich Life

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There were fewer more colorful characters than Ernie Kovacs, a comic who spent more on cigars than many people earn--about 20 dollars a day.

He came to town with a reputation of being one of television's most inventive comics—a writer, producer, star and director of many shows that were television classics.

Does It Hard Way

As a result, he wound up with a $600,000 house, a price of $200,000 a picture and a reputation as one of the brightest movie comedy finds in years.

People in Hollywood who told off the late Harry Cohn and kept working at Columbia Studios could be counted on the thumb of one hand.

"We were making 'Operation Mad Ball,'" Kovacs once recalled. "It was a party sequence with lots of drunken GIs and lots of pretty French girls. About 4 a.m., this character comes up to me and says, 'I hear you've been having a ball chasing these pretty starlets around the set all night.'

None of His Business

"Actually, that's what I was supposed to be doing but I figured it was none of this guy's business so I told him to go to hell."

Kovacs later was told that it was Cohn, boss of Columbia Pictures.

"For some reason, Harry and I became great friends after that. Don't ask me why."

His hilly driveway had an asphalt turntable that spins cars around like a railroad roundhouse and heads them downhill. Little things like that turned what was once a $100,000 home into a $600,000 residence.

In Kovacs' den, there were such things as an indoor waterfall and a wine cellar that had artificial cobwebs on the bottles, placed there by a special effects man of ABC-TV.

A Confirmed Gambler

Once a friend called him from New York. Kovacs asked if he had a deck of cards in his desk.

The voice 3,000 miles away replied yes.

"Okay," said Kovacs, "cut them. I say red for $500."

Ernie recalled that there was silence on the other end of the line, then profanity.

He next gave his opponent a bet that the next card would be a spade for $500.

Once again there was silence on the other end. And the next mail brought a check for $1,000.

Kovacs' TV shows, always conceived by him, were classics. A recent one was done without a word of dialogue and got rave reviews from critics.

He was a gourmet in his food tastes, a frequent diner at such restaurants as Chasen's, Romanoff's and Larue's.

Would Miss Her Cooking

Then he hired a cook and paid her a thousand dollars a month.

"She is so great that I eat home every night now," he said recently, "because I'm afraid I'll miss something for supper."

Director Richard Quine who directed his first picture and several afterward, once said that Kovacs was so brilliant with comedy that he didn't need to see a script.

"The best way to work with Ernie is to tell him a minute before shooting what the scene is all about and then let him create the comedy himself," Quine said.

For a long time, Columbia typed him as a comic villain, usually as a stiff army captain.

"I fight at being type-cast," he once said. "I don't want audiences seeing my pictures 10 years from now and saying: 'Oh yes, I remember him—the guy who always played fat captains.'

"So I diet between roles. I lost 40 pounds for 'Our Man in Havana.' That shows I can play thin captains, too."

Solon Lists 10 'Worst' '61 Films

The 10 "worst films" of 1961 were announced today by Assemblyman Luigi R. Marano (R-Kings), chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee Studying Pornography.

The selections were made on the basis of each of the motion picture's "blatant wholesaling of sordid sex as the dominant story line," he said.

"While it can be argued whether sex is suitable as a subject for extensive treatment as film entertainment on the adult level, that would be getting into the shadow of the censorship controversy. Our concern is what these lewd, low-grade screen offerings do to our youngsters. Most of the films on this list are just a half-step above illicit stag movies.

"In fact," he said, "the movie producers are now lifting their own ban on the use of sexual perversion as a scenario theme. A film made in Britain and due for release here in February, titled "The Victim" uses homosexuality as its story line," he pointed out.

Marano said that his reason for releasing the list is the hope that parents and others interested in shielding youngsters from this type of lascivious screen fare will be guided accordingly.

Marano said parents must be given the facts so they can help stamp out pornography in literature or movies after the authorities provide the proper legal machinery to do the job. He declared that his committee report will be filed with the Legislature next week and will make recommendations for a stiffer legal approach to the problem.

Marano listed the following films on his "10 worst" line-up: Never on Sunday, La Dolce Vita, Splendor in the Grass, Liaisons Dangereuses, Heat of Summer, Rocco and His Brothers, Something Wild, The Couch, Beat Girl, and Love at Night.

Accord, Delanoy Fuel Score Victories in 'Y' Cage Loop

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Despite rumors circulating among the basketball fraternity, the venerable YMCA League will survive, as it has for more than two decades.

Unever competition and lopsided scores, with as much as 30 and 40 point spreads in final scores, prompted some of the faint hearted to predict an early demise of the league.

A check with Steve Orozco, the personable, young athletic director at the Y, reveals that the YMCA League managers may have been stricken with a mass attack of bashfulness during the organizational meetings last fall.

It seems that nobody, but nobody, wanted any truck with the Ray's Tackle Shop powerhouse. The dilemma was acute but it was solved in this manner. The teams agreed to play a single round robin — 10 games — as a qualifying round. At the end of the first swing around, the league will be split into two divisions based on first half standings.

The proposal has considerable merit and was the difference between having a league and no league.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Wilt Chamberlain was averaging 48.6 points a game the last time the NBA statistical sheet came out. He also had missed 285 free throw attempts in 676 tries. If The Stilt could average anywhere near the big boys in foul shooting, a 50-plus average would be a cinch. But isn't that what the purists are screaming about? . . . The National Motor Boat Show which opened last week in New York points up the fact that boating is now a tremendous business and recreation. It is estimated that there are now 7,175,000 recreational boats in existence on all waters in the United States today. A breakdown of that total reveals there are 760,000 inboard motor boats, 3,880,000 outboard motor boats, 465,000 sailboats, 2,070,000 rowboats, canoes, dinghies, prams and other miscellaneous craft. . . . Bridge is another game that has caught on fire in Ulster County and elsewhere in the country. There are now an estimated 25 million players in the United States. . . . Wonder who is the best bridge player in Ulster County? Will someone venture an opinion and let us take it from there.

• Hot Stove Stuff:

When Ralph Houk piloted the Yankees to the World's Championship in his freshman year at the helm he became only the third big league pilot ever to accomplish the feat. The others were Bucky Harris with Washington in 1924 and Eddie Dyer with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946. . . . In hitting 54 homers in 1961, Mickey Mantle led the majors in home run frequency by clouting one every 9.5 times at bat. Roger Maris was right behind Mickey with a home run every 9.7 times at bat. Incidentally, when Maris was named the American League's Most Valuable Player, it was the 15th time in 31 years since the award was instituted that a Yankee was the winner. Detroit is the runnerup with six MVP's. . . . When Whitey Ford posted his fabulous 25-4 won and lost record, it boosted the little lefty's career record to 156 wins and only 63 losses for a .715 percentage. This puts him second only to former Yankee Spud Chandler's .717, the all-time major league high. Ford's lifetime ERA is a record low 2.76. . . . Announcement that Joe DiMaggio would make a second trip to Florida as a Yankee "batting instructor" points up a curious co-incidence. During the years Casey Stengel was manager, the Yankee Clipper kept a respectful distance from the Bombers. Did Casey resent Joe or was there natural disenchantment between the two? . . . We must dissent from our AP colleagues. We voted for the Green Bay Packers as Team of the Year and Vince Lombardi as Coach of the Year. Lost out on both counts. The Yankees were great in 1961, but as a team and considering all factors involved, we have to go with the Packers. And this from a Yankee rooter since the days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig!

Accord ripped Doran's, 52-33, and Delanoy Fuel edged Dick's Barber Shop, 52-49, in Kingston YFCA cage games Saturday at the Broadway court.

Cliff Schoonmaker, the pilot, and Ron Roby, the popular sports broadcaster, were high for Accord. They had help from Fred Wustrau. Pat Crowley was the only Doran's player in double figures.

Accord led at the quarter stops, 22-13, and 34-19, after the teams had finished the opening stanza in a 6-6 deadlock.

Delanoy and Dick's Barber Shop were tied on 14 different occasions before Ted Bream clinched matters with a basket. He had 10 points and Eric Broberg rimmed 13 to pace the winners. Tony Causa and Joe Spada were in double digits for the Barber Shop.

This week's schedule is as follows:

Tuesday—Byrne vs. Dick's (7), Accord vs. Trailways (8) and Hub vs. Yellow Jackets (9).

Wednesday — Baliton vs. Doran's (7) and Rye YMCA vs. Kingston Stars (8).

Myron J. Michael Five Tops Saugerties, 63-31

Trailing, 21-20 at halftime, the Myron J. Michael Junior High cagers solved the Saugerties zone defense with a fast break in the third and fourth periods to stop the home side, 63-31, in the opener for Coach Ronnie Cole's cagers Saturday.

Dan Heppner and Ron Lindsey did the bulk of the scoring for the winners while Lindsey and Larry Armstead were the defensive stars.

In the seventh grade contest, the MJM boys won a thriller, 39-34. Joel Tomson and Charlie Lay led the winners with 13 points each while Ritchie had 19 for the seventh grade Sawyers.

The local five will open its season on Saturday, hosting Left Vincent's Arlington Junior High team.

Texas Rancher Guest Speaker At Lowland Club

Floyd Smith of Lampasas, Texas, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Lowlands Ranch Club, Inc.

Smith, member of a Texas family which has lived in Texas for four generations, spoke about a Texas ranch life of the past and present. The talk was followed by a question and answer period and was greatly enjoyed.

The club discussed tentative plans for a square dance in the near future and overall plans for 1962. Refreshments were served after the meeting. The next meeting is scheduled Feb. 4 at 2 p. m. at the clubhouse.

Ray's, Byrne Get Victories In Rec Basketball Contests

It took Ray's Tackle Shop four minutes to score a point but once Coach Ward Dunham's cagers found the range, they remained unbeaten in the City Rec Cage league with a solid 74-50 win over Carroll's Bait Box last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the other attraction, Byrne Chevrolet rallied in the second half to trim Hub Delicatessen, 71-61, despite a good performance by Slim Bill Fitzgerald.

While the Tackle Shop had trouble getting started, the Bait Box zoomed to a 4-0 and then an 8-2 lead. From then on, the powerful league leaders just toyed with their opponents. It was 12-12 at the quarter but a second period outburst broke the game open. The Tackle Shop led, at halftime and just coasted from there.

Scheffel Returns

Bob Bondar led the well balanced attack with 20 points. Joe Klonowski, Chick Boice and Ronnie Scheffel were also in double figures. Scheffel, playing his first game in several weeks, was his usual self in the playmaking department. Veteran Andy Juhl was high for the Bait Box with 20 points.

Byrne trailed the Hub, 26-22, at the halftime break as Fitzgerald hit for 15 points in the first two periods. The winners jumped ahead in the third period and stayed that way the rest of the way. The closest the Hub was able to get was to within five points in the final stanza.

Fitzgerald rimmed 22 points to lead both clubs. Bruce Wiederspiel had 19 to pace Byrne, 18 of them coming in the second half. Bud Harder finished with 12 and Jim Ferraro had 10.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME, ...

by MURRAY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (NEA) — Cal Kunz, the Denver Broncos' owner, reveals that Merlin Olsen, his number one draft choice, turned down an offer of $55,000 for two years, plus a career job starting at $5,000 a year' . . to sign with the Los Angeles Rams. . . . No wonder Cal predicts a common draft between the two professional football leagues in a couple of years. . . .

New York Giant Jimmy Patton has long held the title of littlest defensive regular in pro football . . . but the crown has been usurped by All-American League Dick Harris of the San Diego Chargers who sometimes scales in at 155 . . . What does he do when a 230-pound fullback busts through the line? "I pray." . . .

* * *

Some of the AFL Eastern stars who played under Wally Lemm, believe that his easy-does-it policy, a la Bobby Dodd, will catch up on the Houston head man in a couple of years . . . Wally is back selling sporting goods in Illinois, the only undefeated pro coach of 1961. . . . When Bud Adams of the Oilers first called him about succeeding Lou Rymkus in mid-season, Wally turned him down flat . . . he'd already quit football before last season "because if you're not a head coach by the time you're 40, you should admit defeat." . . . This was two days before Rymkus was let loose and Wally didn't want Lou to think he was undercutting him. . . .

Wally Lemm

To keep Jim Owens at Washington, says Gov. Albert Rosellini, "we wound up giving the coach the University and retaining for ourselves possession of the parking lot concession. . . .

* * *

Gene Fullmer reciting his athletic career: "I tried football and got a broken leg, went out for basketball and lost a tooth, switched to track and got a trick knee. That's when I took up boxing—it looked a lot easier." . . . his toughest fight? "The one you've never seen. With my wife." . . .

"When you're in a slump," Roger Maris has been telling winter audiences, "there's only one thing to do. Go crazy." . . .

When Jerry Lucas was in Russia last summer, the Muscovites got so intrigued by the smooth basketball techniques of the Ohio State whiz that they asked him to stage a one-hour solo showing of his moves and shots . . . while they had cameras whirring all over the court. . . . "If I ever go back," grimaces Jerry, "I'll be playing against myself." . . .

Buffalo Bill defenders like Billy Atkins hated to see Buster Ramsey looped as head coach "because there's so much I still want to learn—and Buster's the best." . . . the trap Buster fell into was that he tried to do it all himself . . . he didn't even have good enough assistants to ease the load. . . .

Bobby Bell, Minnesota's All-America tackle, wasn't at all bashful in his caustic reaction to UCLA in the Rose Bowl: "They better get rid of that single wing. They have to go four yards to reach you, so you have that much time to get ready for them." . . . Gopher coach Murray Warmath talking about one of next year's prospects: 'Anybody who beats him out of a first-string job will be a 'Goin' Jessie.'" . . .

San Diego press has to think twice before hopping on Charger quarterback Jack Kemp . . . he's going to work for the club as a public relations man. . . .

The most important man in college football these days is the senior "red shirt" drafted as a future by the pros . . . like Booky Bolin, the Mississippi guard, who savored the sights of Las Vegas and San Diego as the guest of Lamar Hunt in his private plane because the Dallas Texans would like to get him in 1963. . . . Booky is also an expert on culinary arts. . . .

* * *

Between you'n'me, the Twist has invaded pro football, too . . . with the current championship claimed by Sherill Headrick, the Texans' linebacker . . . and halfback Paul Lowe of the Chargers a close second. . . .

Return Tilt Wednesday

Kingston YMCA All - Stars Overpower Rye Team, 106-87

Jumping to an early first quarter lead, the Kingston YMCA All-Stars swamped the Rye Stars, 106-87, Saturday at the Westchester County gym.

The home side knotted the count, 42-42, midway in the second period but the local cagers went on another point spree and were never in trouble thereafter.

John Graham and Ted Costas, All-Westchester County selections while in high school, and Jerry Vales, a former Notre Dame cager, topped the home side. As usual, it was balance which paid off for Kingston as Joe Klonowski, Chick Boice, Walt Harder and Leo Armstead were in double figures.

Last Gasp Touchdown Gives West 31-30 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The West emerged from the 1962 Pro Bowl, one of the wildest ever, with a 31-30 victory—but it took a combination of triumph and tragedy to overturn the underdog East.

The National Football League's postseason thriller was witnessed Sunday by 57,409 coliseum fans and a national television audience of millions.

There was a 12-yard touchdown pass by Johnny Unitas to Jon Arnett in the last two seconds, a last-minute fumble by the East's Jim Brown that paved the way for the final West score, and a blocked conversion attempt in the third period.

After it was over, Brown — named the most valuable player —said he felt more like a goat.

With five minutes left, the brilliant Cleveland fullback shook off four tacklers and bulldozed 70 yards to a touchdown, giving the East a 30-24 edge.

Jimmy Fumbles

With a minute left and the ball on the East's 41, Unitas went to work. The Baltimore star passed for 15 yards to rookie Mike Ditka of Chicago and 14 yards to Colt teammate Lenny Moore. With 15 seconds left, a Unitas pass to Moore fell incomplete.

As the seconds ticked away, Unitas faded, barely eluding the grasp of New York's Andy Robustelli. Rolling to his left, the quarterback spotted elusive Los Angeles halfback Jon Arnett alone in the end zone and tossed him a perfect strike.

Jim Martin of Detroit kicked the winning conversion, his fourth of the day. Martin also booted a 27-yard field goal in the second period.

Another crucial play occurred in the third quarter when Green Bay's Henry Jordan and Detroit's Dick (Night Train) Lane broke through to bat down an Eastern conversion attempt. Jordan was named most valuable lineman. The blocked point eventually spelled defeat for the East, the loser in the last three Pro Bowl games. The West has an 8-4 edge in the series.

Almost Trapped

Unitas, always unruffled, said of the winning TD toss: "Mike Ditka was the primary target, but he was held up at the line. I was lucky to get out of a trap."

Unitas, most valuable player in the '60s and '61 Pro Bowls, completed 13 of 23 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns.

Next to Brown, the East's unhappiest player was aging quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who tossed two TD passes and completed 15 of 26 pass attempts.

Gaily Purdy Wins In Speedskating

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Eastern States speedskating crowns are worn today by the New York State Women's Golf champion and a high school senior making his first try in the men's competition.

Miss Gail Purdy of Glens Falls, who won the golf title last summer, captured the women's crown Sunday in the 30th annual Eastern States meet. She compiled 12 points with victories in the 440-yard and 880-yard races and a third in the 220 Saturday.

Bob Fenn of Flushing, last year's intermediate champion, won five races for a perfect score of 25. His victories were in the 220, 440, 880, mile and three-mile races.

Both Miss Purdy and Fenn are 18 years old.

Unlimited class — Dick Fertel (K) pinned Mike McKnight (B) in 1:50 of 3rd period.

The Maroon grapplers will be at Middletown on Tuesday and are at Liberty Saturday for the DUSO meet. The team is coached by Ken Brown.

Kansas City Wins First Half in ABL

CLEVELAND (AP)— The Kansas City Steers go into the second half of the American Basketball League campaign today wearing the title of champions.

The Steers won the first-half title in a playoff over the weekend, defeating the Cleveland Pipers two games to one. The title guarantee Kansas City a spot in the playoffs at the end of the season, although it looks as though no special pass will be necessary if the Steers keep on playing the way they have been.

Kansas City, the top team in the league's Western Division, displayed a strong defense and accurate shooting as they downed Cleveland 120-104 Sunday in the third game of the series.

Nick Mantis wound up with a total of 25 points for the Steers and Larry Staverman collected 24.

Jack Adams of Cleveland led in scoring with 30 points, all but seven in the first half. Larry Siegfried assumed the Cleveland scoring burden in the second half, when he scored all 26 of his points.

Weber and Mrs. Garms PinChamps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The new champions of national All-Star bowling are Dick Weber, a 32-year-old St. Louis pro, and Mrs. Shirley Garms of Chicago.

Weber scored a 10th frame strike for a 248 final game Saturday night to win the title in a tight match with Roy Lown of El Paso, Tex. Weber's winning margin was 19 pins.

Both men were among bowlers who rolled a record five perfect 300 games during the 21st annual tournament. Lown was relatively unknown in bigtime bowling before the tournament and Weber made the 16-man finals field by only one pin.

Mrs. Garms, 37, rolled 647 in three games to defeat Joy Abel of Chicago for the women's title.

Fullmer Clamors for Moore Fight, But Wants Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Fullmer today set his sights squarely on ol' Archie Moore's New York-Massachusetts-European version of the world light heavyweight championship—with one important reservation.

"I would like to meet Archie for the title any time," said Fullmer, himself the world — National Boxing Association version — middleweight champion. "But I won't fight him if he wants all the money.

"I have heard of some of his demands before he has signed contracts. My days as an amateur are over. I want part of the purse."

Fullmer, who comes from West Jordan, Utah, was honored Sunday night as "Fighter of the Year" by the New York Boxing Writers Association at the organization's 36th annual dinner.

"I think Archie is about ready to be taken," said Fullmer, "and I think I am the man to take him."

His manager, Marv Jenson, nodded agreement.

SHS 8th Graders Defeat Arlington

Frank Garcia did some good rebounding and Bob Whitney and Grant Crum played excellent floor games as the Saugerties 8th graders won, 23-14, at Arlington last week. Garcia also contributed 14 points to the winning cause.

In a frosh contest between the schools, Arlington won a 28-16 decision.

Quick Elected New President Knot Hole Loop

Donald E. Quick was installed as president of the Metropolitan Knot Hole baseball league in ceremonies Sunday at Amell's Cozy Corner. He succeeds Carl Thurin.

James F. Howard was elected vice president and Albert E. Eisele was named to his fourth term as secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the official organization are: Kenneth E. Newell, director; George S. Brown, chief umpire and director of field operations; Robert Pleugh, director of field maintenance.

Victor C. Amell is the founder and organizer of the Knot Hole league. Walt Daugherty retired as a director.

The Koenig A. C. sponsors of Knot Hole baseball, was organized in 1958 for the express purpose of affording young boys ranging in age from 8 through 12, who for some reason could not qualify in organized leagues, the opportunity to play organized baseball.

The league is made up of six teams with a total of 90 boys in uniform. The league looks forward to its fifth consecutive successful season in 1962.

Wilt Tallies 73, 62 Points Over the Weekend

BOSTON (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the human scoring machine, is playing the best basketball of his record-smashing career. The opinion is unanimous.

The Philadelphia Warrior giant tallied 135 points in less than 17 hours during a busy National Basketball Association weekend.

Chamberlain bettered the regulation game mark with 73 points against Chicago Saturday night in a 135-117 victory, then improved on his own Boston Garden effort with 62 points Sunday as his team lost to the Celtics 145-136.

"I'm shooting as good as I ever did," Chamberlain said.

"I'm glad I got those 73 points because it covers over the controversy about the 78 I scored in triple overtime against Los Angles. There was an argument over whether it should be considered a record or not."

The previous regulation time point record was 71 by Elgin Baylor.

"I thought Chamberlain shot the best he ever did against me," observed Boston center Bill Russell, who fouled out with four and one half minutes to play.

In other Sunday action, Syracuse crushed New York 141-118 for the Nat's sixth straight victory, Cincinnati outlasted St. Louis 119-114 and Detroit snapped Los Angeles 118-108.

New Paltz, Rondout Cage Tilt Postponed

Tonight's UCAL basketball game between New Paltz and Rondout Valley, scheduled for the Ganders' gym, has been postponed until Wednesday, according to Coach Chick Meehan. Poor road conditions and the fact that both schools are closed today forced the postponement.

The jayvee contest on Wednesday will begin at 6:30 p. m.

West Virginia Bids for Entry Into Top Ten

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anything is sure in Southern Conference basketball, it's West Virginia.

Of course a basketball sometimes can take funny bounces, and it did for West Virginia last March. Overwhelming favorites to win the conference title for the seventh straight time, the Mountaineers were toppled by William and Mary in the league tournament semifinals and the crown eventually went to George Washington.

That took place at the Richmond Arena, which West Virginia will visit tonight for the first time since that unhappy experience last year. The high-powered Mountaineers, fresh from a 120-68 romp over George Washington Saturday night and with a glistening 8-0 conference record, have their second meeting of the season with Richmond's Spiders. They handled Richmond a month ago without strain, 97-61.

The Mountaineers were among the nation's top ten about that time, but were dumped out after a string of three successive losses. Since then they've surged back by winning five straight, counting Villanova among their victims, and are prime candidates for a re-entry into the rankings with an 11-3 mark.

There are likely to be some shaking up in those ratings, too, after some surprises last week. Fourth-ranked Southern California (12-3) was upset, sixth-ranked Villanova (13-2) got racked up, seventh-ranked Mississippi State's (10-1) unbeaten string came to an abrupt end, and second-ranked Cincinnati (11-2) again found the jinx at Bradley too much.

Vanderbilt crushed Mississippi State 100-86, starting the Bulldogs off on a sad note on their three-game road trip. Next comes Georgia Tech tonight and Mississippi Saturday night.

That loss by Mississippi State left the smooth and awesome Buckeyes of Ohio State as the country's only undefeated team. The top-ranked Bucks ran over Michigan 89-64 Saturday for their 12th straight, and will have a week's rest before resuming their Big Ten campaign at Minnesota.

Villanova was upended, but big, by Xavier on the Ohioans' court, 87-66. Southern California could do no more than split in its Big Five series at Washington, losing 85-67 Friday night as Bill Hanson scored 37 points and rebounding 78-64 Saturday night despite another fine game by Hanson, who pumped in 32 more points.

Cincinnati's downfall came last Wednesday night in a 70-68 overtime loss to Bradley, marking the fifth time in five years the Bearcats have been ambushed at Peoria. Cincinnati has been idle since, but has two potential troublemakers to meet this week—Dayton (10-3) Tuesday night and eighth-ranked Duquesne (11-1) at Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Third-ranked Kentucky (12-1), in its accustomed spot at the head of the Southeastern Conference standings, will be in action tonight at Tennessee before a two-week layoff. The Wildcats polished off Louisiana State 84-63 Friday night and have won 11 in a row since a 2-point setback by Southern Cal six weeks ago.

Jacobs Is Winner Of Golf Tourney In Sudden Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—There's nothing like money to boost a golfer's morale, so it was a happy Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., who led the way today to the Bing Crosby clambake after winning the $25,000-San Diego Open.

Jacobs, whose last good win was at Denver in 1958, pocketed $3,500 as the winner of a dramatic sudden death playoff with another young tournament pro, Johnny Pott of Ocean Springs, Miss.

Both are 26, both are ex-collegians—Jacobs from Southern California, Pott from Louisiana State.

Jacobs shot a final-round 65, six under par for 277, and finished early. Pott, in a better position at the start of the day, scored 69 for 277.

Pott made his bid in a pair of threesomes that included Mike Souchak, Bob Goalby, Art Wall Jr., Gary Player and Jay Hebert.

Jacobs was tied for 15th place Sunday morning. Pott was still close going into the final nine holes, but few gave him much chance to hang on with the likes of Souchak and Goalby, the cool leaders at this point.

Knicks, Warriors Win Cadet Contests

Knicks and Warriors were successful in YMCA Cadet league games on Saturday. The Knicks won, 13-8, over the Globetrotters while the Warriors trounced the Celtics, 16-2.

The scoring:

Globetrotters (8)—Locke (6), Schantz (1), Boyce (1), Korzendorfer, Hillis. Knicks (13)—Clum (1), Flowers (10), Brown (2), Bodie, Johnston.

Celtics (2)—Esposito, Josefski, Barten, Baltz, Bodie (2). Warriors (16)—Grier (3), Mitchell (7), Yapce (4), Emerick (2), O'Donnell.

Ladies Aid Names Officers for '62

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Tillson Reformed Church was held at the church Thursday 8 p. m. Election of officers was held with the following elected:

Mrs. Ernest Hopper, president; Mrs. Joel Woolsey, vice president; Mrs. Laura Winfield, secretary; Mrs. Billy Winfield, corresponding secretary; Miss Pearl DeForce, treasurer and Mrs. Shirley Cafeerty, spiritual life secretary.

Plans are being made for the observance of World Day of Prayer on Friday, March 9 at 1:30 p. m.

The hostess church will be the Tillson Reformed Church with Rosendale Reformed Church, Bloomingdale Reformed Church, St. Remy Reformed Church and Friends Community Church of Tillson participating. This will be conducted by the Women's Service with Mrs. Hopper as chairman.

Refreshments will be served after the service under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Deyo.

National YMCA Week Scheduled January 21 to 28

National YMCA Week will be observed from January 21 to 28th, General Secretary Louis H. Schafer said today.

Art Linkletter, radio and TV personality, is the national chairman of this special week. He is also a member of the National YMCA physical education committee. During the TV house party program Friday, Jan. 26, he will present Olympic Decathlon Champion, Rafer Johnson, a plaque as the third annual National YMCA Award for his contribution to the world of sports and to the YMCA.

Kingston YMCA will have many building programs that will be announced. Two special days have been set aside as follows:

Tuesday, Jan. 23, "Open House Day." All members will have the privilege of bringing in friends who are non-members and they will have the opportunity of participating in the day's program.

Saturday, Jan. 27 will be "Parents Night" as well as boys guest day. All boy members can bring a friend to participate in the gymnasium, swimming pool, craft work and other program features between 9 a. m. and noon. The evening program will start at 7:30, when the boys and their parents will participate in specially arranged programs in the gymnasium, swimming pool, recreation gym, game rooms and other special features, ending at 9:30 with refreshments. The parents program will be planned by the parents committee and the three YMCA staff members.

Dutchess Man Held for Jury On Three Counts

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A 39-year-old father of two was being held without bail today for grand jury action on charges of grand larceny, abduction and abandonment of his family.

Walter Pilch was arrested by State Police late Saturday in the Town of Deposit, Broome County.

With him, State Police said, was 14-year-old Dorothea Dinge, of Poughkeepsie. She had been the object of a 13-state alarm since she was reported missing Dec. 4.

Pilch was arraigned Sunday before Poughkeepsie Town Judge George Deitz.

Camel Driver Gets Gift of Pickup Truck

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — A pickup truck with two cases of spare parts and a complete tool box was formally handed to Pakistan camel driver Bashir Ahmad today by U.S. Ambassador William Rountree and the local Ford representative.

This type of truck usually costs about $5,000 in Pakistan. But the government of Pakistan, as a goodwill gesture to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's friend, waived the usual customs duty and sales tax and saved Bashir $1200.

The truck was a gift of the Ford Motor Co.

Search North Iceland For U.S. Navy Plane

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Search for a missing U.S. Navy plane centered today in North Iceland where a farmer reported seeing flashes after hearing an aircraft flying overhead.

The Neptune bomber took off from Keflavik Friday morning on patrol over the Greenland icecap and the Denmark straits with 12 crewmen aboard. The farmer said he saw the flashes shortly after midnight Saturday.

To Talk About Cold

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Negotiations are scheduled today between city officials and 250 trash collectors, who struck Wednesday in protest against working in severe cold.

A six-day accummulation of refuse and garbage and hundreds of disgruntled house-holders await a solution to the dispute.

Cyprus Temple Elects Officers

STANLEY D. SEIGLER

A Schenectady businessman, Stanley D. Seigler was elected potentate at the annual meeting of Cyprus Temple, AAONMS, held at Albany Masonic Temple Saturday night.

Also elected were Harold B. Shults, chief rabban; Robert W. Gale, assistant rabban; John N. McDowell, high priest and prophet; Erwin W. Milstrey, oriental guide; Harold E. Hartman, treasurer, and Rollin H. Thomas, recorder.

Planes Arrive To Help Forces Of Ngo Dinh Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Navy ship arrived today with two large Army helicopters and several observation planes to aid the forces of President Ngo Dinh Diem against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

The aircraft ferry Breton, a converted carrier, also had seven jet fighters and a Neptune flying boat bomber on her deck, but these were to be taken to Yokosuka Naval Air Station in Japan, U.S. sources said.

Four jets bearing the markings of the U.S. Air Force 109th Fighter Squadron landed today at Saigon airport, but U.S. sources declined to comment on them.

The sources denied a report that the Breton had discharged a company of helicopters—about 20 aircraft and 200 men—farther up the coast of South Viet Nam on Sunday.

The Breton was the second ship loaded with planes to arrive here since South Viet Nam and the United States reached agreement last month on a major new military buildup.

The first ship, the Core, brought about 40 helicopters and 400 U.S. Army men to fly and service them. The helicopters are capable of carrying 14 men each.

The official silence blanketing the arrival of new U.S. equipment has led to wide speculation as to the numbers and types of weapons being brought into the war-torn republic.

Large quantities of military supplies arrive here both by air and ship nearly every day, and convoys made up of U.S. Army trucks are often seen passing through Saigon.

Buffalo Mayor Shuns Meeting Called by Wagner

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Mayor Chester Kowall of Buffalo said he would shun a meeting of mayors in Rochester today because it "obviously is an exercise in personal political projection" by New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Wagner and Mayor Henry E. Gillette of Rochester, both Democrats, called the meeting of mayors of the state's largest cities "to make common cause" for a larger share of state aid for schools.

Democratic Mayor Erastus Corning of Albany, Republican Mayor John E. Flynn of Yonkers and a representative of Republican Mayor William F. Walsh of Syracuse were scheduled to attend the meeting with Wagner, Gillette and Kowal.

"If collective political action were at all necessary to initiate revision in the school aid program," said Kowal, "Mr. Wagner would hardly seem qualified as a spearhead for practical action.

Weather Picture Up to Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York: Mild weather most of the week, with temperatures averaging well above seasonal normals. Rain changing to snow flurries at beginning and again about Thursday and Friday. Total water content one-half inch or more.

Western New York: Temperatures will average 4-6 degrees above normal. Cooler Tuesday, moderating Wednesday, but cool again Thursday, followed by a warming trend in remainder of the week. Precipitation will average one-half to three-quarters of an inch melted, as snow flurries Tuesday, and snow occasionally mixed with rain Thursday and Friday.

Temperature normals: Daytime highs 25-32. Nighttime lows 5-15.

Struck With Pellets While Hunting Rabbits

A Greene County man suffered minor shotgun pellet wounds Sunday while hunting rabbits with a friend in the Climax section of Coxsackie. According to state police Edward Ross, 35, of RD Coxsackie and Theodore Lennon, 38, of the same address were hunting when a rabbit suddenly ran between them. Lennon fired at it and some of the pellets struck Ross in the lower left leg, troopers said. He was treated by Dr. T. Earl McQuade of Coxsackie.

Heavy Wet Snow In Broad Areas Of Midwest Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy wet snow blanketed broad areas of the Midwest today, piling atop the big covering still on the ground from last week's storm.

The storm, which swept northeastward from eastern Kansas and Oklahoma dumped from one up to more than six inches of snow in a belt extending from northern Missouri across northwestern Illinois into southeast Wisconsin and western lower Michigan.

Snow depths in the region ranged from 8 to 10 inches, with the covering in Muskegon, Mich., measuring 15 inches. Chicago, hit by an 11-inch snowfall a week ago, started digging out from the fresh fall which was expected to reach eight or nine inches.

Driving conditions were reported hazardous throughout the snow belt. At least three traffic deaths were attributed to slippery highways, one each in Kansas, Missouri and Iowa. Three persons died of heart attacks while shoveling snow in Illinois.

Air travel was curtailed in some cities, including Kansas City and Chicago.

South of the snow belt, heavy rains pounded areas from southern Illinois and Indiana southward through the lower Mississippi Valley.

Thunderstorms rumbled across Alabama and sections of Louisiana and Mississippi, causing some property damage. Gusts of 66 m.p.h. lashed Birmingham while gusty winds and heavy rains hit southeast Louisiana.

There was a warming trend in most of the Southeast in the wake of last week's unseasonable cold weather. Temperatures were above freezing for the first time in several nights in the Carolinas, Tennessee and the gulf region. Readings ranged up to 80 in southern Florida Sunday.

Negotiators Try Again to Settle Electrician Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators try again today to settle a strike of 9,000 electrical construction workers that began last Thursday.

Day-long talks failed Sunday night to produce a formula for settling the walkout despite a plea by Mayor Robert F. Wagner for quick agreement.

Harry Van Arsdale Jr., business manager of the striking Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, expressed dismay that representatives of the 600 hiring contractors were unwilling to continue the talks through the night.

"The situation," he said, "has taken a turn for the worse." He offered no further explanation.

City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix, who heads a panel of federal, state and city arbitrators trying to find a way to settle the deadlock, said "the atmosphere was not conducive to continuing the talks" Sunday night.

Felix said all areas in the dispute—including the union's demand for a four-hour work day—had been discussed during the day.

The strike has resulted in the layoff of more than 25,000 cement construction workers who were unable to continue projects until wiring and other electrical work was completed. Further layoffs are anticipated this week if the strike continues.

Icy Highways Result in School Closings in Area

Rain-slicked highways, which froze early today in most sections of Ulster County gave school children an unexpected holiday. School closings were ordered in virtually every district in the county, as well as at Rhinebeck, Red Hook and Catskill.

All Kingston City Schools, Consolidated schools and parochial schools in the city were closed. There was no school at Saugerties Central, Onteora Central, Rondout Valley, Ellenville, New Paltz, Highland and also at St. Mary's of the Snows parochial school in Saugerties.

Rural Roads Bad

Treacherous secondary roads in the rural areas prompted the no-school decisions, various superintendents explained.

County highways north of Kingston were sanded and the majority were passable at low speeds. Traffic tie-ups were reported on various county highways south of Kingston. Route 32 south of the Village of Rosendale, although sanded in spots, was tied-up early this morning.

The same conditions prevailed west of the city on Route 28 where several minor accidents were reported.

In the city, icy conditions of the streets reportedly caused 13 minor traffic mishaps. However no one was reported injured. A wheel came off one of the cars.

Driving Improves

Motorists using the state's highways, according to an Associated Press report, seemed to be driving more cautiously as traffic deaths continued at an unusually low level for the second consecutive weekend.

Five persons, compared with four a week ago, were killed by motor vehicles between 6 p.m. Friday and last midnight. Another person, a 6-year-old boy, was drowned when he fell through ice on a creek.

Roads this weekend generally were clear and dry. Ice made most highways slippery a week ago.

Thruway Mishap

An accident on the Thruway near Westfield ended a honeymoon trip for Donald F. Mertz, 29, of Gibsonia, Pa., and his bride of a day, Eileen, 24, who had lived in Pittsburgh. Mertz was killed Sunday when, State Police said, a car driven by his wife crashed into a bridge pier. Mrs. Mertz was injured seriously.

Other accident victims, by community:

Oakdale—Vickie Bird, 13, Oakdale, struck by a car Friday night.

Buffalo—Leslie D. Crusan, 49, Hamburg, struck by a car Friday night; died Saturday.

New York—Walter Schumann, 45, Astoria, struck by a car Saturday.

New York—Ronald Boccieri, 55, Staten Island, struck by a car Saturday night.

Sherrill—David P. Spaulding, 6, fell through ice on Oneida Creek Sunday and drowned.

Yonkers Raceway To Zeckendorf Is Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP) — William Zeckendorf Sr. says the proposed sale of Yonkers Raceway to the Zeckendorf interests "is still very much alive."

Martin Tananbaum, raceway president, said Friday that negotiations had ended after a second payment of $3 million—due Jan. 5—for a 33 per cent controlling interest in the raceway was not made.

Zeckendorf, head of the Webb & Knapp real estate firm, said Sunday in a telegram:

"As of late last Friday, following a conference with Tananbaum and counsel, we understood that the purchase of the Yonkers Raceway stock was open and very much alive and that it would be closed as agreed."

The contract was announced last Oct. 11. It called for three payments for a total of more than $16 million, the final payment to be made in March.

In his statement Friday, Tananbaum said there was a question whether the first payment, announced as $1 million, would be forfeited because of the Jan. 5 failure.

Freezing Rain, Fog Hit State In Southeast

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—Freezing rain and fog hit mountainous Southeastern New York early today, coating highways with ice and resulting in the cancellation of school in many rural areas.

Minor traffic smashups were reported throughout the area.

Several traffic jams on Route 9W up Storm King Mountain south of here were attributed to auto pileups.

State Police set an advisory speed limit of 35 miles an hour on the New York State Thruway between Suffern and Catskill.

Kingston Legion's Korean Veterans Night Scheduled

Kingston Post 150, American Legion, urges all Korean veterans to attend a special "Korean Veterans Night" meeting in the post home, 18 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston at 8:15 p. m., Tuesday.

[illegible]'s meeting is in connection [illegible] the American Legion, De[illegible]nent of New York goal of obtaining approval of the "New York State Korean Veterans Bonus" in 1962.

Post 150 urges all veterans and non-veterans to support this program in an effort to recognize those who served their country in a time of national emergency. As everyone will recall, a bonus was paid to the veterans of World War I and II through the enactment of a State Bonus Bill.

Since 1951, there have been several Korean Bonus Bills introduced in the State Legislature. Every one of theme has been set aside in some legislative committee. The American Legion has had a Bonus Bill on tap for some time, and this year the greatest effort ever is being made to get this bill out of committee in order that the residents of the state may vote on its approval.

Every resident of this state is urged to write to his Congressman and Senator—without delay — stating their support of the Korean Bonus as proposed by the American Legion.

The Rev. Clarence E. Brown will be the speaker at Tuesday's Korean Veterans' Night meeting. The Rev. Mr. Brown is a World War I veteran and a 40-year member of the Legion. He has served as local post chaplain for the past 20 years, and has held office in the various levels of the Legion throughout the Department of New York. The Rev. Mr. Brown is considered an authority on Legion affairs and will discuss various bills passed by the state and government which are beneficial to the veteran and his family. One of the Legion's many accomplishments is the "GI Bill."

Since the Korean Bonus has been neglected for so long, all veterans are urged to attend this special meeting to discuss the ways in which your cooperation is so important and so urgently needed.

Members of the local Post are urged to personally contact as many Korean Veterans as possible, or accompany them to this meeting.

They Reach Solution

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Harry G. Helm and Police Chief Charles W. Maileff were discussing speeding on city streets.

They noted a sharp drop in complaints about speeding in one neighborhood.

The possible reason: The person who had made most of the complaints was arrested for speeding.

Balloon Shot Fails Today When Huge Bag Falls Apart

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A huge space balloon broke apart hundreds of miles above the Atlantic today as it was inflating to the size of a 13-story building.

The breakup of the big balloon—dubbed "Big Shot" — showered several pieces of aluminum coated plastic into the ocean about 600 miles southeast of the Cape. The pieces, illuminated brilliantly by the rays of the rising sun, provided a spectacular show for observers.

The 500-pound bundle of plastic sheeting was folded neatly in a canister in the nose of a thor rocket which blasted off at 6:06 a.m. in an experiment aimed at testing techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite.

A few minutes after the launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the balloon had separated from the Thor and had started to inflate. But a short while later the space agency said that the balloon had split.

Failure Reason Unknown

The reason for the failure was not immediately known. Technicians planned to study television film relayed from a camera in the Thor booster. The film recorded the 25-minute flight.

An attempt also was under way to recover a 16-mm movie camera which ejected from the Thor and parachuted into the sea. The package carrying the movie camera was sighted floating in the ocean about 200 miles northeast of San Salvador about an hour after the launching. This film would provide a clearer picture of what happened to the big sphere.

Newsmen at the Cape saw the beginning of the inflation process as the sun reflected off the gleaming surface. The balloon at first appeared as a solitary star drifting slowly upward in the dark, clear sky.

Planned as Largest

Suddenly, several other bright objects appeared to surround it. Observers thought initially that these might be parts of the rocket and the canister which carried the folded balloon.

The fragments climbed upward for approximately the intended maximum altitude of 950 miles before starting a quick descent, leaving wavy vapor trails in their wake.

"Big Shot" was to have inflated to a diameter of 135 feet, which would have made it the largest—but not the heaviest—space vehicle ever sent aloft.

NASA has a backup Thor and balloon and expects to repeat the shot as soon as today's trouble is pinpointed.

If the second shot is successful, a similar sphere will be rocketed into orbit later this year as Echo II.

Health for All

Why Teach Health In Schools?

Youngsters in school do not always agree with the occasional critics of health education. One complaining parent said, "I don't want my child to be frightened by talk about cancer and tuberculosis and rheumatism. It's bad enough that every Saturday she has to visit her grandmother who is bed-ridden, without hearing about sickness in school."

Another thought it unnecessary. He said, "Schools should be concerned with language, mathematics, history and science. Everything else is a waste of the taxpayers' money."

What is the student side of the story?

Here are parts of compositions written by high school seniors who are glad that health education was part of their training.

"When my brother caught tuberculosis, the nurse wanted to test all of us. My parents were afraid to let her. They didn't understand why this had to be done. I knew about it from school and I translated the leaflet I got in school for them, so it was all right."

"I brought home a pamphlet about cancer. At first my mother was angry. She had a lump she was worried about and trying to forget. She even told me that if I hadn't brought it home, the lump would have gone away by itself. But now she is thankful. It turned out not to be cancer, but at least she doesn't have to worry about it in secret any more."

"I am perfectly healthy but I am glad for health education for two reasons. I feel more secure in knowing that the way my family lives is right and will help keep us healthy. It makes me feel good to be able to contribute to improving the health of people less fortunate."

Paintings Are Given To Dutchess College

President James F. Hall of Dutchess Community College today announced the acquisition of two Eighteenth Century paintings by the English artists George Morland and Ben Marshall and one Nineteenth Century painting by the English artist Thomas Faed. Valued at $9,000, the paintings were given to the college by Jack Mills, president of Mills Music, Inc., one of the world's largest music publishing companies.

In a letter presenting the bequest to the college, Mills stated: "I feel that works of this order should become public property fo rthe good of our young people, and I hope you will get much use out of them at your college."

This was not the first bequest to the college by Mills. In November 1958, he donated an eight century Byzantine wood carving.

Town of Esopus Vols HostTuesday County Meeting

Town of Esopus Fire Department will be host to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening at the Esopus fire house.

Since there was no meeting in December President Oscar Lambert will have an important agenda to have acted upon.

Among the matters will be presentation to 25-year members of their quarter-century cards by Secretary Fred C. Harder and the naming of delegates to the State and Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association conferences. Other business will also come before the meeting.

The February meeting will be held in Kingston where the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association will act as host.

Balance of Payments Takes Turn for Worse

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. balance of payments situation took a sharp and unexpected turn for the worse in the last quarter of 1961.

Preliminary figures indicate that the payments deficit soared to an annual rate of about $5 billion, not far from the peak rate of $5.7 billion recorded a year earlier at the height of a rush by foreigners to buy American gold.

In the July-September quarter of last year the deficit rate was $3.1 billion.

The deficit, in essence, represents the difference between the amount of money Americans spend, lend, invest and give away abroad and the lesser amount received from foreign sources.

The U.S. balance of payments is considered important because it has a direct impact on the strength and stability of the dollar, the principal Western currency.

The surprising change in the payments situation was disclosed over the weekend by informed sources, who also said the precise cause had not been determined.

Fires on Sunday In County Areas

Firefighters in Ulster County were kept busy on Sunday with blazes in High Falls, East Kingston, Ellenville and Rosendale. The most serious was a bungalow fire in High Falls which caused damage of between $2,000 and $2,500.

According to Chief Jesse Williams of High Falls, fire which started in the kitchen, damaged that room, its ceiling and the attic of the summer bungalow of Charles Ottmyre of New York City. The chief said Ottmyre spends weekends at the place. Stone Ridge gave assistance, filling the High Falls booster tanks, he added. The fire occurred shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday noon.

An unoccupied two - story frame dwelling some 500 yards north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge was levelled by flames early Sunday morning. The fire which started shortly after 1:30 a. m. had gained such headway that the building was beyond saving when the Vols arrived, according to Fire Chief John J. Watzka of East Kingston. He said the place had not been occupied since before the bridge was erected. He also said he believed the house was owned by the Bridge Authority.

Chief George Garrison is investigating a blaze at the Jewish Center in Ellenville about 7 p. m. Sunday. He said only minor damage was caused, the chief added.

Fire at the home of George Moylan on Davis Street in Rosendale did considerable smoke damage. According to Chief Robert Markle, grease from something cooking on the electric range spattered over on the burner and caught fire. Efforts were made to carry the blazing grease outside and some of it spilled on the dining room floor causing slight fire damage there. No estimate of the loss was immediately available.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.
